

Armed Men Truss Up, Rob Rosendale Baker

BY WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Two armed men, one described as being good looking and the other having a "noticeable stomach" were sought today by State Police for questioning in connection with the robbery of a Rosendale bakery.

Shortly before 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, Luciano Cirillo, operator of Ann's Bakery on Route 32 at Rosendale, prepared to close his business establishment for the night. As he walked outside, locked the door and started to enter his car, two men accosted him and forced him to get into the back seat of the vehicle.

State Trooper Thomas Crowley of the Kingston substation, who took part in the investigation with other uniformed troopers from Lake Katrine and Highland and Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers, said one of the robbers was armed with a long-bladed knife. The other brandished a snub-nosed revolver, authorities said.

Crowley said Cirillo told investigators later that one of the pair got in the back seat with him, while the other drove the baker's car to an isolated road near High Falls.

Hands Are Bound

Cirillo was forced to kneel on the floor of his car with his head on the seat. After kneeling, Cirillo's hands were bound behind him tightly. A piece of rope was used, authorities reported.

Troopers said a baby's diaper was tied around the baker's mouth to prevent him from making any outcry as he was driven to the spot near High Falls.

According to Trooper Crowley, who made the preliminary investigation with Trooper Harry Foster, the armed men took Cirillo's wallet containing $110.65, his drivers license and other personal papers.

Cirillo told troopers that the men left him trussed up in the car as they made a getaway on foot. The baker said that sometime after the men left he heard the motor of a car in the distance. Authorities theorized that the pair had left their car parked near the spot where the actual robbery took place on the lonely road.

It was some time before Cirillo managed to free himself from the rope and remove the diaper that gagged him. He drove his car back to Rosendale and immediately notified state police that he had been robbed.

Roadblocks Up

Roadblocks were set up throughout the area and cars were checked as they entered the Kingston-Rhinebeck Bridge. Both men were described as white and in their early 30's. Cirillo could not be reached by a reporter today for comment.

At his bakery, a woman said Cirillo was in bed, apparently recovering from shock and the excitement of the incident last night.

1,200 Prisoners Freed In North Viet Advance

SAIGON (AP) — Communist soldiers boldly moved into a provincial capital early today under cover of a heavy mortar barrage and freed 1,200 prisoners in the most dramatic action of the Red campaign to disrupt and discredit South Vietnam's presidential elections.

A wave of attacks in the five provinces making up the war zone bordering North Vietnam indicated an all-out effort to spread disaffection in the sector which has always been the most politically sensitive in the nation.

There were 29 reported attacks or incidents in the 1st Corps war zone, where the ground war and the political war have blended into a single fierce struggle in the past few days. While the attack on the jail in Quang Ngai was the most spectacular Red assault, the Communists also hit a power station, a helicopter field, a U.S. military advisory compound, a U.S. Seabee camp and a radio station.

The South Vietnamese suffered heavy casualties, including 70 killed and 104 wounded in a combined mortar and ground attack on a Vietnamese army post and district headquarters at Tam Ky.

Three Americans were reported killed and 44 wounded, while known Communist losses were six killed at Quang Ngai and 14 killed at Tam Ky.

In addition to the attacks in the 1st Corps area, Red mortars shelled a camp in the highland city of Dalat, and wounded 10 Americans Tuesday night in a barrage on artillery positions 20 miles northeast of Saigon.

Overshadowed by the intensified Communist campaign in the South, American pilots kept up heavy attacks on North Vietnam and flew 151 missions Tuesday. The U.S. Command said one Marine A4 Skyhawk was lost and the pilot was missing. It was the 664th U.S. combat plane reported lost in the northern air war.

Moving at 2 a.m. today into the capital of Quang Ngai Province, some 300 miles above Saigon, an evidently large force of Communist troops rapidly split up, hit the provincial prison and the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 2nd Infantry Division and mortared the American advisory compound.

Although some 400 prisoners were retaken by dawn, the daring raid was a shattering blow in one of the largest cities in the north. The missing captives include some criminals as well as large numbers of Viet Cong suspects, the equivalent of a full battalion of reinforcements.

Resnick Scores Accusations in Local UR Strife

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick this morning answered charges by members of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency that he (Resnick) had caused the program to come to a standstill.

Resnick, in a statement from his Washington office said, "The resignation of Eric Hemphill has triggered an unwarranted and unprecedented outburst of vindictiveness from certain members of KURA. Perhaps this is to be expected in view of the desperate situation these men found themselves in as a result of their own incompetence."

Shift Blame

"Not willing to assume the responsibility for their own failures they are trying to shift the blame to me. In this particular case this is hard to do without also shifting the facts around and making a number of statements which are not true."

"First, Mr. Hemphill's salary was suspended and the funds for the Broadway East Project frozen by the Regional Office of DHUD—not by me. These drastic steps were taken before I ever became involved. These decisions were made by HUD, only after a long period of investigation of the Broadway East Project which convinced them that the project was badly mismanaged. The area was a mess, unsafe and unsanitary conditions prevailed, and the rights of the area residents were being callously abused."

Today, two more members of the urban renewal agency submitted their resignations, leaving just one member on the board, David C. Schechter. In addition, Attorney S. James Matthews also resigned. Story on Page 18.

"KURA had been warned by HUD of its disapproval but adequate corrective steps were not taken. This was the situation in Kingston when I made my first public statement on this subject. At that time I expressed grave concern at the way Broadway East was being handled."

"I believe that was the very first time that the public at large was given any information of trouble the project was in and why. Up until then, Mr. Hemphill, Mr. Reis and the Board members had hidden these facts from the public."

Held Hearing

"In an effort to bring everything out into the open so that our problems would be understood by the public at large, and so that Kingston's leaders would be impelled to work together for a solution, I held a public hearing on June 30."

"Based on what I already knew of the situation I had previously called for Mr. Hemphill's resignation because, as executive director, he had to assume full responsibility for the project. The public hearing confirmed my decision and I again called for his resignation."

"Despite what Mr. Reis has been saying, it is absurd to suggest that there was anything personal in my decision. Mr. Reis has never produced the slightest shred of evidence that there was any other reason for my decision than the fact that Mr. Hemphill was not doing a good job in Kingston."

"I am sure his skills may be applied professionally in other cities and I sincerely wish him well in his new position in Charleston."

"It is unfortunate that Mr. Reis and Mr. Connelly have gone off the deep end and made wild, irresponsible and false charges."

"For example, Mr. Connelly, who seems to have no respect for the truth at all, accused me of using Mr. Richard Kalish to deliver a threat and ultimatum to Mr. Reis. I don't believe that Mr. Kalish ever made such an absurd statement to Frank Reis. However, I will flatly state that I never made such a statement or asked Mr. Kalish to deliver one."

Denies Pressure

"Furthermore, despite Mr. Connelly's so-called 'rumors' I have never, directly or indirectly, made any recommendations or suggestions to Mayor Garraghan for a new chairman for KURA. However, I feel we need a strong person to deal effectively with the problems that must inevitably arise with a project of this size."

"Mr. Reis' statement that I have called for the resignation of the entire board is not true. The only resignations I have ever called for are Mr. Reis, Mr. Hemphill and S. James Matthews."

"It is a good thing for the City of Kingston that Mr. Reis and Mr. Connelly have resigned. It would have been a better thing if they had not attempted to poison the atmosphere with their letters of resignation."

"I urge everyone to bury the hatchet and forget the past. The key word now in the City of Kingston should be cooperation. It is only by working and solving our problems together that we will turn the dream of a new Kingston into reality."

Wiretap Approval Likely Today

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Foes of legalized wiretapping had to concede failure today as the Constitutional Convention prepared to vote its approval of the practice—with certain safeguards.

The convention made its intention clear Tuesday by overwhelmingly rejecting a proposal to ban all electronic eavesdropping in this state.

Charles S. Desmond, retired chief judge of the state's highest court, led the fight against wiretapping, which he called "a dirty business" and "an excuse for poor police work."

But delegates sympathetic to the law-enforcement officer's viewpoint argued with apparent success that it was valuable weapon in the battle against crime.

After a five-hour debate, the Desmond forces went down to defeat, 105-67.

The vote meant that when the remodeled State Bill of Rights is adopted—probably sometime today—it will include a specific authorization for police to use wiretaps, with court permission.

The convention suspended its consideration of other provisions in the Bill of Rights at 8 p.m. Tuesday, agreeing to resume at 9:30 a.m. today.

The bill includes protections against discrimination, a proposal to expand the right to jury trials in criminal cases and guarantees against unlawful seizure of property, among various fundamental rights.

During a discussion of land condemnation provisions Tuesday night, a delegate offered an amendment that would require the government to reimburse property owners not only for the market value of their property but also for "intangible" values—such as loss of business—when the property is taken for public purposes. The amendment failed to attract sufficient votes for approval, however.

In the background of the wiretapping debate was a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down New York State's law authorizing police wiretaps.

All three local delegates (38th Senatorial District—Ulster-Dutchess) voted against the proposal. They include S. James Matthews, H. Clark Bell and R. Watson Pomeroy.

The wiretap language inserted in the proposed new Bill of Rights was designed to meet the specific objections raised by the high tribunal.

The provision would permit the presiding justices of the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division to grant orders for wiretaps or other eavesdropping devices on application of a district attorney or the state attorney general. The applicant would have to detail his reasons for seeking permission.

As originally drawn, the proposal would have permitted a presiding justice to designate any State Supreme Court judge to issue such an order in his behalf. After the Desmond proposal was defeated, however, an amendment was adopted tightening that a bit.

As the proposal now stands, a presiding justice would be limited to designating one associate justice of his Appellate Division, plus one Supreme Court justice for each judicial district in the division.

Desmond's strong attack on the practice of wiretapping, as an invasion of personal privacy, drew forceful rejoinders from Democratic Delegate Aaron E. Koota and Republican Richard J. Bartlett.

City Manager Plan Here -- 6 Aldermen 'Nay'

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

If Kingston aldermen have anything to say about the city manager form of government, the plan would be disposed of in short order.

Of the seven aldermen contacted by The Freeman, six are against the system and only one for it.

The issue violates sacred party lines and of the six aldermen who came out against the plan, three were Democrats and three were Republicans.

Only 11th Ward's Raymond Armater, a Republican, favored the idea.

Under the city manager plan, Kingston would hire a full-time professional administrator on a two or three-year non-contract basis. He would be in charge of making up the budget, which would have to be approved by the city's legislators.

The manager would also be in charge of all hiring and firing and, in general, would be what the mayor is now.

The mayor would become a figurehead, work at a much lesser salary, be a ribbon cutter and a professional greeter.

The city manager, while not an elected official, could be fired by elected legislators who came to the conclusion that his performance was something less than brilliant.

"I don't like it," said Sixth Ward Alderman Joseph Epstein, "because the people have no choice."

This appears to be the crux of the opposition to the plan, whether the manager can be fired or not.

Epstein fears the loss of what he calls "the human touch."

Realizing that a city manager would be a man who would be chosen from outside the city area, and therefore not at the mercy of personal relationships and pressure groups which favored him over someone else, Epstein said, "The city should be run by a man who lives here, who knows the people, and has his roots here."

The alderman added that such a man "would be more apt to do things" for the people.

"An appointed man" on the other hand, "may not give a darn for anybody."

Epstein admitted that an elected mayor may well have been the victor "of a popularity contest" but, if he doesn't do his job "the people can oust him the next time" he comes up for reelection.

"I believe in ward representation. It holds a man responsible for things that go wrong," Epstein concluded.

First Ward Republican Alderman George Margolis agrees with Epstein.

"The chief executive should be elected by all the people," the GOP'er claimed, and he voiced the opinion that "the Mayor's salary may have to be raised to $15,000 or more."

Second Ward's Robert C. Schantz, a Republican, is worried about the cost of the operation along with the idea that a person unfamiliar with the city would not be able to cope with the root problems of the city.

"I feel that a fellow going for mayor has as much qualification as a city manager, even though the manager may have a college degree," said Schantz.

Republican John Naccarato of the Third Ward agrees that he does not know all the aspects of the city manager arrangement but "right now I would have to say that I'm against it."

Clifford Sinsabaugh, Democrat of the Fifth Ward, agrees with the others, however, and reiterates that the chief executive "should be a man who has his roots here" and that, only then, "could he have an interest in the city at large."

"If the city manager (concept) were as good as it's cracked up to be, more cities in New York would have had it."

Sinsabaugh believes that a city administrator would be a man "looking for greener pastures" and that Kingston would prove to be only a stepping stone for such an individual.

"You have a high caliber of men in Kingston," said the alderman, and he mentioned incumbent Democrat Raymond W. Garraghan and former Republican Oscar V. Newkirk as outstanding mayors.

Democrat James F. Howard of the 10th Ward agrees with the present system and that a city manager "would just come in here to build up a reputation and then move on."

Eleventh Ward's Raymond Armater, a Republican, disagrees with all the others.

He said, "We need professional help pretty badly. We've had enough so-called businessmen and politicians."

The Republican believes that the mayor "can attend civic affairs and various dinners" for which he would get "a few thousand dollars" for the figurehead position.

"Put the mayor on the shelf where he can't do any harm," Armater said, adding, "What we need is professional direction."

What must be added is that, given a city manager, the man would most likely cut down on the number of aldermen so as to run the operation with more speed, having less people to answer to, people who could possibly slow down the machinery.

Whether this would make for more efficient operation of a city remains a question.

In Poughkeepsie though, after the city manager setup was adopted, the city was redistricted and the number of aldermen dropped from 16 to eight.

Kingston's aldermen evidently have kept this example in mind.

A number of aldermen felt, however, that a city is not just a "big business" needing a technician to run the operation smoothly, but rather a place defined by its human needs and that the only person who could be held responsible for the satisfying of those needs would be the elected official.

Democratic representation appears to be the key issue behind the opposition to the city manager plan.

City Manager Plan Here -- 6 Aldermen 'Nay'

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
If Kingston aldermen have anything to say about the city manager form of government, the plan would be disposed of in short order.

Of the seven aldermen contacted by The Freeman, six are against the system and only one for it.

The issue violates sacred party lines and of the six aldermen who came out against the plan, three were Democrats and three were Republicans.

Only 11th Ward's Raymond Armater, a Republican, favored the idea.

Under the city manager plan, Kingston would hire a full-time professional administrator on a two- or three-year non-contract basis. He would be in charge of making up the budget, which would have to be approved by the city's legislators.

The manager would also be in charge of all hiring and firing and, in general, would be what the mayor is now.

The mayor would become a figurehead, work at a much lesser salary, be a ribbon cutter and a professional greeter.

The city manager, while not an elected official, could be fired by elected legislators who came to the conclusion that his performance was something less than brilliant.

"I don't like it," said Sixth Ward Alderman Joseph Epstein, "because the people have no choice."

This appears to be the crux of the opposition to the plan, whether the manager can be fired or not.

Epstein fears the loss of what he calls "the human touch."

Realizing that a city manager would be a man who would be chosen from outside the city area, and therefore not at the mercy of personal relationships and pressure groups which favored him over someone else, Epstein said, "The city should be run by a man who lives here, who knows the people, and has his roots here."

The alderman added that such a man "would be more apt to do things" for the people.

"An appointed man" on the other hand, "may not give a darn for anybody."

Epstein admitted that an elected mayor may well have been the victor "of a popularity contest" but, if he doesn't do his job "the people can cast him the next time" he comes up for reelection.

"I believe in ward representation. It holds a man responsible for things that go wrong," Epstein concluded.

First Ward Republican Alderman George Margolis agrees with Epstein.

"The chief executive should be elected by all the people," the GOP'er claimed, and he voiced the opinion that "the Mayor's salary may have to be raised to $15,000 or more."

Second Ward's Robert C. Schantz, a Republican, is worried about the cost of the operation along with the idea that a person unfamiliar with the city would not be able to cope with the root problems of the city.

"I feel that a fellow going for mayor has as much qualification as a city manager, even though the manager may have a college degree," said Schantz.

Republican John Naccarato of the Third Ward agrees that he does not know all the aspects of the city manager arrangement but "right now I would have to say that I'm against it."

Clifford Sinsabaugh, Democrat of the Fifth Ward, agrees with the others, however, and reiterates that the chief executive "should be a man who has his roots here" and that, only then, "could he have an interest in the city at large."

If the city manager (concept) were as good as it's cracked up to be, more cities in New York would have had it."

Sinsabaugh believes that a city administrator would be a man "looking for greener pastures" and that Kingston would prove to be only a stepping stone for such an individual.

"You have a high caliber of men in Kingston," said the alderman, and he mentioned incumbent Democrat Raymond W. Garraghan and former Republican Oscar V. Newkirk as outstanding mayors.

Democrat James F. Howard of the 10th Ward agrees with the present system and that a city manager "would just come in here to build up a reputation and then move on."

Eleventh Ward's Raymond Armater, a Republican, disagrees with all the others.

He said, "We need professional help pretty badly. We've had enough so-called businessmen and politicians."

The Republican believes that the mayor "can attend civic affairs and various dinners" for which he would get "a few thousand dollars" for the figurehead position.

"Put the mayor on the shelf where he can't do any harm," Armater said, adding, "What we need is professional direction."

What must be added is that, given a city manager, the man would most likely cut down on the number of aldermen so as to run the operation with more speed, having less people to answer to, people who could possibly slow down the machinery.

Whether this would make for more efficient operation of a city remains a question.

In Poughkeepsie though, after the city manager setup was adopted, the city was redistricted and the number of aldermen dropped from 16 to eight.

Kingston's aldermen evidently have kept this example in mind.

A number of aldermen felt, however, that a city is not just a "big business" needing a technician to run the operation smoothly, but rather a place defined by its human needs and that the only person who could be held responsible for the satisfying of those needs would be the elected official.

Democratic representation appears to be the key issue behind the opposition to the city manager plan.

California Pushing Toward Powerful State Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Proclaimed in bold golden letters high over Abraham Lincoln's portrait and the elevated speaker's rostrum of the California Assembly is the Latin sentence, "Legislatorium Est Justas Leges Condere."

Translation: "It is the duty of legislators to make just laws."

But far more than that, believes Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, the 20th century legislature should be an enlightened, vigorous, inventive and effective law making body.

The 44-year-old Unruh is California's most potent legislator, and its most powerful Democrat in the wake of last fall's Republican election victories which placed Ronald Reagan in the governor's chair.

Elsewhere, whenever he has the chance, Unruh is one of the nation's most energetic and outspoken advocates of a strong state government and particularly an independent legislature, free from outside pressures and with the prestige and power similar to those of the nation's restless early years.

Cites Power Vacuums

For decades, too many legislative halls have been power vacuums, Unruh feels, echoing and rubber-stamping the demands of special interest groups.

Now Unruh sees the pendulum beginning to swing back, with California in the forefront. "It's very slow," said Unruh during an interview in his office, part of an expansive complex which houses the speaker's staff. His own office is decorated with modern paintings and mementoes of Unruh's travels and his association with the Kennedy family.

Seldom does Unruh preside over the Assembly, and he normally speaks—in eloquent rising and falling tones—only on the major issues, or a pet bill.

The prime resistances to strong state legislatures comes from the business community, Unruh contends, "not so much out of fear of the legislature, but because businessmen know what their situation is now and they don't know what it would be."

Other opposition comes from the vast federal bureaucracy, Unruh further believes, citing a fruitless attempt to get a federal study grant for legislative leaders.

Despite all this, Unruh says states have done more in the past three years than in the previous half century to equip their governments with the tools needed to act decisively.

Long Way to Go

"It has begun...but there is a long way to go," Unruh said. California has come far. All 120 legislators—80 in the Assembly and 40 in the Senate—have offices, both in the Capitol and in their home districts. Most have an administrative assistant.

Committees and their chairmen have staff consultants for research, and the legislative branch has its own well-paid fiscal and legal experts.

Last fall, Californians overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment, making the legislator's post virtually a fulltime job. The measure established annual general sessions, with no limit on length or subject matter. Legislators' salaries went from $6,000 to $16,000 a year, and they were covered by a code of ethics.

$21,000 Per Year

Counting his $25 a day expense allowance, the California legislator earned more than $21,000 for the record 217-day-long 1967 regular session.

It's too early for the amendment to produce dramatic changes, Unruh said. But one effect has been to ease the crush of bills, including critical financial measures, which used to pile up toward the end of the former 120-day regular sessions.

A major criticism of the national Committee for Economic Development in a recent report was that legislative seats were unattractive to qualified candidates and legislators too often were nonentities, unknown to many of their constituents.

Unruh concurs in the need for legislators to be in public view. "Visibility is the greatest safeguard against corruption...the greatest guarantee of performance," he said. "The less visibility you have, the more schlocky (inept) legislators you have."

Thieu-Ky Ticket Appears In: AP

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the military candidates for president and vice president in South Vietnam's election Sunday, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of the voters live.

The leading civilian candidate, former Premier Tran Van Huong, is making inroads against the military ticket in the urban areas of the eight major cities. He is expected to get more votes than his nine civilian rivals but not nearly enough to overtake the powerful military bloc.

These are the conclusions of Associated Press correspondents who felt the pulse of the country in interviews with more than 300 voters scattered from South Vietnam's northernmost provinces down into the Mekong delta.

Few Know Issues

The interviews indicated that only about one per cent of the 5.8 million registered voters have any idea of the campaign issues.

The Saigon intellectuals, the only people really discussing the election with any depth, are generally opposed to the military and support one of the four leading civilian tickets. One civilian slate headed by the Dai Viet party leader, Ha Thuc Ky, appears to have a major following in the northern provinces around Da Nang and Quang Tri. The Dai Viet political machine has been active there for years.

The three other leading civilians have pockets of support in the old imperial city of Hue, Da Nang, Nha Trang on the central coast, Dalat, Saigon and the delta cities of Can Tho and My Tho.

More than half of those interviewed said they were either undecided or did not wish to discuss their vote. Among the undecided were the rice farmers, drivers of bicycle cabs, vendors in the market places and soldiers in the countryside.

This bloc comprises roughly 80 per cent of the voters and will be decisive. But the military slate will probably capture most of this vote because the government structure that Thieu and Ky control spreads its roots so deep into the population that the civilian candidates cannot hope to match its influence.

Down in Cities

In the rural areas, where the government has a tight rein on the villages and hamlets under its control, registration for the elections has gone up. In the cities it has declined since the last election.

In Saigon only 176,000 voters have registered out of 600,000 eligible. Although 60 per cent of the population of Vietnam is regarded as rural, 80 per cent of the registered voters are from the countryside.

The low city registration will reduce the vote for the civilian candidates.

Voters say the overriding election issue is peace, an end to the war that has split Vietnam asunder and grown into greater intensity with each day.

War Only Problem

"There is only one problem in Vietnam," said an appliance store owner in Hue, "and that is the war."

"I am for the man who will try to achieve peace," said a Roman Catholic priest in Da Nang, "and it must come very soon for our society is disintegrating."

Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan told The Freeman a call was received at his office at 10:50 p.m. reporting someone was trying to break into Teddy's TV Appliance Center near LaGrangeville. Deputy Sheriff William Herman and Gerald Caplan investigated.

Saw Car Leave

The deputies saw a car leaving the area where the store is located, and head toward Poughkeepsie. Caplan remained at the store to investigate with the owner Frederick Laboure. Herman trailed the car in which three men were riding.

Quinlan said Herman kept the car under close surveillance until he had an opportunity to overtake it and force the driver to the curb on a city street.

The accused men were identified as Robert McClintock, 18, of 139 South Hamilton Street; William Henry Johnson, 23, of 1 Gifford Avenue; and Frederick Marks Jr., 20, of 96 Winnikee Avenue, all of Poughkeepsie.

Innocent Plea

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Erven Meddaugh, Town of LaGrange, the trio pleaded innocent. They were committed to the county jail in Poughkeepsie in lieu of $1,000 bail each.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday, Sept. 5 for preliminary examination.

The television store is located at the Haviland Shopping Plaza near LaGrangeville.

SLAM IT HARD — Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen said Tuesday the time has come "to slam the door . . . and slam it hard" on Black Power leaders Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael. Dirksen and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, accusing the Johnson administration of heading into "full retreat" in the war against crime, joined in calling for greater protection of law-abiding citizens. Nab Poughkeepsie Men On Burglary Charges

Alertness of a Dutchess County deputy sheriff late Tuesday night resulted in the apprehension of three Poughkeepsie men on charges of third degree burglary.

Thieu-Ky Ticket Appears In: AP

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the military candidates for president and vice president in South Vietnam's election Sunday, appear certain to carry the rural areas where 80 per cent of the voters live.

The leading civilian candidate, former Premier Tran Van Huong, is making inroads against the military ticket in the urban areas of the eight major cities. He is expected to get more votes than his nine civilian rivals but not nearly enough to overtake the powerful military bloc.

These are the conclusions of Associated Press correspondents who felt the pulse of the country in interviews with more than 300 voters scattered from South Vietnam's northernmost provinces down into the Mekong delta.

Few Know Issues — The interviews indicated that only about one per cent of the 5.8 million registered voters have any idea of the campaign issues.

The Saigon intellectuals, the only people really discussing the election with any depth, are generally opposed to the military and support one of the four leading civilian tickets.

One civilian slate headed by the Dai Viet party leader, Ha Thuc Ky, appears to have a major following in the northern provinces around Da Nang and Quang Tri. The Dai Viet political machine has been active there for years.

The three other leading civilians have pockets of support in the old imperial city of Hue, Da Nang, Nha Trang on the central coast, Dalat, Saigon and the delta cities of Can Tho and My Tho.

More than half of those interviewed said they were either undecided or did not wish to discuss their vote. Among the undecided were the rice farmers, drivers of bicycle cabs, vendors in the market places and soldiers in the countryside.

This bloc comprises roughly 80 per cent of the voters and will be decisive. But the military slate will probably capture most of this vote because the government structure that Thieu and Ky control spreads its roots so deep into the population that the civilian candidates cannot hope to match its influence.

Down in Cities — In the rural areas, where the government has a tight rein on the villages and hamlets under its control, registration for the elections has gone up. In the cities it has declined since the last election.

In Saigon only 176,000 voters have registered out of 600,000 eligible. Although 60 per cent of the population of Vietnam is regarded as rural, 80 per cent of the registered voters are from the countryside.

The low city registration will reduce the vote for the civilian candidates.

Voters say the overriding election issue is peace, an end to the war that has split Vietnam asunder and grown into greater intensity with each day.

War Only Problem — "There is only one problem in Vietnam," said an appliance store owner in Hue, "and that is the war."

"I am for the man who will try to achieve peace," said a Roman Catholic priest in Da Nang, "and it must come very soon for our society is disinte-

Frustration in Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If anything were needed to convince the North Vietnam government that they can gain their ends by prolonging the war, it is the news that comes over the wires nowadays from Washington.

Not only is it clearly evident that the hands of the American armed services are being tied and that they are being prevented by the Secretary of Defense from using maximum power to win the war, but the enemy is being informed, in effect, that the United States is hesitant to take the steps which could lead to victory.

Portions of the testimony before the Preparedness Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee now have been made public which indicate that the military chiefs do not relish the restriction imposed on them in fighting the war.

General Wallace M. Greene, Commandant of the Marine Corps, told the committee, for example, that the United States "must make it as difficult and costly as we can for Hanoi to support the war." He emphatically recommended, as he has heretofore, "a stronger air campaign against North Vietnam," because he believes this "must be a necessary part of our strategy."

General Greene summed up the situation from the military viewpoint when he declared that the enemy is counting on its own patience, the lack of American patience and the gradual attrition of our forces in the south in order to be assured of victory.

The doctor's house call seems to be phasing out. Medicine drifts inexorably toward the factory plan, with its privately owned centers for assorted specialists, the elegant waiting rooms with muted music, the racks of mutilated magazines, the omnipotent card index system and the starched nurses, whose function is to serve as a buffer between patient and doctor.

It's as impersonal as a sterilized cattle pen. To the sick, the system is anathema, because they expect empathy as well as therapy. Still, it must be acknowledged that better medicine is available as a result of this detached system than under the old scheme where the general practitioner knew every member of the family and could recall at will whether it was Aunt Lucy who had the rheumatism and little Joe who had the tonsils, or vice versa.

The metamorphosis occurred 25 years ago. The military services organized a physiological rabbit warren, in which humans were passed from one examining room to another. The Mayo Brothers worked out a similar assortment of specialists. Once, at Riverside Air Base in California, I reported to an Air Force team at 7 a. m. At 11:15 I concluded the last of the examinations in a pressure tank.

It is impersonal and has about as much human warmth as a gynecologist watching a burlesque stripper. The patient is an assortment of deficiencies, written on a card. Often, a nurse, flitting in and out of a room, does the routine work, such as blood chemistry and X-rays. The ill sit in backless gowns, moving moodily and nudily from corridor to corridor, sitting down, standing up, lying down on command, sometimes briefly seeing a doctor who looks like a cheerful Cyclops with a reflector on his forehead. The medic

General Harold K. Johnson, chief of staff of the United States Army, testified that the aerial assault has "contributed significantly" and is essential to the success of the military effort in Southeast Asia.

Equally positive is the statement by Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Subcommittee, who unhesitatingly emphasizes that the testimony of the military witnesses appears to be "in clear and direct conflict" with the views expressed by Secretary of Defense McNamara last Friday.

Mr. Stennis said, moreover, that the military witnesses had "stated very clearly and strongly that they had not been able to gain approval to strike militarily important targets which they have recommended."

The senator pointed out also that Secretary McNamara had sought "to depreciate the importance or significance of the unapproved targets," and asked why, if the military leaders recommended these targets for air strikes, they do not appear to the secretary of defense to have "appreciable military significance."

The controversy between the secretary of defense and the heads of the armed services on the subject of strategy has produced a sense of frustration in Congress.

Some senators who have been urging a procedure that amounts to what has been called in the past "peace at any price" now feel encouraged to intensify their efforts along the same line.

Thus far the Hanoi government has shown no signs of coming to the peace table. The only reason given in the press dispatches which seem logical is that the North Vietnamese believe that, if they persist in carrying on the war, they will make it more and more expensive for the United States and eventually bring about a humiliating withdrawal which would be hailed throughout the world as the biggest defeat that the United States has ever suffered.

Communist imperialists everywhere would then rejoice. Recently the theory has been advanced that, when the elections in South Vietnam have taken place, the United States will turn the whole problem over to the government in Saigon and let it try to conduct negotiations on its own. This, of course, would hardly prevent North Vietnam from adopting a domineering role.

What isn't generally realized is that if the Vietnam war should have such a tragic result, another war in Southeast Asia could break out after a short interval, and the United States might become directly involved with Red China because Peiping might make the same kind of miscalculation that Hitler did. The assumption again would be that the United States had decided not to enter any major war thousands of miles away from its shores. This illusion, fostered by retreat in Vietnam, constitutes the real danger for the future.

over to look at the patient, even though the symptoms may be a week old. If nothing else will work, he will get on the phone and try to think of medication which will ameliorate the situation until the patient can be brought to his office in the morning. Often, he will even phone the pharmacy to get a prescription. His calling is the highest paid in the world, and, with Medicare, is going higher, but his distaste for the house call increases. It's a time killer.

The internist bands together with the cardiologist, the orthodontist, the pediatrician, to set up the all-purpose medical museum. The work is parcelled neatly, but the tide of people is so enormous that the average arthritic, for example, often finds he cannot get an appointment for 10 days or two weeks. When he arrives, the nurse says: "Doctor is a little behind schedule. Take a seat."

The new improved system has effectively divorced the doctor from his patients. Once, the patient paid the doctors directly. Now, a machine clumps its keys across a billing sheet and lists charges in the most general manner, and the price for less and less grows more and more. For those with static incomes, or pensions, the price of medicine is almost as frightening as the fee.

And yet, the world of medicine in return gives more hope to the hopeless, and lays out additional thousands of dollars for equipment. It is difficult to divine how a boy or girl can be transmuted into the well-equipped field of medicine for less than $50,000 today. No other profession begins with a larger economic handicap.

Still, I long for the days when a doctor didn't have to look up my name before he said hello.

Drew Pearson Says Artificial Sweeteners

WASHINGTON—Locked in secret files AF 12-567 and NDA 7-258 at the Food and Drug Administration is disturbing evidence that government's doctors are less assured than its spokesmen about the harmless effects of artificial sweeteners.

The soaring consumption of diet drinks and low-calorie desserts, indeed, has deepened the doctors' concern. Yet the FDA still stands on its May 20, 1965, announcement that "there is no evidence that cyclamates (sugar substitutes), at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

At the same time this conclusion was announced out of the front office, the doctors were expressing grave doubts in the back rooms. The conclusion supposedly was based upon "new experimental data of the safety of cyclamates, including animal studies, tests involving ingestion by children and other data."

However, this column has been given a surreptitious peek at file AF 12-567, which shows that the tests were just beginning at the time of the May, 1965, announcement. The results were carefully segregated, incidentally, so doctors could not review the complete data but only the details that concerned them.

The FDA, having previously certified artificial sweeteners as safe, could hardly retract its endorsement without leaving the nation's food-and-beverage distributors with a lot of low-calorie soda pop on their hands.

Throughout the controversy, no one has been more eager to protect the public from alleged evils of sugar substitutes than the sugar industry, which stands to lose millions because of the diet craze.

As early as 1964, the Sugar Foundation commissioned the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation to investigate the low-calorie threat. Its doctors triumphantly discovered that artificial sweeteners can stunt the growth of rats. Laboratory rats, treated to sugar-free soft drinks, suffered a 12 to 50 per cent loss of growth.

People vs. Rats

The experiment brought an outraged howl from such enterprises as Abbott Laboratories, which produces cyclamates, and Royal Crown Cola, which was first on the market with diet cola. They protested that people, at least biologically speaking, aren't rats.

As the two rival industries squared off, information on cyclamates began to spill over the scientific embankment into the lay lands below.

FDA's doctors, in particular, became increasingly concerned over the mass usage of artificial sweeteners. A drop or two in a cup of coffee, they agreed, was no health menace. But evidence began to show up of adverse effects on people whose intake was heavy.

H. P. Packscher of Food and Drug put through a long-distance call to Abbott Laboratories in Chicago on March 4, 1965. He reached Hartley Ericson, then dictated a memo for the secret file.

"I called Mr. Ericson," Packscher dictated, "to arrange a meeting to discuss the data on Sucaryl (a sweetener) which Abbott submitted last fall, providing our staff members an opportunity to ask questions which they feel are unanswered in the submissions."

The meeting was held on March 17. A "memorandum of conference," summarizing the discussion, declared:

"The toxicologists report that the cyclamates are poorly absorbed and pharmacologically inert. The absorbed portion is excreted unchanged in the urine, while that remaining in the intestine provokes diarrhea when given in large amounts. . . . Clinically, the organ system about which there is some concern is the liver."

Because of the uncertainties, the doctors sought more data. It was agreed at a subsequent meeting, April 13, 1965, to go ahead with several tests. The confidential report of the discussion indicated a lack of enthusiasm by the Abbott representatives.

"The discussion of present and proposed studies in children," said the report, "brought out several problems, including issues which we had regarded as needing resolution. . . . The Abbott representatives cited difficulties associated with developing long-term studies in children. Appropriate groups are difficult to find. Orphanages, for example, do not have many young children, and the older ones come in and go out of these institutions. Also, there are legal problems involved. . . .

Abbott Drags Heels

"Concerning the daily dose of cyclamates used in the study, the feeling was that higher doses would interfere with the children's eating habits. There still remains the question of what happens to children who drink 10 bottles of soft drink with artificial sweetener per day. At present there is no answer. . . . The issue of cyclamate secretion in the milk of lactating mothers was raised, and the firm stated they are doing studies in animals."

Dr. G. R. Hazel of Abbott delivered a lecture on how insignificant a percentage of cyclamates goes into soft drinks. "He stated further," said the report, "that probably less than 25 per cent of sugar is replaced by artificial sweeteners. Finally, Abbott feels the current proposals do not represent the end, but rather they are thinking in terms of three to five years to develop scientific and medical information on the cyclamates."

Without waiting for these studies, FDA issued its announcement that cyclamates were safe. But it didn't reckon with the sugar lobby, which brought pressure from Capitol Hill for a more thorough investigation.

FDA finally slipped a $46,000 contract to Albany Medical College under the guise of a pesticide study to look deeper into the health effects of artificial sweeteners. Dr. Frederick Coulston, who is directing the study, is not ready to announce the results.

But he would say this much: "The use of artificial sweeteners should be restricted to persons who really need to cut out sugar. It is possible their use will get out of hand."

Note: Dr. Coulston claims FDA is now negotiating a new contract with him. But the FDA, in keeping with its secrecy over sweeteners, denied to this column that a new contract would be negotiated.

Henry J. Taylor Says De Gaulle Helps Red Space Plans

PARIS—To NATO's dismay, President Charles de Gaulle has ordered his nuclear group to build the world's largest bubble chamber for a Soviet 70 million-volt electron accelerator. Supplementing Soviet expertise, France will install it at the Serpukhov nuclear arsenal, 65 miles from Moscow.

In addition, NATO's intelligence has learned that de Gaulle will begin extensive cooperation with the USSR's space program, including the orbiting of nuclear weapons, to which this column referred from the NATO headquarters in Brussels and in which the Soviet is now investing a substantial percentage of its total military budget.

By October, timed for the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, France will begin receiving the Soviet series of color television propaganda broadcasts through the French-developed "Secam 3" system of the Compagnie Francaise De Television, which will link the two countries.

The French Ministry of Interior's top tool in espionage is SDECE (Service de Documentation Extérieure et de Contre Espionage). Friends of long standing in it tell me, in fright, that their organization has been penetrated through-out by Soviet and Red Chinese agents.

Meanwhile, de Gaulle has added 874 technical, industrial and agricultural items to France's eligibility list for delivery to Russia, Red China and the satellites. These include an alarming array of bottleneck items for which the Kremlin appears to have successfully negotiated with de Gaulle on his state visit to Moscow last year. De Gaulle's action excludes only East Germany and North Korea, with whom France has no official diplomatic relations.

As one result, Red China is now the second largest receiver of French scientific and other goods among all the Communist countries to which de Gaulle is lending support.

The French mystic, who has fallen out of phase with the French people themselves, has backed this up by appointing former Foreign Ministry Economie Division Director Olivier Wormser as his Ambassador to Moscow, and de Gaulle now operates there directly through the man who has been France's chief economic negotiator for the past 10 years.

De Gaulle's unvarying formula is to first tour an assortment of his cabinet members through the Communist capitals and then send in delegations of private French industrialists, chosen from among those who play the de Gaulle game best.

But when you talk with these men you find that time and results have soured even many of the chosen ones. The Soviet, Red China and the bloc countries ask for five-and-10-year payment terms. West Germany exported more than $1 billion in goods and investments to the Iron Curtain countries last year, and this overextension through long credit terms is now boomeranging against the West German economy. The same thing is happening here.

The Reds insist on constantly renegotiating settled agreements. Agreed prices are changed downward after deliveries on the threat of rejecting the goods. Personnel revolves through the state-controlled agencies.

"It's like doing business with a sputtering pinwheel," one French banker told me.

"They change teams as soon as you have signed the contract. It becomes impossible even to locate the original negotiations. They're 'on vacation,' transferred or something. And they top this off by systematically using illegible signatures on all contracts. The incredible Communist bureaucratic red tape is used for deliberate purposes, and confusion that results in nonpayment plays a big part, just as Krupp discovered to his sorrow in Germany."

Partly due to this, the French paid-for export balance has now sprung some leaks below the waterline. Last year France's imports were up nearly 15 per cent against an export gain of less than 9 per cent. The 1966 trade deficit was $967 million. It is now running at the annual rate of about $1½ billion. The dollar loss in the tourist debacle is contributing severely to this.

Fanned by the official anti-Americanism that blazes on the radio and television and the wall posters here that read "Americans Go Home," all senselessly accelerated since April 7, when our flag was torn from the staff of the American Cathedral and burned in the streets, the results have killed off 30 per cent of the normal American tourist trade and 40 per cent on the Riviera.

New Gun Law
Editor, The Freeman

An open letter to Senator R. F. Kennedy.
I would like to know what you do with your time, watch television or read comic books perhaps? What will this new gun law accomplish, nothing. If a man or woman wants to kill someone, tight gun laws will not prevent him from doing so. Have you ever heard of home made guns, zip guns, lead pipes, tire irons, knives, etc. Why don't you take away knives and forks because they can kill too.

You blame, in part, the N.R.A. I sincerely hope the N.R.A. starts a campaign to have its members vote against you when elections roll around. Let's say there are fifty thousand members, you have lost fifty thousand votes. And don't forget to include mine. I am not a member of the N.R.A. but I will definitely vote against you and any other Senator who is foolish enough to believe he can stop murder by taking away what is ours in the Constitution. By the way, how do you propose to get around that, re-write the Constitution to suit your liking?

Urban Renewal Questions

Who will be Congressman Resnick's "czar" to direct Kingston's urban renewal program? Surely, no one questions the immutable fact that Mayor Garrahan must first clear appointments to the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency with Resnick if we are ever going to clear up this sorry mess.

This is but one of the many questions that must be answered in the bitter urban renewal row here now that the executive director, the agency chairman and members of the agency are resigning.

Resnick called for the creation of a "czar" to oversee both the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and the Kingston Housing Authority at his one-man congressional hearing at the Recreation Center in the downtown section of the city.

There are a number of other questions, such as:

When the new agency is formed, will it be a high-calibre organization comprised of devoted and dedicated citizens similar to those who have been serving or will it be just an adjunct—a political sub-division of one of the congressman's offices?

Who has Resnick in mind for the chairmanship of the local agency and how will this individual set with the mayor?

Time will tell and in the meantime the political bickering will continue with the City of Kingston suffering.

From the moment politics was injected into the redevelopment program, Kingston urban renewal has been beset with controversy finally flaring into a full-grown battle.

Wherever urban renewal projects were started, there have been problems, but none has been as distressing as Kingston's. The main difficulty here was lack of suitable housing for persons left homeless by a too rapid pace of demolition.

One final question: Must there be more resignations in the city before the urban renewal project is rehabilitated?

One long-term casualty of the recent fighting in the Near East is the loss of perhaps $20 million in American tourist trade to the Arab countries. Americans have shunned the area since they recalled their diplomatic representatives, but there is little reason to stay away now—and travelers are getting red carpet treatment at low cost.

Accident Prone Nation

National Safety Council figures for the year 1966 indicate that ours is perhaps the most accident-prone nation in the world. Consider these statistics:

Fifty million Americans, one-fourth of the nation, were injured in accidents.

Home, on-the-job, at-work and traffic accidents disabled 11 million persons.

There were 113,000 persons killed in accidents of all kinds, an average of 310 a day, 13 an hour.

Traffic killed 53,000, or 1,000 a week and another week to spare.

Accidents cost the nation $20 billion, an amount equal to the cost of the war in Vietnam last year.

Lost wages cost $5.9 billion, striking directly at the bread and butter of countless thousands of families.

It is usual this time of the year to recite the traffic accident toll, and that is bad enough. But it may not be realized that total accidents kill even more than those killed in the horrors on the highways. People must be as wary of the risks on the job and at home as they are on the road.

The lesson is plain. The more gadgets and other comforts we can afford, the more dangers we face. When life was simple and bucolic, the risks were few and easily met. Now that our whole civilization is mechanized and automated, the machine takes its toll among the unwary. Respect it and take care to heed its risks and they will fade. Give it its head, and it will run over you.

Escaping accidents is knowing how to live with machines which provide so many of today's comforts, from the automobile that takes us everywhere to the dish washer that eases our chores.

The national requirement today is a fifth grade education. Senator Vance Hartke, Indiana Democrat, would have Congress make high school education a minimum requirement. That is more important than a free higher education, because it will educate more of our young people for the mass skills needed in the immediate future.

There will be no American unmanned landing on Mars in 1973. The House Appropriations Committee lopped off the $71.5 million sought by the space agency for this initial probe. We're committed to landing a man on the moon. We don't want to get involved in further space exploration at least until after the war in Vietnam and the poverty war are won.

Frustration in Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If anything were needed to convince the North Vietnam government that they can gain their ends by prolonging the war, it is the news that comes over the wires nowadays from Washington.

Not only is it clearly evident that the hands of the American armed services are being tied and that they are being prevented by the Secretary of Defense from using maximum power to win the war, but the enemy is being informed, in effect, that the United States is hesitant to take the steps which could lead to victory.

Portions of the testimony before the Preparedness Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee now have been made public which indicate that the military chiefs do not relish the restriction imposed on them in fighting the war.

General Wallace M. Greene, Commandant of the Marine Corps, told the committee, for example, that the United States "must make it as difficult and costly as we can for Hanoi to support the war." He emphatically recommended, as he has heretofore, "a stronger air campaign against North Vietnam," because he believes this "must be a necessary part of our strategy."

General Greene summed up the situation from the military viewpoint when he declared that the enemy is counting on its own patience, the lack of American patience and the gradual attrition of our forces in the south in order to be assured of victory.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The doctor's house call seems to be phasing out. Medicine drifts inexorably toward the factory plant, with its privately owned, for-profit, specialized, the elegant waiting rooms with muted music, the racks of mutilated magazines, the omnipotent card index system and the starched nurses, whose function is to serve as a buffer between patient and doctor.

It's as impersonal as a sterilized cattle pen. To the sick, the system is anathema, because they expect empathy as well as therapy. Still, it must be acknowledged that better medicine is available as a result of this detached system than under the old scheme where the general practitioner knew every member of the family and could recall at will whether it was Aunt Lucy who had the rheumatism and little Joe who had the tonsils, or vice versa.

The metamorphosis occurred 25 years ago. The military services organized a physiological rabbit warren, in which humans were passed from one examining room to another. The Mayo Brothers worked out a similar assortment of specialists. Once, at Riverside Air Base in California, I reported to an Air Force team at 7 a. m. At 11:15 I concluded the last of the examinations in a pressure tank.

It is impersonal and has about as much human warmth as a gynecologist watching a burlesque stripper. The patient is an assortment of deficiencies, written on a card. Often, a nurse, flitting in and out of a room, does the routine work, such as blood chemistry and X-rays. The ill sit in backless gowns, moving moodily and nudily from corridor to corridor, sitting down, standing up, lying down on command, sometimes briefly seeing a doctor who looks like a cheerful Cyclops with a reflector on his forehead. The medic is hearty and friendly, or grim and uncommunicative. He asks many questions, seldom gives any information.

If the patient is harassed, so is the doctor. His function is to do as much work in as little time as possible. He has a certain number of patients he can see, not counting the friends he must "squeeze" in without notice. He also has morning and night hospital rounds. He has a wife who pleads for a social life. He has medical reading to do. What matters least to him is the patient's time. The credo is: let him wait.

If the doctor is successful, he also has extraneous interests. He is in the stock market. He is in real estate. There is an offer to be a partner in a nursing home. In addition to all this, he wants a day off in the middle of the week, no appointments on Saturdays and Sundays.

More and more, he tries to avoid house calls by using the telephone. If he has an answering service, this becomes the shield between him and his calling. Human beings, he has found, are unreasonable. No one becomes sick unless it is late at night, or on a Sunday. The next of kin expect him to hop right tensify their efforts along the same line.

Thus far the Hanoi government has shown no signs of coming to the peace table. The only reason given in the press dispatches which seems logical is that the North Vietnamese believe that, if they persist in carrying on the war, they will make it more and more expensive for the United States and eventually bring about a humiliating withdrawal which would be hailed throughout the world as the biggest defeat that the United States has ever suffered.

Recently the theory has been advanced that, when the elections in South Vietnam have taken place, the United States will turn the whole problem over to the government in Saigon and let it try to conduct negotiations on its own. This, of course, would hardly prevent North Vietnam from adopting a dominating role.

What isn't generally realized is that if the Vietnam war should have such a tragic result, another war in Southeast Asia could break out after a short interval, and the United States might become directly involved with Red China because Peiping might make the same kind of miscalculation that Hitler did. The assumption again would be that the United States had decided not to enter any major war thousands of miles away from its shores. This illusion, fostered by retreat in Vietnam, constitutes the real danger for the future.

Artificial Sweeteners

WASHINGTON—Locked in secret files AF 12-567 and NDA 7-258 at the Food and Drug Administration is disturbing evidence that government's doctors are less assured than its spokesmen about the harmless effects of artificial sweeteners.

The soaring consumption of diet drinks and low-calorie desserts, indeed, has deepened the doctors' concern. Yet the FDA still stands on its May 20, 1965, announcement that "there is no evidence that cyclamates (sugar substitutes), at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

At the same time this conclusion was announced out of the front office, the doctors were expressing grave doubts in the back rooms. The conclusion supposedly was based upon "new experimental data of the safety of cyclamates, including animal studies, tests involving ingestion by children and other data."

However, this column has been given a surreptitious peek at file AF 12-567, which shows that the tests were just beginning at the time of the May, 1965, announcement.

The results were carefully segregated, incidentally, so doctors could not review the complete data but only the details that concerned them.

The FDA, having previously certified artificial sweeteners as safe, could hardly retract its endorsement without leaving the nation's food-and-beverage distributors with a lot of low-calorie soda pop on their hands.

Throughout the controversy, no one has been more eager to protect the public from alleged evils of sugar substitutes than the sugar industry, which stands to lose millions because of the diet craze.

As early as 1964, the Sugar Foundation commissioned the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation to investigate the low-calorie threat. Its doctors triumphantly discovered that artificial sweeteners can stunt the growth of rats. Laboratory rats, treated to sugar-free soft drinks, suffered a 12 to 50 per cent loss of growth.

People vs. Rats

The experiment brought an outraged howl from such enterprises as Abbott Laboratories, which produces cyclamates, and Royal Crown Cola, which was first on the market with diet cola. They protested that people, at least biologically speaking, aren't rats.

As the two rival industries squared off, information on cyclamates began to spill over the scientific embankment into the lay lands below.

FDA's doctors, in particular, became increasingly concerned over the mass usage of artificial sweeteners. A drop or two in a cup of coffee, they agreed, was no health menace. But evidence began to show up of adverse effects on people whose intake was heavy.

H. P. Packscher of Food and Drug put through a long-distance call to Abbott Laboratories in Chicago on March 4, 1965. He reached Hartley Ericson, then dictated a memo for the secret file.

"I called Mr. Ericson," Packscher dictated, "to arrange a meeting to discuss the data on Sucaryl (a sweetener) which Abbott submitted last fall, providing our staff members an opportunity to ask questions which they feel are unanswered in the submissions."

The meeting was held on March 17. A "memorandum of conference," summarizing the discussion, declared: "The toxicologists report that the cyclamates are poorly absorbed and pharmacologically inert. The absorbed portion is excreted unchanged in the urine, while that remaining in the intestine provokes diarrhea when given in large amounts. . . . Clinically, the organ system about which there is some concern is the liver."

Because of the uncertainties, the doctors sought more data. It was agreed at a subsequent meeting, April 13, 1965, to go ahead with several tests. The confidential report of the discussion indicated a lack of enthusiasm by the Abbott representatives.

"The discussion of present and proposed studies in children," said the report, "brought out several problems, including issues which we had regarded as needing resolution. . . . The Abbott representatives cited difficulties associated with developing long-term studies in children. Appropriate groups are difficult to find. Orphanages, for example, do not have many young children, and the older ones come in and go out of these institutions. Also, there are legal problems involved. . . .

Abbott Drags Heels

"Concerning the daily dose of cyclamates used in the study, the feeling was that higher doses would interfere with the children's eating habits. There still remains the question of what happens to children who drink 10 bottles of soft drink with artificial sweetener per day. At present there is no answer. . . . The issue of cyclamate secretion in the milk of lactating mothers was raised, and the firm stated they are doing studies in animals."

Dr. G. R. Hazel of Abbott delivered a lecture on how insignificant a percentage of cyclamates goes into soft drinks.

"He stated further," said the report, "that probably less than 25 per cent of sugar is replaced by artificial sweeteners. Finally, Abbott feels the current proposals do not represent the end, but rather they are thinking in terms of three to five years to develop scientific and medical information on the cyclamates."

Without waiting for these studies, FDA issued its announcement that cyclamates were safe. But it didn't reckon with the sugar lobby, which brought pressure from Capitol Hill for a more thorough investigation.

FDA finally slipped a $46,000 contract to Albany Medical College under the guise of a pesticide study to look deeper into the health effects of artificial sweeteners. Dr. Frederick Coulston, who is directing the study, is not ready to announce the results.

But he would say this much: "The use of artificial sweeteners should be restricted to persons who really need to cut out sugar. It is possible their use will get out of hand."

Note: Dr. Coulston claims FDA is now negotiating a new contract with him. But the FDA, in keeping with its secrecy over sweeteners, denied to this column that a new contract would be negotiated.

De Gaulle Helps Red Space Plans

PARIS — To NATO's dismay, President Charles de Gaulle has ordered his nuclear group to build the world's largest bubble chamber for a Soviet 70 million-volt electron accelerator.

Supplementing Soviet expertise, France will install it at the Serpukhov nuclear arsenal, 65 miles from Moscow.

In addition, NATO's intelligence has learned that de Gaulle will begin extensive cooperation with the USSR's space program, including the orbiting of nuclear weapons, to which this column referred from the NATO headquarters in Brussels and in which the Soviet is now investing a substantial percentage of its total military budget.

By October, timed for the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, France will begin receiving the Soviet series of color television propaganda broadcasts through the French-developed "Secam 3" system of the Compagnie Francaise De Television, which will link the two countries.

The French Ministry of Interior's top tool in espionage is SDECE (Service de Documentation Extérieure et Centre Espionnage). Friends of long standing in it tell me, in fright, that their organization has been penetrated through-out by Soviet and Red Chinese agents.

Meanwhile, de Gaulle has added 874 technical, industrial and agricultural items to France's eligibility list for delivery to Russia, Red China and the satellites. These include an alarming array of bottleneck items for which the Kremlin appears to have successfully negotiated with de Gaulle on his state visit to Moscow last year. De Gaulle's action excludes only East Germany and North Korea, with whom France has no official diplomatic relations.

As one result, Red China is now the second largest receiver of French scientific and other goods among all the Communist countries to which de Gaulle is lending support.

The French mystic, who has fallen out of phase with the French people themselves, has backed this up by appointing former Foreign Ministry Economie Division Director Olivier Wormser as his Ambassador to Moscow, and de Gaulle now operates there directly through the man who has been France's chief economic negotiator for the past 10 years.

De Gaulle's unvarying formula is to first tour an assortment of his cabinet members through the Communist capitals and then send in delegations of private French industrialists, chosen from among those who play the de Gaulle game best.

But when you talk with these men you find that time and results have soured even many of the chosen ones. The Soviet, Red China and the bloc countries ask for five- and 10-year payment terms. West Germany exported more than $1 billion in goods and investments to the Iron Curtain countries last year, and this overextension through long credit terms is now booming against the West German economy. The same thing is happening here.

The Reds insist on constantly renegotiating settled agreements. Agreed prices are changed downward after deliveries on the threat of rejecting the goods. Personnel revolves through the state-controlled agencies.

"It's like doing business with a sputtering pinwheel," one French banker told me.

"They change teams as soon as you have signed the contract. It becomes impossible even to locate the original negotiator. They're on vacation," transferred or something. And they top this off by systematically using illegible signatures on all contracts. The incredible Communist bureaucratic red tape is used for deliberate purposes, and confusion that results in nonpayment plays a big part, just as Krupp discovered to his sorrow in Germany."

Partly due to this, the French paid-for export balance has now sprung some leaks below the waterline. Last year France's imports were up nearly 15 per cent against an export gain of less than 9 per cent. The 1966 trade deficit was $967 million. It is now running at the annual rate of about $1½ billion. The dollar loss in the tourist debacle is contributing severely to this.

Fanned by the official anti-Americanism that blares on the radio and television and the wall posters here that read "Americans Go Home," all senselessly accelerated since April 7, when our flag was torn from the staff of the American Cathedral and burned in the streets, the results have killed off 30 per cent of the normal American tourist trade and 40 per cent on the Riviera.

'Urban Coalition' Faces Political Cold Shoulder

By CHARLES NICODEMUS
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—The new, high-powered "urban coalition" is facing cynicism and a political cold shoulder in pushing its just-launched drive for a massive industry and government campaign to doctor the nation's ailing cities.

The political cold shoulder came from congressional leaders of both parties—particularly Republicans.

The leaders were invited to a lunch at which a 22-man delegation from the coalition's celebrity-packed steering committee—led by Mayors Richard Daley of Chicago and John Lindsay of New York—pleaded for congressional backing of the new group's costly, far-ranging three-part program:

—An emergency federal work program providing 1,000,000 jobs.

—Tax incentives and other lures to draw new industry and employment into the ghetto, massive job training and education proposals for the poor.

A crash program of "urban reconstruction" to build and rehabilitate 1,000,000 new low-income homes a year.

But no Republicans showed up; only one Democratic senator—majority whip Russell Long (La.)—and three Democratic House leaders: Speaker John McCormack (Mass.), Majority Leader Carl Albert (Okla.), and majority whip Hale Boggs (La.).

Said Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, in describing the Thursday lunch to 1,000 enthusiastic delegates at the coalition's first mass meeting, an "emergency convocation":

"I must in all candor report that the sense of urgency of new programs was lacking."

All the delegation got, he related, was a plea from McCormack for coalition support in winning passage of the administration's already-existing urban programs now facing trouble in Congress.

Need Pressure Group

"I came away convinced," he said, "that we must develop an urban political pressure group to help put these programs through Congress."

Some delegates suggested that if such a unified, prestigious lobby were formed, on the coalition's big-name "movers and shakers" from industry, local government, labor and civic groups, it might prove to be the coalition's most lasting contribution in the battle to save the nation's decaying, fermenting, riot-torn cities.

The cynicism greeting the coalition's call for effective action came from black power advocate Dr. Nathan Wright, of Newark's Episcopal Diocese, and several outspoken militants who told the convocation their views.

As Wright, a delegate to the convention, phrased it at a press conference called to protest "the weakness" of the coalition's statement of principles.

"I think it's curious that most of the prestigious people who are now sitting at that nice long table up front (the steering committee) are the very ones who were running our cities, or milking them dry, when the cities were going to pot."

Mayor Lindsay, asked for reaction to such comments, at first said he was "too busy to discuss it," and later said that "that's an interesting observation."

Civil Rights Leader Bayard Rustin, a steering-committee member, agreed with Wright, but said that "I take the position that lots of people have been milking the Negro, including other Negroes."

"But now many of these people are dedicated to a new future."

Said Andrew Heiskell, board chairman of Time Inc. and a co-chairman of the coalition:

"I think there's some redemption involved here."

Outright criticism came from representatives of a welfare recipients national group and a local organization using anti-poverty funds to provide summer jobs for Washington ghetto teen-agers.

They said the coalition wasn't consulting enough with the poor people you're supposed to be helping," a charge which Heiskell, Rustin and others vigorously disputed.

The reserve exhibited came from most of the representatives of the business community, when given the chance to sound off on how they'd help break down employment barriers and provide hundreds of thousands of new jobs in the slums, a key part of the coalition's plans.

As Walter N. Ritchie Jr., of New York City, put it after chairing a workshop where ideas were solicited:

"The private sector was disappointingly reticent about coming forward with suggestions to implement the commitment they've made in supporting our goals and statement of principles."

Heiskell announced that five task forces have been created to draw up recommendations "as quickly as possible" on how the coalition's proposed programs might be gotten off the ground.

Randolph and Mayors Daley and Lindsay will serve as co-chairmen of the task force on public service employment.

Ask Delay on Guard

By HENRY HANSON
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

OSAGE BEACH, Mo., Aug. 28—Seventeen of the nation's governors gathered here today (Mon.) with race riots and politics on their minds. Seven issued a resolution condemning civil disorders.

The governors also plan to ask President Johnson to postpone for one year reorganization of the National Guard.

Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner led the attack on reorganization. He said it would be a "monumental undertaking" that would cause "serious turbulence."

Strict security regulations surrounded the luxury Tan-Tara resort as the governors convened for the annual mid-western governors' conference. National Guardsmen set up roadblocks challenging credentials of all visitors.

Nobody expected trouble, but the governors were obviously not taking a chance that civil rights demonstrators or anti-Vietnam demonstrators would crash the party.

Governors took time off from politics and conference for frequent cruises on the lake.

The host, Democratic Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, lit up the political sky by stating that he did not believe President Johnson would carry Missouri if the presidential election took place tomorrow.

He qualified the remarks by observing that Mr. Johnson's popularity is like the stock market.

"It goes up and down," said Hearnes. "He might be able to win Missouri by the 1968 elections."

The resolution condemning civil disobedience was issued by the executive committee of the National Governors' Conference.

The midwest meeting is preparatory for the national meeting in October in the Virgin Islands.

Most of the business conducted then will take place aboard a cruiser carrying the governors there. Some of the governors' aides are concerned about public reaction to a cruise in the Caribbean while race trouble might flare up back home.

Wage War On Bootleg Cigarettes

By JAMES K. BATTEN

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—Tax officials and law enforcement men from at least 13 states will meet in New York City on Sept. 12 to map plans for a stepped-up fight against bootlegging of cigarettes from North Carolina.

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who organized the private, one-day meeting, will also attend, as will several members of Congress and representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"We hope the meeting will provide much broader knowledge of the problem and a much broader enforcement effort," explained Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy of the New York State Tax Department in a telephone interview.

North Carolina is the only state which does not tax tobacco products. As other states and cities have increased their tobacco taxes, large-scale smuggling of untaxed cigarettes from North Carolina has caused substantial losses of tax revenue.

New York State and New York City alone estimate their combined annual tax losses at $60,000,000 (M).

Malcolm L. Fleisher, managing director of the Retail Tobacco Dealers of America, estimated earlier this month that "the retailers in New York City have lost 25 percent of their cigaret sales and millions of dollars in other business due to slackened customer traffic."

Murphy said the closed-door session would take a careful look at possible involvement of big-time gangsters in the cigaret smuggling racket.

John F. Malone, an assistant director of the FBI who heads the Bureau's New York office, will discuss the role being played by organized crime.

Rep. Herbert Tenzer (D-N.Y.) will explain his proposed amendments to the Federal Jenkins Act, which would require tobacco dealers in a state like North Carolina to notify tax officials in other states of sales made for shipment to those states.

Another idea Murphy and other New York officials want discussed is the possibility of a Federal law requiring cigaret manufacturers to collect state taxes before the cigarettes leave the plant.

North Carolina will be represented at the meeting by State Revenue Commissioner Ivey L. Clayton. The meeting's organizers hope to open the way for closer co-operation with Clayton and other North Carolina authorities.

"It would be extremely helpful if we could get some help on the part of North Carolina," said one of the organizers. "North Carolina will probably get filled in to a greater extent at this meeting on the scope of the problem and the nature of the beast."

The other states to be represented include Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Three other states getting invitations — Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Delaware—have not responded.

'Urban Coalition' Faces Political Cold Shoulder

By CHARLES NICODEMUS
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—The new, high-powered "urban coalition" is facing cynicism and a political cold shoulder in pushing its just-launched drive for a massive industry and government campaign to doctor the nation's ailing cities.

The political cold shoulder came from congressional leaders of both parties—particularly Republicans.

The leaders were invited to a lunch at which a 22-man delegation from the coalition's celebrity-packed steering committee—led by Mayors Richard Daley of Chicago and John Lindsay of New York—pleaded for congressional backing of the new group's costly, far-ranging three-part program:

—An emergency federal work program providing 1,000,000 jobs.

—Tax incentives and other lures to draw new industry and employment into the ghetto, massive job training and education proposals for the poor.

—A crash program of "urban reconstruction" to build and rehabilitate 1,000,000 new low-income homes a year.

But no Republicans showed up; only one Democratic senator—majority whip Russell Long (La.)—and three Democratic House leaders: Speaker John McCormack (Mass.), Majority Leader Carl Albert (Okla.), and majority whip Hale Boggs (La.).

Said Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, in describing the Thursday lunch to 1,000 enthusiastic delegates at the coalition's first mass meeting, an "emergency convocation," "I must in all candor report that the sense of urgency of new programs was lacking."

All the delegation got, he related, was a plea from McCormack for coalition support in winning passage of the administration's already-existing urban programs now facing trouble in Congress.

Need Pressure Group
"I came away convinced," he said, "that we must develop an urban political pressure group to help put these programs through Congress."

Some delegates suggested that if such a unified, prestigious lobby were formed, on the coalition's big-name "movers and shakers" from industry, local government, labor and civic groups, it might prove to be the coalition's most lasting contribution in the battle to save the nation's decaying, fermenting, riot-torn cities.

The cynicism greeting the coalition's call for effective action came from black power advocate Dr. Nathan Wright of Newark's Episcopal Diocese, and several outspoken militants who told the convocation their views.

As Wright, a delegate to the convention, phrased it at a press conference called to protest "the weakness" of the coalition's statement of principals.

"I think it's curious that most of the prestigious people who are now sitting at that nice long table up front (the steering committee) are the very ones who were running our cities, or milking them dry, when the cities were going to pot."

Mayor Lindsay, asked for reaction to such comments, at first said he was "too busy to discuss it," and later said that "that's an interesting observation."

Civil Rights Leader Bayard Rustin, a steering-committee member, agreed with Wright, but said that "I take the position that lots of people have been milking the Negro, including other Negroes."

"But now many of these people are dedicated to a new future."

Said Andrew Heiskell, board chairman of Time Inc. and a co-chairman of the coalition:

"I think there's some redemption involved here."

Outright criticism came from representatives of a welfare recipients national group and a local organization using anti-poverty funds to provide summer jobs for Washington ghetto teen-agers.

They said the coalition wasn't consulting enough with the poor people you're supposed to be helping," a charge which Heiskell, Rustin and others vigorously disputed.

The reserve exhibited came from most of the representatives of the business community, when given the chance to sound off on how they'd help break down employment barriers and provide hundreds of thousands of new jobs in the slums, a key part of the coalition's plans.

As Walter N. Ritchie Jr., of New York City, put it after chairing a workshop where ideas were solicited:

The private sector was disappointingly reticent about coming forward with suggestions to implement the commitment they've made in supporting our goals and statement of principles."

Heiskell announced that five task forces have been created to draw up recommendations "as quickly as possible" on how the coalition's proposed programs might be gotten off the ground.

Randolph and Mayors Daley and Lindsay will serve as co-chairmen of the task force on public service employment.

Ask Delay on Guard

By HENRY HANSON
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

OSAGE BEACH, Mo., Aug. 28—Seventeen of the nation's governors gathered here today (Mon.) with race riots and politics on their minds. Seven issued a resolution condemning civil disorders.

The governors also plan to ask President Johnson to postpone for one year reorganization of the National Guard.

Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner led the attack on reorganization. He said it would be a "monumental undertaking" that would cause "serious turbulence."

Strict security regulations surrounded the luxury Tan-Tara resort as the governors convened for the annual midwestern governors' conference. National Guardsmen set up roadblocks challenging credentials of all visitors.

Nobody expected trouble, but the governors were obviously not taking a chance that civil rights demonstrators or anti-Vietnam demonstrators would crash the party.

Governors took time off from politics and conference for frequent cruises on the lake.

The host, Democratic Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, lit up the political sky by stating that he did not believe President Johnson would carry Missouri if the presidential election took place tomorrow.

He qualified the remarks by observing that Mr. Johnson's popularity is like the stock market.

"It goes up and down," said Hearnes. "He might be able to win Missouri by the 1968 elections."

The resolution condemning civil disobedience was issued by the executive committee of the National Governors' Conference.

The midwest meeting is preparatory for the national meeting in October in the Virgin Islands.

Most of the business conducted then will take place aboard a cruiser carrying the governors there. Some of the governors' aides are concerned about public reaction to a cruise in the Caribbean while race trouble might flare up back home.

Organized in 1923 to meet the need for wholesome leisure time activity for the more than 2500 Kingston girls then in high school and industry, the YWCA has served the women and girls of the area for over forty years.

The whole thing began when Chief J. Allen Wood pointed out the need in a speech to the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs. These women, many of whom became charter members, accepted the challenge and after months of committee meetings, consultations, and study decided to form a YWCA in Kingston. National YWCA sent a representative to explain the details and in April 1923 the Kingston YWCA came into being. At first it occupied one room in the Mechanics building on Henry Street. Later it expanded to the front and basement. From 1942 until 1960 the "Y" owned and enjoyed camp Triangle Acres at Fish Creek. It moved to its present location at 209 Clinton Avenue in 1947, and in 1958 a major renovation program resulted in the recreation area in the basement which is thoroughly enjoyed by teen-agers and Golden Agers alike.

All this was not accomplished without effort and time on the part of hundreds of dedicated volunteers. Back in 1923 there was no Community Chest and the women quite literally "pounded the pavement" to secure funds to keep their associations alive.

The depression years, years of World War II and recovery period, the present Vietnam struggle have brought many changes. Modern inventions have given homemakers more leisure time, and medical science by lengthening the life span has left hundreds of senior citizens with hours of leisure time. Our population has become increasingly mobile as businesses transfer employees in and out of the area. All of this means that women and girls have new challenges and new needs. The YWCA must keep pace if it truly serves them. More clubs and activities of wider variety of age groups are provided as well as public affairs forums and discussions to give women opportunity to become informed on community and national problems. Of course, there is also the necessity to co-operate with other groups since many problems are too vast for any one group. The YWCA contacted the schools on the problem of sex education, planned the recent Vietnam discussion with the AAUW, etc. If the YWCA is to justify its place in the community it must continue to grow, not just in numbers or in the size of its facilities, but in the breadth and depth of its offerings. Only in this way will it truly continue to be a real movement of women and girls and not a static thing.

Drug Raids in Sullivan

BY WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Details of state police struck simultaneously Tuesday night in three Sullivan County communities and took 11 persons, including seven teenagers, into custody on a variety of narcotics charges. The roundup climaxed a lengthy investigation conducted at resorts by undercover personnel, assisted by local authorities.

Fallsburgh and Liberty were areas included in the roundup, and an unofficial report said parts of Monticello were involved in the investigation.

An undetermined quantity of drugs was confiscated as the arrests were made on warrants that had been previously issued by local judges.

State Police Capt. R. E. Boland, in charge of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, Troop 8, Sidney, was in command of the operation who took part in the arrest last night.

Ira Brown, 18, of the Bronx, was charged with sale and possession of LSD. Ronnie Pollack, 18, of Pearl River, was accused of possessing depressant drugs.

Charged with sale and possession of marijuana were: Michael Brown, 20, Parkville; Barbara Cantwell, 19, of Rego Park; Joseph Cucci, 20, of Liberty; William Matlin, 17, Brooklyn;

David Panman, 20, of Liberty. Facing charges of possessing marijuana were: Mark Gayer, 17, of Brooklyn; Ronald Rudolph, 22, of Islip, L. I., and Robert Smulowitz, 18, of the Bronx. Steven David Throne, 17, of Brooklyn, was accused of sale of marijuana.

A passenger in the Carroll car, Gerald Reynolds, 19, of New Hampton, was taken to Horton Hospital suffering lacerations of the face and head. Carroll was reported uninjured.

According to Middletown State Police, the Crawford car was headed north on Rt. 17M about 9:40 p. m. when the Carroll vehicle, coming off the Quickway at Exit 118A, went through a stop sign and hit the Crawford car in the left front.

Father Rescues 5 Children From Residence Fire

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A 33-year-old trucker saved five of his children Tuesday night as flames destroyed the family's eight-room home.

Ronald Striker removed the children, aged 1 through 7, from their upstairs bedrooms. Six older children fled from the house by themselves.

The last child to be rescued was 12-month-old Timothy, who was discovered huddled and crying in an upstairs bedroom.

Striker said he got four of the children out before he realized the baby was still upstairs.

He kicked in the glass of a first floor kitchen window and used the window sill to boost himself to the second floor. Striker dropped the baby into the arms of a neighbor.

INSTRUCTION CLASSES

Organized in 1923 to meet the need for wholesome leisure time activity for the more than 2500 Kingston girls then in high school and industry, the YWCA has served the women and girls of the area for over forty years.

The whole thing began when Chief J. Allen Wood pointed out the need in a speech to the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs. These women, many of whom became charter members, accepted the challenge and after months of committee meetings, consultations, and study decided to form a YWCA in Kingston. National YWCA sent a representative to explain the details and in April 1923 the Kingston YWCA came into being. At first it occupied one room in the Mechanics building on Henry Street. Later it expanded to the front and basement. From 1942 until 1960 the "Y" owned and enjoyed camp Triangle Acres at Fish Creek. It moved to its present location at 209 Clinton Avenue in 1947, and in 1958 a major renovation program resulted in the recreation area in the basement which is thoroughly enjoyed by teen-agers and Golden Agers alike.

All this was not accomplished without effort and time on the part of hundreds of dedicated volunteers. Back in 1923 there was no Community Chest and the women quite literally "pounded the pavement" to secure funds to keep their associations alive.

The depression years, years of World War II and recovery period, the present Vietnam struggle have brought many changes. Modern inventions have given homemakers more leisure time, and medical science by lengthening the life span has left hundreds of senior citizens with hours of leisure time. Our population has become increasingly mobile as businesses transfer employees in and out of the area. All of this means that women and girls have new challenges and new needs. The YWCA must keep pace if it truly serves them. More clubs and activities for wider variety of age groups are provided as well as public affairs forums and discussions to give women opportunity to become informed on community and national problems. Of course, there is also the necessity to co-operate with other groups since many problems are too vast for any one group. The YWCA contacted the schools on the problem of sex education, planned the recent Vietnam discussion with the AAUW, etc. If the YWCA is to justify its place in the community it must continue to grow, not just in numbers or in the size of its facilities, but in the breadth and depth of its offerings. Only in this way will it truly continue to be a real movement of women and girls and not a static thing.

State's Liberalized Divorce Law Effective Friday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Starting Friday, major provisions in the state's liberalized divorce law go into effect, closing out a 180-year-old statute that made New York one of the most difficult states in the nation in which to dissolve a marriage.

Under terms of the law drafted in 1787 by Alexander Hamilton, residents of this state could obtain a divorce only on the ground of adultery.

Grounds Expanded

The law taking effect Sept. 1 expands that ground to include:

—Abandonment by a spouse for two years.

—Cruel or inhuman treatment of such a nature that it "endangers the physical or mental well-being of the plaintiff as may render it unsafe or improper for the plaintiff to co-habit with the defendant."

—Imprisonment of a spouse for at least three years.

—Homosexual or other deviate sexual conduct.

In addition, a provision that took effect last Sept. 1 permits divorce for a couple who live apart for two years after signing a formal separation agreement with the county clerk, or, in some cases, the courts.

Though approving more liberal grounds, drafters of the new law made efforts to insure that New York State would not become a "divorce mill," a term sometimes applied to such states as Nevada.

A provision was inserted that requires married couples to seek conciliation over a four-month period before a final divorce decree can be granted.

Most lawyers note, however, that conciliation attempts probably will require an initial meeting with conciliators on an exploratory basis. If there seems to be a possibility of repairing the marriage, conciliation sessions may continue for 120 days. If prospects are doubtful, it is possible that action on the divorce may proceed in less than four months.

The conciliation procedure was included partially as a means of blocking criticism of the provision for a two-year voluntary separation as being nothing more than "divorce by consent."

On Out-States

The law also may have a sharp effect on out-of-state divorces, although most experts agree that court tests will be required before the impact of the residency requirements can be learned.

In regard to out-of-state divorces, the law provides that, if a person has lived in New York State for 12 months before getting an out-of-state divorce and returns to New York within 18 months, the divorce might be considered non-valid on the ground of fraud.

If a person obtains a divorce out-of-state and returns within 18 months to New York, the law says, it is evidence he was a resident of New York when he obtained the divorce.

At any rate, there will be no question of the validity of divorces obtained in other states or countries before Friday.

The conciliation procedure will not cost either marriage partner anything unless they seek advice of private lawyers, doctors or psychiatrists.

The conciliation efforts will be directed by court-appointed officials in each of the state's judicial districts. Divorce actions will be handled in State Supreme Court, as they are now.

Three Month Holding

A person will not be allowed to be remarried in this state until three months after obtaining a New York State divorce decree.

Although the voluntary separation clause took effect last

Sept. 1, no divorces have been granted under the new law because it requires a two-year wait.

Persons who had separated legally before Sept. 1, 1966, could apply again for separation but still would have to wait until at least Sept. 1, 1968, before obtaining a divorce.

The long struggle to change the divorce law, finally approved by the 1966 session of the Legislature, had resulted from charges that the adultery-only provision resulted in widespread fraud. To obtain a divorce they noted, one partner could set up a phony adulterous situation, in collusion with the other partner.

The Roman Catholic Church, which forbids divorce for its members in most instances, fought the proposed change vigorously, on the ground that it would destroy the legal-moral fabric of the state's marriage laws.

Oddly enough, the two legislators most often credited or blamed for finally pushing the change into the legislative arena are no longer members of the Legislature.

Former State Sen. Jerome L. Wilson saw his district literally reapportioned out of existence last year. He now is a television broadcaster.

Former Assemblyman Percy Sutton now is Manhattan Borough president, a post he sought.

Wilson, headed the joint legislative committee that studied Roman Catholics, insisted on revision of the divorce law. Sutton was the committee's lead

The final product is a compromise, however.

Chief among those whose ideas are expressed in the new law are the Legislature's present leaders, Democratic Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and Republican Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges.

Travia and Brydges, both men married to a divorcee, made one partner liable to fault.

They held that, without conciliation attempts, the voluntary separation could be termed "divorce by consent."

After months of effort, the measure was passed April 27, 1966, with only one senator and seven assemblymen voting against the final version.

Gov. Rockefeller, a divorcee, signed the bill almost immediately. He did so without comment.

Dairylea Safety Campaign Geared to Back to School

For the 16th consecutive year Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc. is throwing all of its public relations resources into an all-out effort to combat the ever-rising highway accident and death rate.

Plans for the annual Dairylea back-to-school safety program have been completed, with the campaign covering the area served by the dairy co-operative and producer of famed Dairylea milk, ice cream and dairy products. The program will consist of a massive saturation radio and newspaper advertising campaign (including dramatic color ads), supplemented by millions of Dairylea milk cartons carrying the safety message right to the home, along with a public relations effort, all designed to help save children's lives.

R. F. Peasback, manager of Dairymen's League advertising and sales promotion, and Charles Cranston, manager of the local Dairylea branch, announced that the safety program will also cover over 45 cities in the states of New York and Pennsylvania.

In conjunction with the safety program and the return to school, Dairylea will be making a special offer of colorful protective schoolbook covers, each imprinted with four essential safety rules, as a constant reminder to children; also space for the child's name and address.

The Dairylea safety program is also directed at motorists as well as children. Also, as has been done since the campaign's inception in 1952, Dairylea is cooperating with law enforcement agencies and civic groups in conducting back-to-school safety campaigns. Meetings of Dairylea employees are held to emphasize

First Newspaper In World Every Day

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — The newspaper in Suva is the Fiji Times, a morning tabloid which proudly announces on its masthead that it is "The first newspaper in the world every day."

It can make the claim because Suva is close to the international dateline, 17 hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time, and the Fiji Times goes to press at midnight, earlier than New Zealand newspapers in the same time zone.

When the press of the Fiji Times starts to print its 10,000 newspapers, the news is what is the need for extreme caution on the highways while thousands of the red and white Dairylea trucks are to display safety reminder posters. The posters will also be evident in stores carrying Dairylea products.

Peasback said, "We are sure this is one of the most comprehensive safety campaigns Dairylea has ever undertaken and as we pass the midway point in our second decade of these programs we are certain they become more worthwhile each year."

appearing in the early editions of evening newspapers in London, or morning newspapers in the United States dated the previous day.

Because of the time difference, Fiji residents are reading what happened in Europe and America the day before yesterday. The events that will make "yesterday's news" for Fiji have barely started to occur.

Although the voluntary separation clause took effect last

Sept. 1, no divorces have been granted under the new law because it requires a two-year wait.

Persons who had separated legally before Sept. 1, 1966, could apply again for separation but still would have to wait until at least Sept. 1, 1968, before obtaining a divorce.

The long struggle to change the divorce law, finally approved by the 1966 session of the Legislature, had resulted from charges that the adultery-only provision resulted in widespread fraud. To obtain a divorce they noted, one partner could set up a phony adulterous situation, in collusion with the other partner.

The Roman Catholic Church, which forbids divorce for its members in most instances, fought the proposed change vigorously, on the ground that it would destroy the legal-moral fabric of the state's marriage laws.

Oddly enough, the two legislators most often credited or blamed for finally pushing the change into the legislative arena are no longer members of the Legislature.

Former State Sen. Jerome L. Wilson saw his district literally reapportioned out of existence last year. He now is a television broadcaster.

Former Assemblyman Percy Sutton now is Manhattan Borough president, a post he sought.

Wilson, headed the joint legislative committee that studied revision of the divorce law. Sutton was the committee's leading exponent in the Assembly.

The final product is a compromise, however.

Chief among those whose ideas are expressed in the new law are the Legislature's present leaders, Democratic Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and Republican Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges.

Travia and Brydges, both Roman Catholics, insisted on the conciliation procedure, despite objections that it would make one partner liable to fault.

They held that, without conciliation attempts, the voluntary separation could be termed "divorce by consent."

After months of effort, the measure was passed April 24, 1966, with only one senator and seven assemblymen voting against the final version.

Gov. Rockefeller, a divorced man married to a divorcee, signed the bill almost immediately. He did so without comment.

Dairylea Safety Campaign Geared to Back to School

For the 16th consecutive year Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc. is throwing all of its public relations resources into an all-out effort to combat the ever-rising highway accident and death rate.

Plans for the annual Dairylea back-to-school safety program have been completed, with the campaign covering the area served by the dairy co-operative and producer of famed Dairylea milk, ice cream and dairy products. The program will consist of a massive saturation radio and newspaper advertising campaign (including dramatic color ads), supplemented by millions of Dairylea milk cartons carrying the safety message right to the home, along with a public relations effort, all designed to help save children's lives.

R. F. Peasback, manager of Dairymen's League advertising and sales promotion, and Charles Cranston, manager of the local Dairylea branch, announced that the safety program will also cover over 45 cities in the states of New York and Pennsylvania.

In conjunction with the safety program and the return to school, Dairylea will be making a special offer of colorful protective schoolbook covers, each imprinted with four essential safety rules, as a constant reminder to children; also space for the child's name and address.

The Dairylea safety program is also directed at motorists as well as children. Also, as has been done since the campaign's inception in 1952, Dairylea is cooperating with law enforcement agencies and civic groups in conducting back-to-school safety campaigns. Meetings of Dairylea employees are held to emphasize

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — The newspaper in Suva is the Fiji Times, a morning tabloid which proudly announces on its masthead that it is "The first newspaper in the world every day."

It can make the claim because Suva is close to the international dateline, 17 hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time, and the Fiji Times goes to press at midnight, earlier than New Zealand newspapers in the same time zone.

When the press of the Fiji Times starts to print its 10,000 newspapers, the news is what is the need for extreme caution on the highways while thousands of the red and white Dairylea trucks are to display safety reminder posters. The posters will also be evident in stores carrying Dairylea products.

Peasback said, "We are sure this is one of the most comprehensive safety campaigns Dairylea has ever undertaken and as we pass the midway point in our second decade of these programs we are certain they become more worthwhile each year."

appearing in the early editions of evening newspapers in London, or morning newspapers in the United States dated the previous day.

Because of the time difference, Fiji residents are reading what happened in Europe and America the day before yesterday. The events that will make "yesterday's news" for Fiji have barely started to occur.

Red Hook Expects More In Classes

Approximately 2,000 students will pass through the doors of Red Hook Central School when classes reconvene Sept. 6.

District School Principal Russell J. Keefe said the expected enrollment jump over last year will be 167 additional pupils. Last year's opening day enrollment was 1,833.

New students are asked to register prior to opening day. Elementary and high school offices are open daily from 9 a.m. until noon, and from 1 to 4 p.m.

Cafeteria services will be available in the Red Hook schools, but third grade students attending the Tivoli Elementary School must bring their own lunches.

The Mill Road Elementary School is expected to be completed by midyear and will be occupied as soon as the classrooms are ready.

Dies of Injuries

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — John Riggio, 42, of Pawling, N.Y., injured Aug. 22 in a highway accident at Kent, died Monday in Waterbury hospital.

Police said Riggio's car and a pickup truck collided on Route 7. The driver of the pickup, Paul F. Naboring of Kent, suffered a bump on the head in the crash. Riggio's address was listed as 28 Oak St., Pawling.

Drowns in Tub

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — One-year-old Brent Ashley drowned in a bathtub in his home Monday night, police said.

They said the boy's mother, Mrs. Wayne Ashley, told them she left the child playing in the tub while she went to a bedroom.

Fish Total Down

PORTLAND, Maine. (AP) — Ronald W. Green, state sea and shore fisheries commissioner, says the total catch by gill-netters in Maine dropped from 5,768,223 pounds in 1947 to 2,208,033 in 1966.

Gill nets, about six feet high and two miles long trap fish that swim into their four-inch mesh. One edge is held on the ocean bottom by lead weights and the top is held up by floats.

PSC to Probe NYC Railroad Service, Gear

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission began an investigation today into the adequacy of service and equipment of six New York Central passenger trains the carrier has proposed discontinuing.

In so doing, the state agency reaffirmed an earlier order that the railroad continue operation of four of the trains it had planned to drop and rejected a petition to discontinue the other two, also operating under PSC order.

A spokesman for the agency said public hearings on the matter would be held, but he did not announce the dates or places of the meetings.

The matters of adequacy to be investigated, the agency said, include seating accommodations, sanitary facilities and the quality of services provided at passenger depots.

The six trains the carrier has proposed dropping run between New York City and Buffalo. The railroad has cited the loss of mail freight as reason for discontinuing service.

American Nazi Head Remains Unburied After Violent Near-Funeral in Va.

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) — It was just the kind of near-funeral George Lincoln Rockwell might have wanted.

His small, fanatic band of American Nazis gained center stage in full glare of the national spotlight Tuesday—confronted by the U.S. Army, surrounded by television cameras.

Rockwell had cherished publicity—and did many things to get it.

Ultimate in Publicity
As a corpse he attained his ultimate publicity.

But at the end of a day at times so weird it was like a bad movie, the body of the slain "fuerher" remained unburied and the Nazis refused to reveal where his body was or what they planned to do with it.

Rockwell's followers refused to doff their Nazi insignia and leave their swastika flag behind to enter the peaceful little Culpeper National Cemetery and bury their assassinated chief.

But those were the ground rules laid down by the Army. And when it came time for the government gravediggers to go home the Army rescinded its permission for ex-Navy Cmdr. Rockwell to be interred in Culpeper—or any other military cemetery.

A short, trim, soft-spoken major general announced the Army's change of heart after the hearse bearing Rockwell surrounded by five uniformed mourners and perhaps two dozen in civilian clothes, spent five hours at the gate of the shaded, usually serene burial ground. A chorus of booing and "Heil Hitler!"—arms upraised and all—greeted the announcement by Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, Army provost marshal.

But the Nazis returned to their headquarters in Arlington, Va., to ponder what to do with their leader, who was killed by a sniper outside a coin laundry last Friday.

They wouldn't talk to newsmen Tuesday night. And the Arlington funeral home to which the body was returned refused to say if it was still there.

May Apply Again
Turner said the Nazis may apply anew for burial in a military cemetery but added the request "will be considered in light of today's events. The Department of the Army will require specific assurance the activities will be in accordance with its regulations."

The Pentagon said Tuesday night no new request had been received.

The lovely sunny day in this old town in Virginia's rolling countryside—where Lee mounted his Gettysburg campaign and hundreds of Yankees and Rebels fell in battle—was packed with absurdities.

The funeral was nearly over before its scheduled start. A hurtling Southern Railway freight, its whistle blaring, tore past just as the hearse crossed the tracks into the cemetery parking area.

Turner arrived from the Pentagon by helicopter, nimble vaulted over a fence and strode martially to the cemetery headquarters. Later, he talked calmly with newsmen as the Nazis held their ground. Suddenly the air seemed filled with Army helicopters. "I guess we may have some soldiers," he said in mock surprise.

Soon the peaceful streets of Culpeper bore Army buses carrying MPs from a nearby post. Some 40 or 50 soldiers blocked the little road leading to the grave that lay open under a tent, disguised by artificial grass.

A uniformed "storm trooper" leaped to the roof of the hearse, much to the chagrin of its driver Arlington undertaker Mac "Digger" Morris. The Nazi shouted, "Forward or death," bounded across the hood on lighted his cigar.

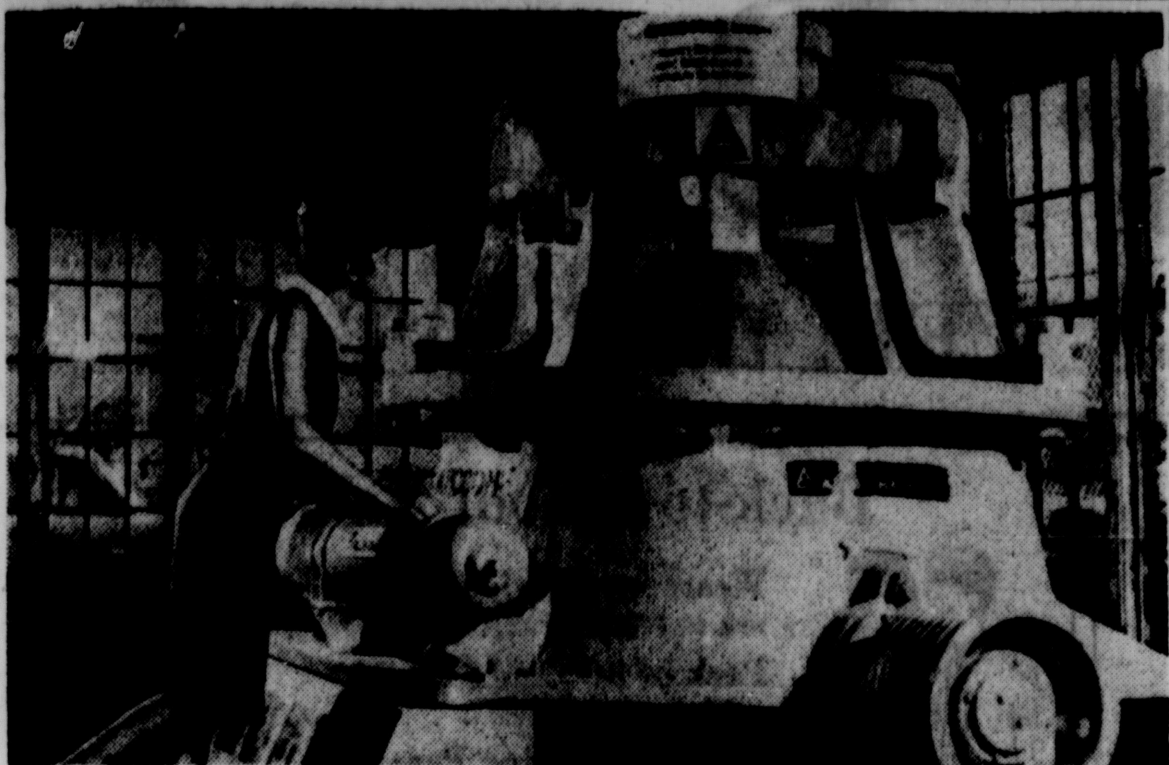

heavy boots and charged single-handed into a waiting, almost bored-looking cluster of MPs. The soldiers hauled him and two other zealots away and said they would be charged locally with disturbing the peace.

Gen. Turner casually returned the salute of an Army private first class. Moments later, he learned Pfc. George Dewitt was wearing a black arm band of mourning and had come to pay his respects "to my real commander in chief."

Soon the MPs arrested Dewitt for allegedly being AWOL from Ft. Gordon, Ga.

An angry young woman in white, who described herself as an ex-member of the party, hurled epithets at Turner. She called the quiet Oklahoma Protestant, in turn, a Communist, a Jew and a "nigger-lover."

Turner smiled politely from under his trim moustache and bowed across the hood on lighted his cigar.

MODELS GET TOGETHER—When a couple of models get together, they usually wind up talking shop—unless one of the models (the one on the right, of course) is a full-scale model of a gyratory crusher. The Allis-Chalmers International Division will feature the working model of the crusher at the company's display in the U. S. pavilion at the biennial Pacific International Trade Fair in Lima, Peru, October 27-November 12, 1967. The crusher is used primarily for ore and rocks, but can crush virtually any hard substance. Physicists Probe Atom Secrets

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Nobel Prize-winning physicists and a host of their colleagues are talking here, not of cabages and kings, but of quarks and things.

They're trying to coax secrets from a reluctant atom, but the atom's nucleus has yielded only a wonderland of confusion and mystery.

Some 350 of the world's leading theoretic physicists from this and 29 foreign countries, including the Soviet Union, are at the University of Rochester for a five-day conference on theoretical physics.

What they do here may not startle the world today, but it was this kind of scientific work that first unleashed the power of the atomic bomb.

Now the physicists are probing deeper into the atom, into its nucleus, or core, and they have found a staggering and bewildering array of particles. They're trying to find out what it's all about.

The quarks they talk about represent one attempt to make sense of all the particles. Dr. Murray Gell-Mann of the California Institute of Technology has proposed that there are three as yet undiscovered particles that constitute the basic matter of the universe.

He named them quarks, a word used by James Joyce in "Finnegan's Wake."

While experimental physicists search for quarks with their atom-smashers, the theoretical physicists here try to solve the same problem—what lies at the heart of the atom—with chalk and thought.

Four Nobel Prize winners were at the rostrum during opening sessions Monday—Dr. C. N. Yang of the State University of New York, Dr. Richard Feynman of Cal Tech, Dr. Julian Schwinger of Harvard, and Dr. Hideki Yukawa of Kyoto University in Tokyo.

Dr. Yukawa, along with Dr. Yasuhisa Kata also of Kyoto University, suggested a theory describing the particles not as point-like objects but as having form and structure.

Yakawa's theory says that the particles within the nucleus are not points, or like vanishing small balls, but are extended in space and time.

Promote Saving At Film Showing

Ulster County Savings Bank, in an effort to encourage student thrift, is pleased to announce its first annual "Young Saver's Show" at the Community Theater, Friday, 2 p.m. The Jerry Lewis laff riot, "The Delicate Delinquent," plus Cartoon Carnival, will be the featured attraction.

President Howard C. St. John said, "We have chosen a Jerry Lewis picture because he seems to be a popular figure to all ages. This production, which we are showing at the conveniently located Community Theater, is coupled with a cartoon carnival headed by such well known comics as Tom and Jerry. An Ulster County Savings student's passbook is all that is required as admission to the show. Parents are welcome to accompany their youngsters free of charge."

According to St. John, the bank has chosen this way to reach children who ordinarily do not save as well as those who are already accustomed to the habit of regular savings. He emphasized that the value of thrift should be learned during early years.

As an incentive to use the Ulster County Savings student passbook, the bank has had a passbook cover designed that is in keeping with young people. It features a big apple that is usually used as a gift to teacher and placed on her desk to brighten up her day. Students desiring to obtain a student passbook, may do so during banking hours at the Ulster County Savings Bank, 280 Wall Street.

Starting the show at Friday's performance will be Bobo the Clown entertaining live from the stage of the theater.

to accompany their youngsters free of charge."

According to St. John, the bank has chosen this way to reach children who ordinarily do not save as well as those who are already accustomed to the habit of regular savings. He emphasized that the value of thrift should be learned during early years.

As an incentive to use the Ulster County Savings student passbook, the bank has had a passbook cover designed that is in keeping with young people. It features a big apple that is usually used as a gift to teacher and placed on her desk to brighten up her day. Students desiring to obtain a student passbook, may do so during banking hours at the Ulster County Savings Bank, 280 Wall Street.

Starting the show at Friday's performance will be Bobo the Clown entertaining live from the stage of the theater.

Milwaukee Blaze Ravages Negro Hqs.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Negro open-housing demonstration tear gas from surging walls of screaming, rock-throwing whites, returned to their headquarters Tuesday night and watched it ravaged by flames. Fire officials said the fire that destroyed the headquarters of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was caused by an arsonist. The blaze erupted less than an hour after council members, led by their adviser, the Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest, escaped from a white throng police estimated at 13,000. The hecklers spilled over sidewalks along the 22-block route that took the marchers deep into the predominantly Polish South Side. The mob, chanting "kill, kill, kill," hurled insults, bottles and rocks at the 200 marchers protected by a thin line of policemen. Police said 45 persons were arrested. Twenty-two persons were injured, 11 of them policemen. A similar demonstration along the same route Monday night resulted in 16 arrests and two injuries. Less than an hour after the marchers groped their way through a protective screen of tear gas toward a viaduct leading out of the South Side Tuesday night, they were caught up in a new crisis. It developed as their bus pulled up outside council headquarters in the inner core, the Negro section that was the scene of rioting July 30. Conflicting Versions. Police and Negro witnesses gave conflicting versions of what happened.

Kathy Lindsay Has Busy Time Helping Others

NEW YORK (AP) — Kathy Lindsay is a tall, blonde teenager whose interests include show business and volunteer work and who also happens to be the daughter of New York's mayor. This summer she managed to combine those specific interests by spending six weeks of her vacation staging puppet shows for children in slum areas. Tuesday she rang down the curtain on her summer job with the Carver Houses Puppeteers in Spanish Harlem. The 23 youngsters in the troupe responded by presenting her a puppet named Peter. "Kathy is nice, 6-year-old Tanya Mays, one of the youngsters who helped make the puppets, said between blowing bubbles on her chewing gum. Kathy, 16, eldest of the four Lindsay children, has been living in Gracie Mansion with her father while the rest of the family stayed in a house at Laurel Hollow, Long Island. Each day the mayors daughter commuted to work by bus and subway. "It's really been fun, she said. "I wasn't afraid to work here. There were no disturbances or tensions."

Youth Succumbs
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 16-year-old youth, Wayne Thompson, of Alexander, Genesee County, is dead from injuries suffered when he failed to negotiate a curve on a road in Batavia and his automobile plunged down an embankment, police said. He died at Strong Memorial Hospital here Tuesday from the accident earlier in the day. He lived on Wortendyke Road.

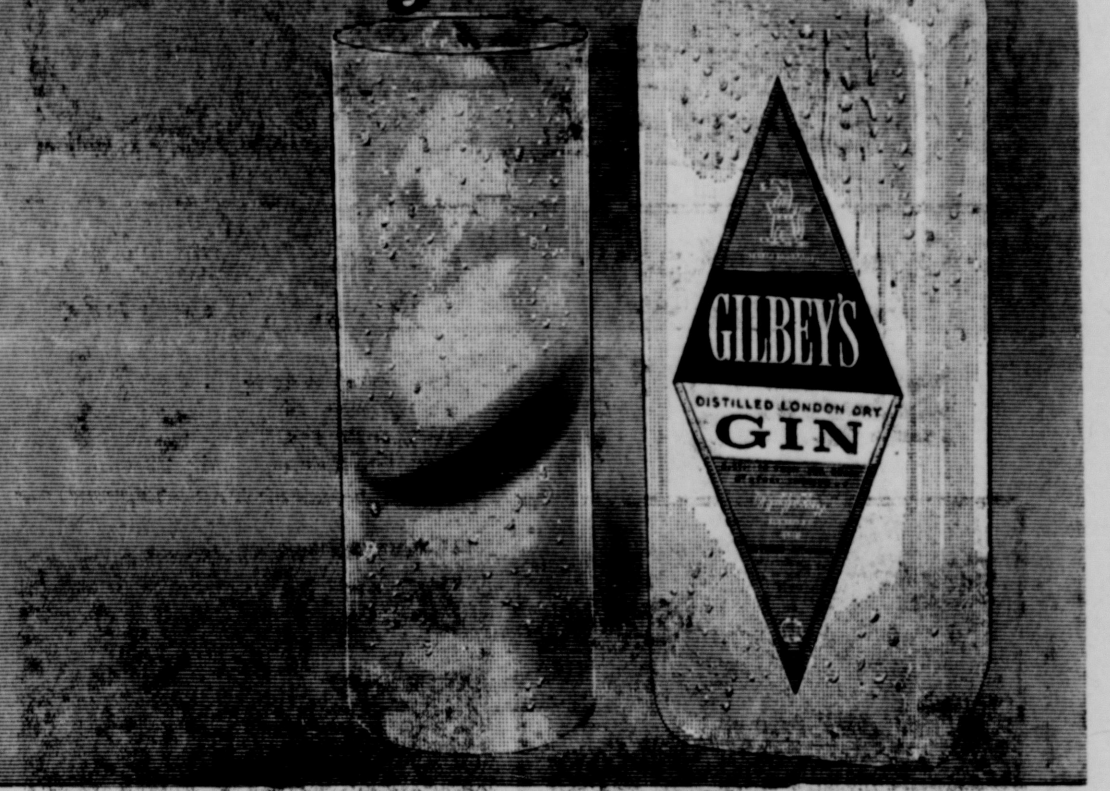

Dies of Injuries
GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — A 68-year-old woman, Miss Elizabeth Staley, of nearby Waterloo, Seneca County, is dead from injuries suffered Aug. 22 when her automobile collided with a truck, police said. She died Tuesday in a Waterloo hospital.

Rabbi Asks Investigation Of American Nazi Party

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A rabbi he was not seriously injured, day of the extreme left may be over, but the hour of the extreme right is still with us. "We can best give our tears meaning if we call for a thorough and prompt investigation of the American Nazi party and ask that all groups if the extreme right be disarmed if they profess violent aims." Rabbi Horowitz also appealed for stiffer gun-control legislation. Police said Mainville was not known to have a permit for the .32-caliber pistol found in his possession. At the funeral, Pearlberg's widow Rose, cried out several times: "Why did they kill him? Why did they kill him?" Mainville is scheduled for a hearing Friday.

Deputy Warden Neil Peterson said it appeared Mainville had fallen asleep while smoking a cigarette. Guards discovered the smoldering mattress during a routine check and doused the cell with a fire hose. Mainville was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital for treatment and then returned to the jail. At Pearlberg's funeral, Rabbi Herman Horowitz said: "The American Nazi party was being held in Albany County Jail on a first-degree murder charge in the shooting. He described himself as a Nazi storm trooper when arrested and was wearing SS storm trooper insignia on his armband and collar. Monday night, Mainville's bed-catch caught fire in his cell but Milwaukee Blaze Ravages Negro Hqs.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) —

Negro open-housing demonstration tear gas from surging walls of screaming, rock-throwing whites, returned to their headquarters Tuesday night and watched it ravaged by flames.

Fire officials said the fire that destroyed the headquarters of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was caused by an arsonist.

The blaze erupted less than an hour after council members, led by their adviser, the Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest, escaped from a white throng police estimated at 15,000.

45 Arrested
The hecklers spilled over sidewalks along the 22-block route that took the marchers deep into the predominantly Polish South Side.

The mob, chanting "kill, kill, kill," hurled insults, bottles and rocks at the 200 marchers protected by a thin line of policemen.

Police said 45 persons were arrested.

Twenty-two persons were injured, 11 of them policemen.

A similar demonstration along the same route Monday night resulted in 16 arrests and two injuries.

Less than an hour after the marchers groped their way through a protective screen of tear gas toward a viaduct leading out of the South Side Tuesday night, they were caught up in a new crisis.

It developed as their bus pulled up outside council headquarters in the inner core, the Negro section that was the scene of rioting July 30.

Conflicting Versions
Police and Negro witnesses gave conflicting versions of what happened.

Kathy Lindsay Has Busy Time Helping Others

NEW YORK (AP) — Kathy Lindsay is a tall, blonde teenager whose interests include show business and volunteer work and who also happens to be the daughter of New York's mayor.

This summer she managed to combine those specific interests by spending six weeks of her vacation staging puppet shows for children in slum areas.

Tuesday she rang down the curtain on her summer job with the Carver Houses Puppeteers in Spanish Harlem. The 25 youngsters in the troupe responded by presenting her a puppet named Peter.

"Kathy is nice, 6-year-old Tanya Mays, one of the youngsters who helped make the puppets, said between blowing bubbles on her chewing gum.

Kathy, 16, eldest of the four Lindsay children, has been living in Gracie Mansion with her father while the rest of the family stayed in a house at Laurel Hollow, Long Island.

Each day the mayors daughter commuted to work by bus and subway. "It's really been fun, she said. "I wasn't afraid to work here. There were no disturbances or tensions.

He died at Strong Memorial Hospital here Tuesday from the accident earlier in the day.

He lived on Wortendyke Road.

Rabbi Asks Investigation Of American Nazi Party

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A rabbi called for an investigation of the American Nazi Party Monday at the funeral of Harry Pearlberg, 59, of Troy, who was shot to death Saturday while making a collection at a home in nearby Cohoes.

Francis Mainville, 29, of Cohoes, a former member of the American Nazi party was being held in Albany County Jail on a first-degree murder charge in the shooting. He described himself as a Nazi storm trooper when arrested, and was wearing SS storm trooper insignia on his armband and collar.

Monday night, Mainville's bedding caught fire in his cell but he was not seriously injured.

Deputy Warden Neil Peterson said it appeared Mainville had fallen asleep while smoking a cigarette. Guards discovered the smoldering mattress during a routine check and doused the cell with a fire hose.

Mainville was taken to Albany Medical Center Hospital for treatment and then returned to the jail.

At Pearlberg's funeral, Rabbi Herman Horowitz said: "the Mainville is scheduled for a hearing Friday.

BERLIN (AP) — At the advice of her doctor, gospel singer Mahalia Jackson has postponed indefinitely a European concert tour to avoid the possibility of a heart attack. "I want to sing," she cried, wiping her wet eyes Monday. "Oh, how I want to sing. What about all those people who have paid money to see me? Will they understand?" Dr. Rolf Schroeder, cardiac specialist at the West Berlin Westend Hospital, said, "The burden of performing would have been a great strain on her heart and could have led to a heart attack." Miss Jackson, 55, suffered a heart attack three years ago.

Saugerties News

School Tax Rate Listed At $103.57; Bills Due Sept. 5

Saugerties Central School District tax rates have been established by the Board of Education at its Aug. 21st meeting.

The tax rolls were confirmed and the tax warrant signed. Collection will begin Sept. 5, and will continue through Oct. 6 without penalty, the board said. Taxes paid after Oct. 6 and through Oct. 31 will be subject to a penalty charge of two percent and taxes paid through the remainder of the collection period ending Nov. 10 will pay a three percent penalty.

The total budget established is $3,476,142.14. Residents of Saugerties Township will be assessed $103.56, an increase of 62 cents over last year. The rate in Glasco District No. 9, where bonds and interest have been inherited from the old Glasco district, will be $106.92, an increase of 53 cents.

The portions of townships of Woodstock and Ulster encompassed in the school district will pay $121,629 and $103.48.

Additional Saugerties School news includes the acceptance of low bids for Feeder Route No. 1 to Granville Myers at $2,000 and another Feeder Route to Edgar Wilhelm of $600. The bids were presented by Director of Transportation Gerald L. Snyder.

A list of newly adopted text books for the Junior and Senior High School was approved. David Cunningham, administrative assistant, received approval of the Board to include Ulster County Community College courses in the Continuing Education program.

Cunningham explained that it is expected that several courses taught by the Ulster Community College faculty will be taught in conjunction with the Saugerties program and will be offered at the Saugerties High School. Available courses will be announced later.

Low grocery bids were accepted from Monarch Institutional Foods, Schenectady Importing, Ginsburgh Institutional Foods and A. T. Distributors Inc.

Low meat bids were received from Oak Hill Quality Meats, Silver Beef Company, Catskill Grocery and Monarch Institutional Foods.

School lunch prices have been set at 30 cents for elementary school lunches and 35 cents at the Junior-Senior High School. Adult lunches will sell at 45 cents.

Delegate Big Man: Campbell

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Alan K. "Scotty" Campbell, a principal figure in the Constitutional Convention's debate on local finance, is a professor who plies a relaxed course between the groves of academe and the corridors of political power.

At Syracuse University, where he teaches political science and heads a metropolitan studies program, he is known as Dr. Campbell, author and expert on political economy.

In Albany, and wherever else the Democratic high command needs his advice, he is "Scotty" Campbell, a suave, tough-minded political pro.

New in Limelight

Like many of the men in Convention President Anthony J. Travia's unofficial brain trust, Campbell was little known to the general public before Travia became the Democratic speaker of the Assembly and top man at the convention.

"Check with Scotty Campbell on that," was a phrase heard with recurring frequency by observers as Travia consolidated his leadership role early this year.

The 43-year-old Campbell frequently sits in on the long Sunday night sessions in Travia's office, when the speaker's shirt-sleeved advisers do their brainstorming.

His special status was underlined last winter when U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, State Democratic Chairman John Burns and Travia assigned Campbell to select the technical experts who advise the convention committees.

Then, Travia named him chairman of the Committee on Local Government and Home Rule and a member of the powerful Rules Committee.

Campbell, a rugged, sandy-haired six-footer, quickly won a reputation among the politically sophisticated delegates as an articulate operative lacking in the pomposity sometimes ascribed to his profession.

When one of his pet projects—a move to lower the legal voting age in this state from 21 to 18—failed in the convention, Campbell accepted the defeat philosophically. One of his Republican colleagues—an Update legislator—remarked, "Scotty" took it like a pro. He doesn't cry when he doesn't get his way."

Defeated Again

Campbell must have drawn on the same stoicism Monday when the convention voted to retain the status quo on firm legislative control over local taxing power.

He long has espoused proposals aimed at helping New York's beleaguered big cities obtain more financial strength with which to fight their multitudinous problems. Many of his books have focused on this subject.

He says he still hopes, however, that the convention will accept plans to expand the power of communities to borrow and tax real property.

When he's not teaching or chatting with Travia or Kennedy or other Democrats seeking his advice, Campbell enjoys his time at home in Cazenovia with his wife and two children.

An avid football fan, he roots hard for the Syracuse Orange and slipped away recently to Ithaca to watch the New York Giants play an exhibition game.

Parley on Problems Of Handicapped Child

Dr. Helen L. Metzger, supervising psychiatrist of the Children's Unit at Middletown State Hospital, Middletown, will be one of the guest panelists at the conference on problems of the handicapped child to be held Sept. 8 and 9 at the State University College in New Paltz.

Jerome M. Goodman, staff psychologist at Saint Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, who is co-chairman of the Conference, announced that Dr. Metzger will discuss the schizophrenic child who refuses to face reality and frequently acts in bizarre fashion.

Dr. Metzger, mother of three children, is a Barnard College graduate and took her medical training at Syracuse. She has been supervising psychiatrist at Middletown for the past 7½ years.

Sedition Charged

HONG KONG (AP) — Three executives of pro-Communist Hong Kong newspapers whose arrests sparked the Red Guard burning of the British Mission in Peking two weeks ago were found guilty of sedition today and sentenced to three years in prison.

Two more executives, a man and a woman, are still being tried for sedition.

The five were arrested after three small newspapers they were connected with printed what the government charged were "seditious" articles.

Awaits Appeal

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Army Capt. Howard B. Levy, convicted on charges of disloyalty and disobedience in refusing to train Vietnam-bound medics, must wait until October for a hearing on an appeal asking that he be released on bail.

U.S. District Court officials at Columbia were notified Monday that the 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond, Va., had declined his request for an earlier hearing.

3 Others Quit UR

By HUGH REYNOLDS

There is just one man left in the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency hierarchy. Today, Attorney S. James Matthews resigned, along with Edmund S. Peppard and William T. Mahoney, both members of the agency.

The remaining member, David C. Schechter, expressed surprise this morning at Mahoney's resignation. He told The Freeman, "I thought at least one member would stay on to give the program some sort of continuity. Bill Mahoney's leaving is quite a surprise."

Schechter was asked if he would remain. He said he hadn't made a decision but would probably decide by Friday.

Monday, Executive Director Eric Hemphill resigned, followed by Chairman Frank A. Reis and Vincent G. Connelly, yesterday.

Peppard's statement was in line with the resignations issued by Reis and Connelly in that he attacked Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and supported Hemphill and the agency.

Mahoney made no mention of the congressman, stating that he resigned to "give Mayor Garraghan absolute freedom in choosing a new board." Mahoney added that he would be willing to serve on such a board if the mayor asked him. Matthews said in his statement this morning, "My resignation is not motivated by any factor other than a desire to devote my complete activities to my private law practice."

Matthews went on to say that people have become apprehensive about serving in a non-salaried post. "Duty to citizenship does not require one to submit to assassination of one's character and name," he declared.

Delaware GI Killed in Viet

SIDNEY, N.Y. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Jimmie D. Dutcher, 20, who was wounded during a skirmish in Vietnam five months ago, was killed in combat last Thursday in that Southeast Asian country.

Dutcher, who lived here and had attended schools in this village near Oneonta, enlisted in the Marine Corps in June 1964. He was sent to Vietnam this year.

He was the son of Mrs. Margaret Dutcher.

Arlene Forms in Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Arlene, first tropical storm of the season, formed in the eastern Atlantic today 2,500 miles east of Miami, the National Hurricane Center reported.

The storm's 60-mile-an-hour winds were expected to reach hurricane force by Thursday, the center said.

Arlene was moving toward the northwest at 17 miles per hour and was expected to maintain the same course and forward speed during the next 24 hours.

An advisory issued by the Weather Bureau said the storm could threaten no land area for at least two days.

The report was based on ship sightings and satellite information. A Navy plane was scheduled to investigate the storm later today.

No Trace Yet Of Figure in Area Manhunt

Authorities reported today that no trace of an alleged car thief has been uncovered through search by state troopers and deputy sheriffs, since the man fled into the woods near Mount Tremper after he smashed the car early yesterday.

The much-sought man, who eluded capture during and after a police chase along the State Thruway from a point north of Cornwall to the Saugerties exit, apparently made a getaway by hitching a ride before dawn Tuesday.

As far as could be learned, the manhunt, which lasted for hours, was called off later in the day. The car involved was reported stolen in a Long Island community.

Fined in Assault

The assault of a nine-year-old Windham boy yesterday afternoon led to the arrest of 18-year-old Edward Landing of Pierce Lane, Port Washington, Wis., according to Leeds State Police. Following the 4 p. m. incident, Landing was arraigned before Judge Clinton Slatoff of Windham, was fined $25 and released.

British Columbia has an area of 366,255 square miles—greater than the combined areas of California, Ohio, Oregon and Washington.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market put on another doubtful showing early Wednesday. Trading was moderate.

Gains almost doubled losses but an indifferent performance among industrial blue chips left the Dow Jones industrial average virtually unchanged.

The auto stocks, strong on Tuesday, were narrowly mixed on a published report that the auto union bargaining committee had turned down labor contract offers by the Big Three, as expected.

General Motors and Chrysler were down fractionally, Ford was unchanged and American Motors edged higher.

Little leadership was displayed anywhere in the list. Raytheon rose more than 2 points and Sperry Rand climbed almost a point in active trading.

Kaiser-Roth eased as it paced the list on volume.

Glen Alden, involved in merger rumors again, was firm and active.

Joe Ponders Choice For Farm Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., persistent critic of the American Farm Bureau Federation, says he is considering legislation to require the farm bureau to choose between its tax-exempt status and its commercial ventures.

Resnick said he is thinking of introducing a bill to bar tax-exempt organizations from controlling or operating commercial firms in which they are majority stockholders.

Resnick obtained a general endorsement of his proposal from Herschel Newsom, master of the National Grange.

"I can't see anything basically or philosophically wrong with your position," Newsom said when asked by Resnick for his opinion of such legislation.

Newsom appeared Tuesday at Resnick's one-man investigation of the Farm Bureau.

Top executives of two other farm groups, the National Farmers Union and the National Farm Organization, were scheduled to appear today. Resnick said officials of the Farm Bureau have not accepted his invitation to testify.

Newsom said the Grange believes it best serves rural America by not engaging in business activities.

"To become an effective farm organization," he said, "we learned long ago that it would be best to stay out of the business world."

Newsom submitted for Resnick's inspection the latest financial statement of the Grange.

"We're not afraid of any examination," he said. "We want the record to be perfectly clear."

Resnick has been sharply critical of farm bureau operations in insurance and other business activities.

"The way private enterprise is being challenged today by tax-exempt organizations indicates," he said, "that some way must be found to regulate them."

In a statement for today's edition of the Congressional Record, Resnick said he has information that two Farm Bureau insurance firms in Manhattan, Kan., have made a practice of providing season tickets to Kansas State University football and basketball games to the office of the Kansas commissioner of insurance.

A spokesman for the two firms, Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co. and Farm Bureau Life Insurance Co., denied any season tickets had been provided.

Ward Wright, director of insurance services for the two firms, said: "We have on occasion provided tickets to the commissioner as our guest."

Wright also denied Resnick's statement that executives of the two companies were provided with memberships in a country club.

The Merilina Avenue entrance to the Bailey or Edson Schools will be closed as follows: 7:30 a. m. to 9:15 a. m.; 2:30 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

All Schools

At the close of the 1966-67 school year a letter was sent to all parents and guardians of children who, according to the school health record, have not been properly immunized against poliomyelitis. The letter stated that a child would not be admitted to school Sept. 6 unless a parent or a guardian submitted evidence that the child had been properly immunized against poliomyelitis.

This requirement comes as a result of a new state law. The evidence of immunization must be in the form of a statement from a parent, a statement from the family doctor, or a certificate from the health department. A parent or a guardian who wishes to have his child immunized against polio because of religious belief must submit a letter to the superintendent of schools to this effect. All parents are again reminded of this new regulation.

into the Kingston Consolidated School District during the summer and who have children eligible for entrance to kindergarten, should register their children on Friday, Sept. 1 or on the opening day, Sept. 6. To be eligible for kindergarten a child must be at least 4 years, 9 months of age as of Sept. 8, 1967, or 5 years of age as of Dec. 8, 1967. Evidence of birth date, such as birth certificate, baptismal certificate, passport, etc., along with a record of the child's immunizations should be presented to school officials at the time of registration. All other children new to the school should also report to the principal's office with transfer records.

The Kingston Board of Education furnishes all textbooks and necessary supplies that are used in the regular school program.

Jr., Sr. HS

The junior and senior schools of Kingston will open Sept. 6. Students who have previously attended J. Watson Bailey Junior High School, Myron J. Michael Junior High School or Kingston High School should report to their last semester's home rooms at 8:30 a. m. on this date to receive their new home room assignments and class schedules. They will be dismissed at 11:30 a. m.

Bus services will run at the times indicated in "Scholarship and Cents" recently published in The Kingston Daily Freeman.

School authorities pointed out that bus service will be provided at midday to transport bus students dismissed at 11:30 a. m. and to bring in new registrants, entitled to bus service, by 12:30 p. m.

It was also pointed out that no cafeteria services will be provided at any of the secondary schools on the first day of school, Sept. 6.

All 7th grade students who attended the Edson School last year are to report to the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School Auditorium at 8:30 a. m. on Sept. 6.

In order to provide for the loading and unloading of the various routes it will be necessary to close the entrance to the school property to the Bailey and Edson Schools at the Merilina Avenue line. All parents who wish to bring their children to school or who wish to pick them up will have to enter the Bailey or Edson property from Quarry Street and would discharge or pick up the children at the area between the two wings near the cafeteria entrance to the Bailey School. This would also apply to the teachers at Bailey and Edson Schools, who will be driving to school. This would eliminate any traffic from Merilina Avenue to the Edson or the Bailey Schools thus leaving this area clear for bus traffic.

The Merilina Avenue entrance to the Bailey or Edson Schools will be closed as follows: 7:30 a. m. to 9:15 a. m.; 2:30 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

A parent or a guardian who wishes to have his child immunized against polio because of religious belief must submit a letter to the superintendent of schools to this effect. All parents are again reminded of this new regulation.

At the close of the 1966-67 school year a letter was sent to all parents and guardians of children who, according to the school health record, have not been properly immunized against poliomyelitis. The letter stated that a child would not be admitted to school Sept. 6 unless a parent or a guardian submitted evidence that the child had been properly immunized against poliomyelitis.

This requirement comes as a result of a new state law. The evidence of immunization must be in the form of a statement from a parent, a statement from the family doctor, or a certificate from the health department. Sullivan Man Held in Ohio On Manslaughter

A 21-year-old Sullivan County man was in custody today in Columbus, O., facing a charge of first degree manslaughter in the death of a carnival worker on the Ohio State Fairgrounds on Sunday.

The Associated Press reported Sylvester Conklin, of Liberty, was arrested by the Ohio Highway Patrol Tuesday. Officials said J. Bell, 24, of Monticello, died of neck and head injuries when he fell from an amusement ride walkway to the ground.

Authorities said they were told Bell had been struck during an argument between the two men.

Ward Wright, director of insurance services for the two firms, said: "We have on occasion provided tickets to the commissioner as our guest."

Wright also denied Resnick's statement that executives of the two companies were provided with memberships in a country club.

3 Others Quit UR

By HUGH REYNOLDS

There is just one man left in the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency hierarchy. Today, Attorney S. James Matthews resigned, along with Edmund S. Peppard and William T. Mahoney, both members of the agency.

The remaining member, David C. Schechter, expressed surprise this morning at Mahoney's resignation. He told The Freeman, "I thought at least one member would stay on to give the program some sort of continuity. Bill Mahoney's leaving is quite a surprise."

Schechter was asked if he would remain. He said he hadn't made a decision but would probably decide by Friday.

Monday, Executive Director Eric Hemphill resigned, followed by Chairman Frank A. Reis and Vincent G. Connelly, yesterday.

Peppard's statement was in line with the resignations issued by Reis and Connelly in that he attacked Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and supported Hemphill and the agency.

Mahoney made no mention of the congressman, stating that he resigned to "give Mayor Garraghan absolute freedom in choosing a new board." Mahoney added that he would be willing to serve on such a board if the mayor asked him.

Matthews said in his statement this morning, "My resignation is not motivated by any factor other than a desire to devote my complete activities to my private law practice."

Matthews went on to say that people have become apprehensive about serving in a non-salaried post. "Duty to citizenship does not require one to submit to assassination of one's character and name," he declared.

Delaware GI Killed in Viet

SIDNEY, N.Y. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Jimmie D. Dutcher, 20, who was wounded during a skirmish in Vietnam five months ago, was killed in combat last Thursday in South Vietnam. Dutcher, who lived here and had attended schools in this village near Oneonta, enlisted in the Marine Corps in June 1964. He was sent to Vietnam this year. He was the son of Mrs. Margaret Dutcher.

Arlene Forms in Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Arlene, first tropical storm of the season, formed in the eastern Atlantic today 2,500 miles east of Miami, the National Hurricane Center reported.

The storm's 60-mile-an-hour winds were expected to reach hurricane force by Thursday, the center said.

Arlene was moving toward the northwest at 17 miles per hour and was expected to maintain the same course and forward speed during the next 24 hours.

An advisory issued by the Weather Bureau said the storm could threaten no land area for at least two days.

The report was based on ship sightings and satellite information. A Navy plane was scheduled to investigate the storm later today.

No Trace Yet Of Figure in Area Manhunt

Authorities reported today that no trace of an alleged car thief has been uncovered through search by state troopers and deputy sheriffs, since the man fled into the woods near Mount Tremper after he smashed the car early yesterday.

The much-sought man, who eluded capture during and after a police chase along the State Thruway from a point north of Cornwall to the Saugerties exit, apparently made a getaway by hitching a ride before dawn Tuesday.

As far as could be learned the manhunt, which lasted for hours, was called off later in the day. The car involved was reported stolen in a Long Island community.

Fined in Assault

The assault of a nine-year-old Windham boy yesterday afternoon led to the arrest of 18-year-old Edward Landing of Port Washington, Port Washington, according to Leeds State Police. Following the 4 p. m. incident, Landing was arraigned before Judge Clinton S. Slot of Windham, was fined $25 and released.

British Columbia has an area of 366,255 square miles—greater than the combined areas of California, Ohio, Oregon and Washington.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market put on another doubtful showing early Wednesday. Trading was moderate.

Gains almost doubled losses but an indifferent performance among industrial blue chips left the Dow Jones industrial average virtually unchanged.

The auto stocks, strong on Tuesday, were narrowly mixed on a published report that the auto union bargaining committee had turned down labor contract offers by the Big Three, as expected.

General Motors and Chrysler were down fractionally. Ford was unchanged and American Motors edged higher.

Little leadership was displayed anywhere in the list. Raytheon rose more than 2 points and Sperry Rand climbed almost a point in active trading.

Kaiser-Roth eased as it paced the list on volume.

Glen Alden, involved in merger rumors again, was firm and active.

Joe Ponders Choice For Farm Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., persistent critic of the American Farm Bureau Federation, says he is considering legislation to require the farm bureau to choose between its tax-exempt status and its commercial ventures.

Resnick said he is thinking of introducing a bill to bar tax-exempt organizations from controlling or operating commercial firms in which they are majority stockholders.

Resnick obtained a general endorsement of his proposal from Herschel Newsom, master of the National Grange.

"I can't see anything basically or philosophically wrong with your position," Newsom said when asked by Resnick for his opinion of such legislation.

Newsom appeared Tuesday at Resnick's one-man investigation of the Farm Bureau.

Top executives of two other farm groups, the National Farmers Union and the National Farm Organization, were scheduled to appear today. Resnick said officials of the Farm Bureau have not accepted his invitation to testify.

Newsom said the Grange believes it best serves rural America by not engaging in business activities.

"To become an effective farm organization," he said, "we learned long ago that it would be best to stay out of the business world."

Newsom submitted for Resnick's inspection the latest financial statement of the Grange.

"We're not afraid of any examination," he said. "We want the record to be perfectly clear."

Resnick has been sharply critical of farm bureau operations in insurance and other business activities.

"The way private enterprise is being challenged today by tax-exempt organizations indicates," he said, "that some way must be found to regulate them."

In a statement for today's edition of the Congressional Record, Resnick said he has information that two Farm Bureau insurance firms in Manhattan, Kan., have made a practice of providing season tickets to Kansas State University football and basketball games to the office of the Kansas commissioner of insurance.

A spokesman for the two firms, Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co. and Farm Bureau Life Insurance Co., denied any season tickets had been provided.

Ward Wright, director of insurance services for the two firms, said: "We have on occasion provided tickets to the commissioner as our guest."

Wright also denied Resnick's statement that executives of the two companies were provided with memberships in a country club.

The Meritline Avenue entrance to the Bailey or Edson Schools will be closed as follows: 7:30 a. m. to 9:15 a. m.; 2:30 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

A) Con Edison declared a dividend of 45 cents a share on April 25, payable June 15 to stock of record May 5. You should have received this dividend. Brokers have had serious delays in deliveries because of booming volume and your stock may not have been transferred into your name before the record date. Rocky Names McMorran To Head Transit Office

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Public Works Superintendent J. Burch McMorran is Gov. Rockefeller's choice to head the new State Department of Transportation when the agency officially comes into existence on Friday.

The agency created by the Legislature this year at Rockefeller's request to make a wider state approach to New York's transportation problems, will absorb the Public Works Department and several other governmental units.

PW Boss Since '59
McMorran, who has headed Public Works since 1959, will become commissioner of the new department.

His appointment was made public Tuesday by Rockefeller's office.

E. Burton Hughes was named executive deputy commissioner and Bayard S. Forster was appointed deputy commissioner for the New York Metropolitan area.

Hughes has been deputy superintendent of public works and Forster has been acting as director of the State Office of Transportation.

McMorran is a resident of Troy, Hughes lives in the Albany suburb of Delmar and Forster in Garrison, Putnam County.

Rockefeller's press office said the appointees' salaries had not been determined yet.

The new department's future hinges largely on the decision the New York voters balloting on a $2.5-billion transportation bond issue in November's election.

If the bond-borrowing is approved, the new department will play a major role in Rockefeller's program for improving mass-transit facilities.

Consolidate Activities
In the meantime, the department will consolidate the activities of the Public Works Department, the Office of Transportation, the State Traffic Commission and the Bureau of Aviation, now part of the Commerce Department.

In the realignment, the Division of Architecture, now part of public works, will be shifted to the Office of General Services, and the Conservation Department will assume Public Works' responsibilities for flood and beach-erosion control.

The 68-year-old McMorran joined the Public Works Department in 1917 while he was still in college. Later, he performed engineering jobs for the State Thruway Authority and the State Power Authority, before returning to the department as superintendent in 1959.

Hughes, also a career employee, joined the department as a junior civil engineer in 1925 and rose through the ranks to the deputy superintendent's post in 1952.

Forster, a former management consultant, became deputy director of the Office of Transportation in 1961 and director in 1963.

First Peek At Woman's World?

BY LYNN MULVANEY

When tiny Paula Materci made her debut into the world early Monday morning, her first impression, that perhaps its a woman's world, is entirely understandable.

There she was, a six-pound, blue-eyed bundle of new-born happiness, being gently tucked in beside her mother, Norma Materci.

She was being placed there by two more gals, who had just delivered and tended her, Emily Stokes and Harriet Weber.

What's more, who do you suppose was driving the ambulance that was racing mother and child on Rt. 209 from Kyserville to Benedictine Hospital in Kingston?

You guessed it, another member of the fair sex, Florence Krom.

"How many girls in the family does that make now? Mrs. Materci," someone asked.

More at Home

Paula heard her mother reply, "Five, there are four more at home."

Little Paula knows now however that there is another and very important segment to the population — men. Her daddy, Michael popped in at the hospital soon after, threw her a big kiss and whispered something about there being a brother at home too.

For Emily and Harriet, delivering a baby in a moving ambulance was not a unique experience. They and Florence, who drove, all members of the Rondout Valley First Aid and Rescue Squad have been through this sort of happening before.

Harriet, who first delivered her sister's baby a number of years ago, also assisted in a birth which occurred on a rescue squad stretcher in a hospital emergency room.

Emily Stokes' most recent experience was the delivery of a baby en route to the hospital last February during a Kingston area snowstorm.

The rescue squad, which of course includes an ample supply of rescue trained men, answered five accident calls during the past week. The group, which will hold its next meeting Sept. 11 at 8 p. m. will also hold a penny social night.

In a letter to Maurice Hinchey Sr., Democratic town chairman, Schovel expressed his interest in the nomination and stated that he will vigorously campaign for that spot on the Democratic ticket this fall.

A Saugerties resident by choice, Schovel moved to this area from Locust Dale, Pa., the coal mining section where he was raised. He graduated high school in 1937 and enrolled in a two year training course with the Davey Institute of Tree Surgery in Kent, O.

In 1942 Schovel enlisted in the Navy and saw service as a Chief QM aboard a mine sweeper in the Pacific. Discharged in 1945, he returned to work for the Davey Tree Service. During 11 years with that organization he worked in 40 states.

He is married to the former Gloria Schultz and they are the parents of three boys and two daughters who range in age from 7 to 19 years. The oldest, Michael Jr., attends the University of Syracuse.

He is active in local sporting activities and the sponsor of Gloria Schultz and they are the several teams in the area. In 1966 he was the recipient of an award from the Saugerties Softball League for significant and outstanding service to the league.

Juarez Gives 15,000 Divorces

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Civil court officials in this border town say they have granted up to 15,000 divorces this month, many of them involving persons from New York State.

A new divorce law takes effect Sept. 1 in New York State and the court room rush apparently is an attempt to beat that deadline.

Last Saturday and Monday, a Mexican official said, 2,472 divorces were granted, almost three a minute. Comparative figures for another two-day period were not available.

Umberto Lara Leos, officer in charge of registering divorce registrations, said last Wednesday that, of the 4,000 divorces granted here since Aug. 1, about 90 per cent were to persons from New York State.

The grounds for a Mexican divorce are mutual consent and incompatibility of character.

Beginning Sept. 1, divorces obtained outside of New York State will be subject to a charge of fraud if one or the other parties re-establishes residency within 18 months.

Big Problems Facing Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan is in a state of suspense, as one official describes it, but it is in better condition than many foresaw two months ago after the Middle East war.

It faces crushing problems: It lost its richest land and its 28-plane air force. Its 56,000-man army was knocked out. It has 230,000 refugees to be fed and housed.

And if it becomes clear that Israel intends to keep all the Jordan-claimed territory west of the Jordan River, Arab political circles say, King Hussein's regime could face an upheaval.

There is evidence that Jordan is trying to prevent any efforts to explode armed resistance in the territory occupied by Israel despite Israeli contentions the government is inciting Arabs on the rich west bank to rebel.

Middle East war and no riots have erupted.

The Israelis have made no claims of arms being smuggled across the river, where secret crossings are easy and frequent.

Security sources add that Jordan arrested eight Syrian infiltrators who tried to slip into the occupied zone this month on a guerrilla raid against the Israelis.

One European diplomat observed: "Jordan wants to keep the resistance passive."

It has reason for wanting quiet on the west bank. Chaos or terrorism, or Israeli reprisals that could follow an uprising, would send countless more refugees fleeing into eastern Jordan.

An Arab resistance campaign, the government calculates, would give Israel an excuse to refuse permission for the present refugees to return to their homes. Jordan hopes Israel can be persuaded to accept 150,000 or more.

Toward Clean Carnival Songs

BY MARIO DE ARATANHA
Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Antonio Carlos Jobim and Vinícius de Moraes, composers of "The Girl from Ipanema," are leading a movement of Brazilian bossa nova musicians towards what they call revival of a "true Carnival."

The movement aims to renew the style of compositions to be sung during the four-day frolic. The composers also want to better the songs' quality, very poor during the last few years.

Carnival is Brazil's most popular party, and thousands of light songs are composed every year specifically to be sung by merry-makers during the street dancing and balls.

"But the so-called Carnival composers, reasoning that Carnival songs should be easy for people to sing, have been simplifying them too much and making them totally worthless," says Vinícius de Moraes.

"Some of them are even basing their songs in obscenities as a way of attracting attention," he continues. "This is exactly what we are trying to avoid," he adds.

After the "clear" writers had carried on a long struggle against Carnival disc jockeys, some of them partners of dirty-song composers, they created the movement, recruiting some of the most important names in modern Brazilian music.

ALFRED D. RONDER

HERMAN G. RAFALOWSKY

General Chairmen Named For Israel Bond Drive

Alfred D. Ronder and Herman G. Rafalowsky have been selected as general chairmen of the 1967 Kingston Area State of Israel Bond Program, it was announced today by the Kingston Area Israel Bond Committee.

Ronder and Rafalowsky issued the following statement: "The people of the State of Israel, survivors of the Nazi terror in Europe, the victims of oppression in North Africa, the Middle East and other areas, are determined to survive and build their country. This is the meaning of the 'Six-Day War'."

"We are proud to be associated in the leadership of the Israel Bond campaign, which is dedicated to the economic development and strengthening of the State of Israel. Today there is not yet permanent peace in the Middle East, but Israel has thrown back the threat to drive her people into the sea, and is firmly continuing to build an outstanding democracy in the Middle East. We can do nothing less than help them to the utmost in their noble and heroic endeavor."

"We call on our friends in the Kingston area to participate to the fullest extent with us in the Israel Bond Drive. By your purchase of Israel Bonds, you help to provide jobs, to build homes, to expand industrial production, to develop new irrigation projects, to build new roads, harbors, railways and electric power, and to develop the Negev Desert. There never was a time when Israel Bond investment dollars were more needed than right now."

"We, as Americans, feel a sincere and great pride in the accomplishment of the State of Israel. We have deep satisfaction in the knowledge that Israel has put our financial support to highly productive use. Our answer to the Arab threat to destroy the State of Israel is 'Support Israel now more than ever before.'"

Ronder and Rafalowsky announce that a series of meetings will take place during September throughout the Kingston area for the purpose of advancing the sale of Israel Bonds. A record sale of $75,000 is anticipated to meet Israel's enormous needs at this time.

Ronder is president of the Kingston Savings and Loan Association, and is a long-time leader in many civic and religious activities in the community. Rafalowsky is past president of Congregation Ahavath Israel and has been for many years associated with the Bonds for Israel program and the United Jewish Appeal drive in the community.

Israel Bonds may be purchased by contacting Ronder at 286 Clinton Avenue or Rafalowsky, 71 Albany Avenue, or any member of the committee. Israel Bonds come in denominations of $100, $250, $500, $1,000, $1,500, $1,800 and up. These bonds are redeemable at maturity or on a visit to Israel. Persons owning bonds from the year 1957 are notified that their bonds are due this year, and payment of principal plus full interest will be made. These persons are also urged to reinvest their matured bonds," the chairmen said.

Plan to Start New Drum Corps

A senior drum corps is now being formed in Cossackie under the direction of Marie Hannibal.

The group will be known as "The Crescendos" formerly a junior corps directed by Miss Hannibal, a leader with 24 years experience.

Anyone over 16 years of age with corps experience may contact Miss Hannibal, Box 13, Ravenna or Mrs. Richard Harris, Catskill.

Weed Out Undercover Cong

Develop Swoop Down Mission in Vietnam

BONG SON PLAIN, Vietnam (AP) — Because the idea is to move in quickly and capture people, the 1st Brigade of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division officially calls them snatch missions.

Working with field forces of the South Vietnamese national police, the troopers conduct an average of two such missions a day in this coastal area 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

They move in with swift air operations that are designed to catch Viet Cong or North Vietnamese regulars who try to mingle with the peasants in the fields or people in hamlets and villages.

The Communists figure they won't be subject to an all-out shooting assault if they blend themselves with the people, and the snatch missions are designed to counter this strategy. Here is what it is like on a typical mission with the 1st Battalion, 12th Cavalry.

Lt. Col. Lloyd R. Rhiddlehoover of Hot Springs, Ark., the battalion commander, and Maj. Roderick E. Ordway of Chevy Chase, Md., crank up their command helicopter and fly over hostile territory looking for likely objectives. Back at the base, six helicopters with a platoon of cavalrymen stand by for orders.

"When we see a lot of people in the open fields working, we swoop down on them," Rhiddlehoover said. "I first select a target area by throwing smoke grenades, then helicopters loaded with U.S. troopers and Vietnamese national police swoop down and corral them right where they are, men, women and children.

"The national police then interrogate them and weed out the suspects. We get a lot of intelligence from the ones we round up. When the police get one, it snowballs. They make them talk."

Pollen Is Important Goal for Research

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Pollen, the tiny structure produced by all flowering plants, has become an important tool for archaeological research in the Museum of New Mexico's research laboratory.

Sometimes 100 million years old, pollen is found in archaeological digs on just about every level.

After treating these microscopic specks, the researcher can identify the parent plant and the climate it grew in. The pollen analyst then knows whether the Indians who lived during that time faced a dry period or a wet one, a cold climate or a warm one. This knowledge in turn gives the archaeologist some insight into how ancient men lived.

The new tool, together with dating methods such as stratigraphy, tree-ring analysis, carbon dating and magnetic pole orientation, is one of an array of methods for fixing the age of artifacts and ruins.

There also may come a time when the study of climatic patterns will let man chart future climate conditions.

about 30 other Viet Cong. The next day we went in to police up the area. We picked up eight hard-core Viet Cong and weapons. The hideout was a message center for the district in the Bong Son plain. That was the contact point for the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong."

Working with the snatch teams are two scout ships, little bubble-topped helicopters that fly just above the ground chasing Viet Cong suspects who try to run.

"We try different times of the day," Ordway said. "Morning is the best time to hit. At times when they see us fly low, they wave at us. These Viet Cong, they're getting smarter all the time. One time one was dressed as a woman to try to keep from getting caught."

"They're sort of stunned for the first three minutes. This is when the scout ships come in, they swoop down low on the ones that are running to round them up, just like cattle. They move them toward the center of the rest of the people and then the troops go in and grab them."

ALFRED D. RONDER HERMAN G. RAFALOWSKY

General Chairmen Named For Israel Bond Drive

Alfred D. Ronder and Herman G. Rafalowsky have been selected as general chairmen of the 1967 Kingston Area State of Israel Bond Program, it was announced today by the Kingston Area Israel Bond Committee.

Ronder and Rafalowsky issued the following statement: "The people of the State of Israel, survivors of the Nazi terror in Europe, the victims of oppression in North Africa, the Middle East and other areas, are determined to survive and build their country. This is the meaning of the 'Six-Day War.' "We are proud to be associated in the leadership of the Israel Bond campaign, which is dedicated to the economic development and strengthening of the State of Israel. Today there is not yet permanent peace in the Middle East, but Israel has thrown back the threat to drive her people into the sea, and is firmly continuing to build an outstanding democracy in the Middle East. We can do nothing less than help them to the utmost in their noble and heroic endeavor.

"We call on our friends in the Kingston area to participate to the fullest extent with us in the Israel Bond Drive. By your purchase of Israel Bonds, you help to provide jobs, to build homes, to expand industrial production, to develop new irrigation projects, to build new roads, harbors, railways and electric power, and to develop the Negev Desert. There never was a time when Israel Bond investment dollars were more needed than right now.

"We, as Americans, feel a sincere and great pride in the accomplishment of the State of Israel. We have deep satisfaction in the knowledge that Israel has put our financial support to highly productive use. Our answer to the Arab threat to destroy the State of Israel is 'Support Israel, now more than ever before.'"

Ronder and Rafalowsky announce that a series of meetings will take place during September throughout the Kingston area for the purpose of advancing the sale of Israel Bonds. A record sale of $75,000 is anticipated to meet Israel's enormous needs at this time.

Ronder is president of the Kingston Savings and Loan Association, and is a long-time leader in many civic and religious activities in the community. Rafalowsky is past president of Congregation Ahavath Israel and has been for many years associated with the Bonds for Israel program and the United Jewish Appeal drive in the community.

Israel Bonds may be purchased by contacting Ronder at 286 Clinton Avenue or Rafalowsky, 71 Albany Avenue, or any member of the committee. Israel Bonds come in denominations of $100, $250, $500, $1,000, $1,500, $1,800 and up. These bonds are redeemable at maturity or on a visit to Israel. Persons owning bonds from the year 1957 are notified that their bonds are due this year, and payment of principal plus full interest will be made. These persons are also urged to reinvest their matured bonds," the chairmen said.

Weed Out Undercover Cong

Develop Swoop Down Mission in Vietnam

BONG SON PLAIN, Vietnam (AP) — Because the idea is to move in quickly and capture people, the 1st Brigade of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division officially calls them snatch missions.

Working with field forces of the South Vietnamese national police, the troopers conduct an average of two such missions a day in this coastal area 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

They move in with swift air operations that are designed to catch Viet Cong or North Vietnamese regulars who try to mingle with the peasants in the fields or people in hamlets and villages.

The Communists figure they won't be subject to an all-out shooting assault if they blend themselves with the people, and the snatch missions are designed to counter this strategy. Here is what it is like on a typical mission with the 1st Battalion, 12th Cavalry.

Lt. Col. Lloyd R. Riddlehoover of Hot Springs, Ark., the battalion commander, and Maj. Roderick E. Ordway of Chevy Chase, Md., crank up their command helicopter and fly over hostile territory looking for likely objectives. Back at the base, six helicopters with a platoon of cavalrymen stand by for orders.

"When we see a lot of people in the open fields working, we swoop down on them," Riddlehoover said. "I first select a target area by throwing smoke grenades, then helicopters loaded with U.S. troopers and Vietnamese national police swoop down and corral them right where they are, men, women and children.

"The national police then interrogate them and weed out the suspects. We get a lot of intelligence from the ones we

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to remove used plates from the table when there is no maid? A friend of mine always scrapes any food left on the plates into one foot and then stacks the dirty dishes one on top of the other and removes them all at the same time. Is this the right thing to do?—Paula Morrison

Dear Mrs. Morrison: Food must not be scraped off plates in the presence of guests. The plates are removed two at a time, one in each hand.

A Memorial Stained Glass Window

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother and father passed away last year. I would like to donate a stained glass window to our new church in their memory. How should it be inscribed? Should it be "In memory of John and Mary Smith" or "In memory of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith"?—Lucille B.

Dear Lucille: It should be inscribed "In memory of John and Mary Smith."

Parents' Duty to Give News of Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My nephew is to be married. We have not heard a word from my sister about it. Whose place is it to tell relatives about a wedding?—Flora

Dear Flora: Your sister is very remiss in not having told you about the wedding. It is definitely up to the parents of the bride and groom to let relatives know all the details.

Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre Will Make Debut With 'Oh What a Lovely War'

The Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre's premier presentation of "Oh What a Lovely War" will open at The Woodstock Playhouse on Saturday, Sept. 9 and will run thru October 1. This brilliant revue chronicling the First World War, is an entertainment about war. It is not a treatise. It is not a tableau. It is, best of all, not heavy-handed.

"Oh What a Lovely War" is a chronicle of WWI, told through the songs and documents of the period. The revue was the fruit of close cooperation between writer, actor and director. The whole team participated in detailed research into the period and in the creative task of bringing their material to life in theatrical terms.

The result was an entertainment which won the acclaim of audiences and critics on both sides of the Atlantic and the Grand Prix of the Theatre des Nations festival in Paris in 1963. The story is presented by a company of pierrots. The of stoical trench humor and "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

"Oh What a Lovely War" is brilliantly unique for several reasons. First, it treats its topic with an adroit lightness and subtle irony. The events are presented without nostalgia or bitterness. People come and go, expressing the amazement and excitement peculiar to that time. A common stall-keeper removes his picture of the Archduke Ferdinand, after the assassination. All would be well and good, but he unwittingly comments that the picture was done for any reason, because "the fies have done their business on it." He is promptly arrested for high treason. Women of questionable repute sing earnestly that they can make men of boys even if the war can't.

Stallkeepers, Kaisers, counts and whores all play their scenes against a backdrop of war scenes, authentic and succinct in their grey and white stillness. Headlines of the day are flashed on a Newspanel above the stage, and pave the way for the next scene. Scenes hinge upon the newslashes, characters switch roles and costumes with alacrity. The result is a brisk, fast-moving, and fluid experience.

"Oh What a Lovely War," the first play of the season by The Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre, is a unique evening of theatre. Tickets may be reserved at Woodstock Playhouse.

These young players rarely, if ever, engage in the recommended pre-game warm-up in the absence of a coach. For this reason it is doubly important to make sure that they are in prime physical condition. Boys who have had rheumatic heart disease greatly endanger their health by playing in any kind of contact sport, as many have found to their sorrow. Since his parents cannot be with him every minute, they must impress on such a boy the need for him to recognize his limitations.

All sandlot football should be restricted to touch football because the absence of protective gear makes tackling extremely hazardous. Flag football is even safer. In this game, each player wears a flag in his belt. For a down the "tackler" must remove it from the player carrying the ball.

On the sandlot the players should wear sneakers — never cleated shoes. No sharp buckles or pins should be worn. If your boy wears glasses, they should have safety lenses or he should use a protective mask. Preferably helmets should not be worn but if one player wears a helmet, they should all wear one. Dime-store helmets should not be worn because they are costume toys and not protective devices.

After all precautions have been taken some injuries are still bound to occur. Most of them will be minor but you must teach your boy not to try to be a hero. If he incurs even a minor injury he should drop out of the game and not resume play until his injury can be evaluated.

Coaches and school physicians have done much to make football a safer game for your boy in high school or college, but what about those who play sandlot football? The players are usually younger and there is no coach, doctor or referee present and no protective equipment is used. Sandlot football has the advantage over organized school football in that there is less pressure on your boy to overexert and win the day for dear old Siwash.

On the other hand it is estimated that sandlot football accounts for about 22 per cent of all football deaths. Fathers of football-minded youngsters can do a lot to prevent injuries and deaths in several ways. One of the best ways is by acting as coach whenever possible. Teach your boy how to relax and roll as he falls to minimize injury. Teach him, when waiting for the ball, to assume a flexed position, leaning forward slightly with his knees bent but not stiff. He should also learn to keep his head up at all times.

The Mature Parent Why Youth Is Alienated

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

He was 13 when his father lost a status fight in his corporation and had to take a cut in his income.

Was the boy informed of this parental defeat? Don't be silly. What American parent ever confesses himself insufficient to his child. So he remained uninformed of his parents' brave, patient struggles to overcome the failure. He was kept in his "nice" private school utterly unaware of the disciplined economies that kept him there. When insomnia induced his father to seek psychiatric treatment, that, too, was kept the darkest of secrets. Yet submission to such treatment calls upon all one's resources of humility and courage. Accordingly, upon flunking two college courses last mid-term, the boy has been "tripping" via LSD — tripping away as far as he can get from his own shamefully failing and insufficient self.

"The alienated student's use of LSD represents a frustration with reality, a sense of the futility of efforts to alter the external world," says Dr. Seymour L. Halleck, director of student psychiatry at the University of Wisconsin.

I wonder, Dr. Halleck. Are the kids frustrated by reality or by what their never-failing, never-struggling parent tell them is reality?

As to this "external world," I feel pretty "alien" to myself. It's not exactly the kind of world any person of sensibility can delight in. For it is moving through Pay-Off Time — a time when every historical mistake made by the white-man heroes of the western world are flying home to roost on this country's chickenhouse.

If I don't take off for space travel via LSD it's not because I so delight in this uncontrollable external world. It's because I don't cop out on the human race merely because its going gets tough. That's why you stick with it, too. Unlike Dr. Timothy Leary, we're no renegades. We've accepted our membership in a species whose destiny has been struggle ever since it was hatched.

What frustrates the kids are the lies we tell them about reality. Our television commercials alone are enough to frustrate anyone with their disparities between reality and fairy tale fiction. You never get dirty cleaning your house. If you use somebody's mouthwash, you're assured of success and a happy sex life. You can "come on down" to sunny Florida any time you feel like it with the help of your credit card. No, sir. If the kids are rejecting membership in their struggling species, it's because their elders feel obliged to pretend they do not belong to it, either.

Home-Fashions-Features

Back-to-School In Fall Plaids And Tweeds

Kindergarten kids to campus cut-ups will be attending classes in fashion this fall—dressed to the teeth.

American women of every age are becoming increasingly fashion-conscious through exposure to women's features in newspapers, magazines and on television and radio.

The hemline debate drew everyone into the act. And interest in fabric, silhouettes and color followed naturally.

For this season, says the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry, back-to-school togs will be bright in color, smooth in fabric and the silhouette will be varied.

Colors are sun bright even in northern cities—orange, red, sharp greens, Persian blue and white. Darker favorites are navy, brown and forest green.

Fabrics are flatter—less fuzzy and less textured—but they do remain lush and soft. And there is continued use of fur fabrics.

Shetland tweeds, plaids and checks in new color combinations are outstanding. And diagonal monotonies are exceptionally attractive for dress-up styles when fur collars and cuffs are added.

For school and sportswear pile fabrics, fleeces, chin-chilla, melton, corduroy and velveteen are smart and practical.

The shapes of suits and coats for the back-to-school set, both knee-high and tall and proud types, run the gamut from A-line to straight-line. There are also many three-quarter and seven-eighth lengths, often with attached hoods. Pockets are patch, slit, slant or flap.

Closings are single- or double-breasted or asymmetric—but made important by the use of unusual metal buttons, buckles, toggles or giant zippers. And belts are big on the scene.

There's a wide fashion choice for the '67 school belle but, to be "in," she must keep her hemline short. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

THE COMPLETE LOOK, co-ordinated in color and fabric, is highly favored for going back to college this fall. For juniors there is the smart three-piece costume (left). The coat has the new big zipper closing, stand-up collar, slant pockets and is pile-lined. The skirt is in matching fabric with a turtle-neck sweater and a metal belt. Co-ordinated costume (right), coat over shift, is a hallmark of the junior back-to-college wardrobe. The coat of large check fabric favors an A-line, low-waisted silhouette with single button closing and self fabric belt. The shift, gently shaped, contrasts in fabric. Menu Suggestions

For a fall supper treat, prepare and serve this Swiss Cheese Sauce which is excellent with peas or corn. In a 2-quart saucepan melt ¼ cup (½ stick) butter; stir in 3 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Remove from heat; gradually stir in 1½ cups milk. Return to heat; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes. Add ½ cup shredded Swiss cheese; stir until cheese melts. Add to 2 packages (10-ounce each) frozen peas or corn, cooked and drained. Makes 8 servings.

This cheese Pepper Salad is delicious anytime of year but it's especially good to serve during the Fall when green peppers and red apples are so plentiful. Take advantage of this supply and serve it often. Parboil 3 medium whole green peppers about 5 minutes. Drain, cut in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Refrigerate. Marinate 1 cup diced unpeeled red apple, ¾ cup diced Cheddar cheese, ¼ cup diced Swiss cheese and ½ cup chopped celery in ¼ cup Italian-style dressing at least one hour. Fill peppers and serve on curly endive. Yield: 6 servings.

Looking for a hot appetizer recipe that's fun to serve? Try Deviled Deckers. For 36 appetizers, in a small bowl blend together - can (4 ½ oz.) deviled ham, 2 cups (½ lb.) shredded Swiss cheese and 2 teaspoons grated onion. Spread on 12 slices day-old bread to make four triple-decker sandwiches. Trim crusts from each sandwich; cut each into 9 cubes (hold together with wooden picks). Place on a shallow baking pan and bake in a preheated 450 degree oven 3-5 minutes until heated through.

THE COMPLETE LOOK. co-ordinated in color and fabric, is highly favored for going back to college this fall. For juniors there is the smart three-piece costume (left). The coat has the new big zipper closing, stand-up collar, slant pockets and is pile-lined. The skirt is in matching fabric with a turtle-neck sweater and a metal belt. Co-ordinated costume (right), coat over shift, is a hallmark of the junior back-to-college wardrobe. The coat of large check fabric favors an A-line, low-waisted silhouette with single button closing and self fabric belt. The shift, gently shaped, contrasts in fabric.

Back-to-School In Fall Plaids And Tweeds

Kindergarten kids to campus cut-ups will be attending classes in fashion this fall—dressed to the teeth.

American women of every age are becoming increasingly fashion-conscious through exposure to women's features in newspapers, magazines and on television and radio.

The hemline debate drew everyone into the act. And interest in fabric, silhouettes and color followed naturally.

For this season, says the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry, back-to-school togs will be bright in color, smooth in fabric and the silhouette will be varied. Colors are sun bright, even in northern cities—orange, red, sharp greens, Persian blue and white. Darker favorites are navy, brown and forest green.

Fabrics are flatter—less fuzzy and less textured—but they do remain lush and soft. And there is continued use of fur fabrics.

Shetland tweeds, plaids and checks in new color combinations are outstanding. And diagonal monotones are exceptionally attractive for dress-up styles when fur collars and cuffs are added.

For school and sportswear pile fabrics, fleeces, chin-chilla, melton, corduroy and velveteen are smart and practical.

The shapes of suits and coats for the back-to-school set, both knee-high and tall and proud types, run the gamut from A-line to straight-line. There are also many three-quarter and seven-eighth lengths, often with attached hoods. Pockets are patch, slit, slant or flap.

Closings are single- or double-breasted or asymmetric—but made important by the use of unusual metal buttons, buckles, toggles or giant zippers. And belts are big on the scene.

There's a wide fashion choice for the '67 school belle but, to be "in," she must keep her hemline short.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

PULLOVER DRESS in cotton knit by Smartee (left) answers the question of what to wear back to school for fall '67. A-shaped, long-sleeved and regimental-striped in red, yellow, navy and white this fashion is in a class by itself. The contemporary school-girl look (right), cleverly conceived by Junior House of Milwaukee, combines a bright yellow broadcloth shirt with a navy cotton homespun suit. Brass buttons fasten the cardigan jacket and the front-paneled skirt that hides a culotte.

Menu Suggestions

For a fall supper treat, prepare and serve this Swiss Cheese Sauce which is excellent with peas or corn. In a 2-quart saucepan melt 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter; stir in 3 tablespoons flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Remove from heat; gradually stir in 1 1/2 cups milk. Return to heat; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes. Add 1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese; stir until cheese melts. Add to 2 packages (10-ounce each) frozen peas or corn, cooked and drained. Makes 8 servings.

This cheese Pepper Salad is delicious anytime of year but it's especially good to serve during the Fall when green peppers and red apples are so plentiful. Take advantage of this supply and serve it often. Parboil 3 medium whole green peppers about 5 minutes. Drain, cut in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Refrigerate. Marinate 1 cup diced unpeeled red apple, 1/4 cup diced Cheddar cheese, 1/4 cup diced Swiss cheese and 1/2 cup chopped celery in 1/4 cup Italian-style dressing at least one hour. Fill peppers and serve on curly endive. Yield: 6 servings.

With man's progress in the air industry come the complications of the sonic boom. An example is the new SR-71 bomber of the Strategic Air Command which flies at more than three times the speed of sound and operates at altitudes in excess of 80,000 feet. Its thunder will be heard across the nation in areas indicated above, where descent and climb-out for mid-air refueling may cause sonic booms. The single line between the darker marks represent the actual refueling paths, flown at subsonic speed, therefore not creating sonic booms.

Warner's New Look Approved

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new look of Warner Brothers—Seven Arts was previewed this week. Audience reaction: favorable. The Hollywood press corps has long been accustomed to trooping out to Burbank for functions presided over by Jack L. Warner, sometimes called "The Last Tycoon."

The Warner speeches were one of the hazards of covering the film scene, since he enjoyed rambling far afield in search of wisecracks, most of them non sequiturs.

Most of his fellow pioneers died in office or were pushed out of the business; Warner

Reagan Aide Quits

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The chief architect of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's controversial economy program was free for national political duty today if a Reagan-for-president campaign develops.

Philip M. Battaglia, 32, who was Reagan's election campaign chairman, quit Monday as the governor's executive secretary to return to private legal practice in Southern California.

chose recently to relinquish his 44-year hold on the studio. The aggressive new firm of Seven Arts bought his share of Warner Brothers and assumed charge of the company last June 14. It was an entirely different scene when the new studio management was introduced on Stage 1 at the Burbank lot this week. The man in charge is Kenneth Hyman, a lean, handsome 38, New York-born, but with a trace of British tones from his service in England as a film producer.

Hyman is not exactly a "Horatio Alger" story, since his father happens to be Eliot Hyman, president of Seven Arts. But the younger Hyman also has a good film-making record having been connected with at least two smash hits, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" and "The Dirty Dozen."

His brief remarks were notable for their modesty: "I'm not a public speaker...I'll try to be precise and accurate...I don't want to bore you...Unlike his predecessor as studio boss, Hyman didn't attempt a single joke.

While he said nothing revolutionary, his comments offered a good picture of the New Economics of the movie business. Among them:

"We aim to extend total dignity and respect to the picture maker. We want to make Warner Brothers—Seven Arts an attractive place for film creators to come with their projects. We'll do our best to prove to them that we will treat a picture as an entity in itself, not as part of a season's product."

"The studio will function largely as a service organization, offering the best facilities possible for the making of films. Also, we will emphasize that every film must be sold well and advertised well. That's part of the whole picture."

"We must be in the television business. In order to take care of the studio overhead. But our first concern is the cinema image (Jack Warner calling it that) and we'll concentrate on that in the beginning, and then get the TV operation going. We must take first things first."

"We're very interested in giving young people a chance to develop their talent in films, especially in writing. It doesn't take genius to buy a hit play or a best-selling novel. Those pictures are necessary, but we also need to develop original stories. We have a big writer's building, and it isn't as busy as it should be."

be sold well and advertised well. That's part of the whole picture."

"We must be in the television business. In order to take care of the studio overhead. But our first concern is the cinema image (Jack Warner calling it that) and we'll concentrate on that in the beginning, and then get the TV operation going. We must take first things first."

"We're very interested in giving young people a chance to develop their talent in films, especially in writing. It doesn't take genius to buy a hit play or a best-selling novel. Those pictures are necessary, but we also need to develop original stories. We have a big writer's building, and it isn't as busy as it should be."

BOOM AREAS OF A NEW BOMBER

With man's progress in the air industry come the complications of the sonic boom. An example is the new SR-71 bomber of the Strategic Air Command which flies at more than three times the speed of sound and operates at altitudes in excess of 80,000 feet. Its thunder will be heard across the nation in areas indicated above, where descent and climb-out for mid-air refueling may cause sonic booms. The single line between the darker areas represents the actual refueling paths, flown at subsonic speed, therefore not creating sonic booms.

Warner's New Look Approved

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new look of Warner Brothers—Seven Arts was previewed this week. Audience reaction: favorable.

The Hollywood press corps has long been accustomed to trooping out to Burbank for functions presided over by Jack L. Warner, sometimes called "The Last Tycoon."

The Warner speeches were one of the hazards of covering the film scene, since he enjoyed rambling far afield in search of wisecracks, most of them non sequiturs.

Most of his fellow pioneers died in office or were pushed out of the business; Warner

Reagan Aide Quits

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

The chief architect of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's controversial economy program was free for national political duty today if a Reagan-for-president campaign develops.

Philip M. Battaglia, 32, who was Reagan's election campaign chairman, quit Monday as the governor's executive secretary to return to private legal practice in Southern California.

chose recently to relinquish his 44-year hold on the studio. The aggressive new firm of Seven Arts bought his share of Warner Brothers and assumed charge of the company last June 14.

It was an entirely different scene when the new studio management was introduced on Stage 1 at the Burbank lot this week. The man in charge is Kenneth Hyman, a lean, handsome 38, New York-born, but with a trace of British tones from his service in England as a film producer.

Hyman is not exactly a Horatio Alger story, since his father happens to be Eliot Hyman, president of Seven Arts. But the younger Hyman also has a good film-making record, having been connected with at least two smash hits, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" and "The Dirty Dozen."

His brief remarks were notable for their modesty: "I'm not a public speaker...I'll try to be precise and accurate...I don't want to bore you...Unlike his predecessor as studio boss, Hyman didn't attempt a single joke.

While he said nothing revolutionary, his comments offered a good picture of the New Economics of the movie business. Among them:

"We aim to extend total dignity and respect to the picture maker. We want to make Warner Brothers—Seven Arts an attractive place for film creators to come with their projects. We'll do our best to prove to them that we will treat a picture as an entity in itself, not as part of a season's product...The studio will function largely as a service organization, offering the best facilities possible for the making of films. Also, we will emphasize that every film must Behind an impressive facade of federal buildings, graceful parks, and marble monuments lies the city of Washington the tourist never sees; a melange of physical blight, social disorder, and mounting crime.

A new publication issued by the League of Women Voters of the U. S. entitled Washington: The Nation's Showplace? points out that except in Presidential election the District of Columbia's 800,000 residents cast no ballots, elect no government of their own, and have no City Hall to pressure for desperately needed services and reforms. Rather, this pamphlet emphasizes, Congress makes the laws and "rules" the federal city, with apathy and tightly held purse strings.

Washington: The Nation's Showplace? provides a penetrating analysis of the crisis the capital city now faces and chronicles the long campaign still being waged by D. C. residents to achieve a local government of their own, sensitive to their needs and receptive to full citizen participation. The recent reorganization of the city's government may bring about a more effective operation, but it will not provide elected city officials responsible to the residents.

Jeffery from the state of California, found Washington: The Nation's Showplace? so precise and persuasive that he had it read into the Congressional Record on May 23, 1967. Copies of this pamphlet may be ordered from the League of Women Voters of the U. S., 1200 17th St., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20036, or from the League of Women Voters of Kingston, Box 564, Kingston, N. Y.

Zeesh Sweeps Fredericks for County Tennis Title

Wins 6-4, 6-3 Kingston Ace

Pete Zeesh of Kingston met the challenge of a professional with the finest game of his career Tuesday, as he defeated Jim Fredericks in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, to capture the 1967 Ulster County singles championship.

One of the largest galleries ever to watch a tennis match at Forsyth Park applauded both players for what experts described as "some of the greatest tennis ever played in this tournament."

Zeesh dominated the play against the Lake Mohonk Tennis Club professional in both sets. Each time he jumped off to 2-0 leads.

Fredericks rallied to tie the first set at 4-4 but Zeesh came on strong to win. It was the same story in the second set with Zeesh again grabbing a 2-0 lead and winning going away.

Rated Top Performance

Observers who have watched Zeesh over the years said flatly it was the IBM employee's best performance ever on a local tennis court. He was champion in 1965 but missed last year's action because of an injury.

Zeesh put them all together against Fredericks. He harassed the rookie pro with a tremendous serve, solid overhead smashes and rapier like sideline shots. He literally chased his opponent all over the place.

With his game at an all-time peak Zeesh was never in trouble against Fredericks. Pre-match speculation indicated much closer action than developed last night.

Perfect Climax

The Zeesh victory climaxed perhaps the finest singles division ever to compete in the county championship. It also marked the first time area amateurs had played against pros in a local tournament.

The other pro in the field was Dick Streibel, the teaching pro at Calabar Club in Stone Ridge.

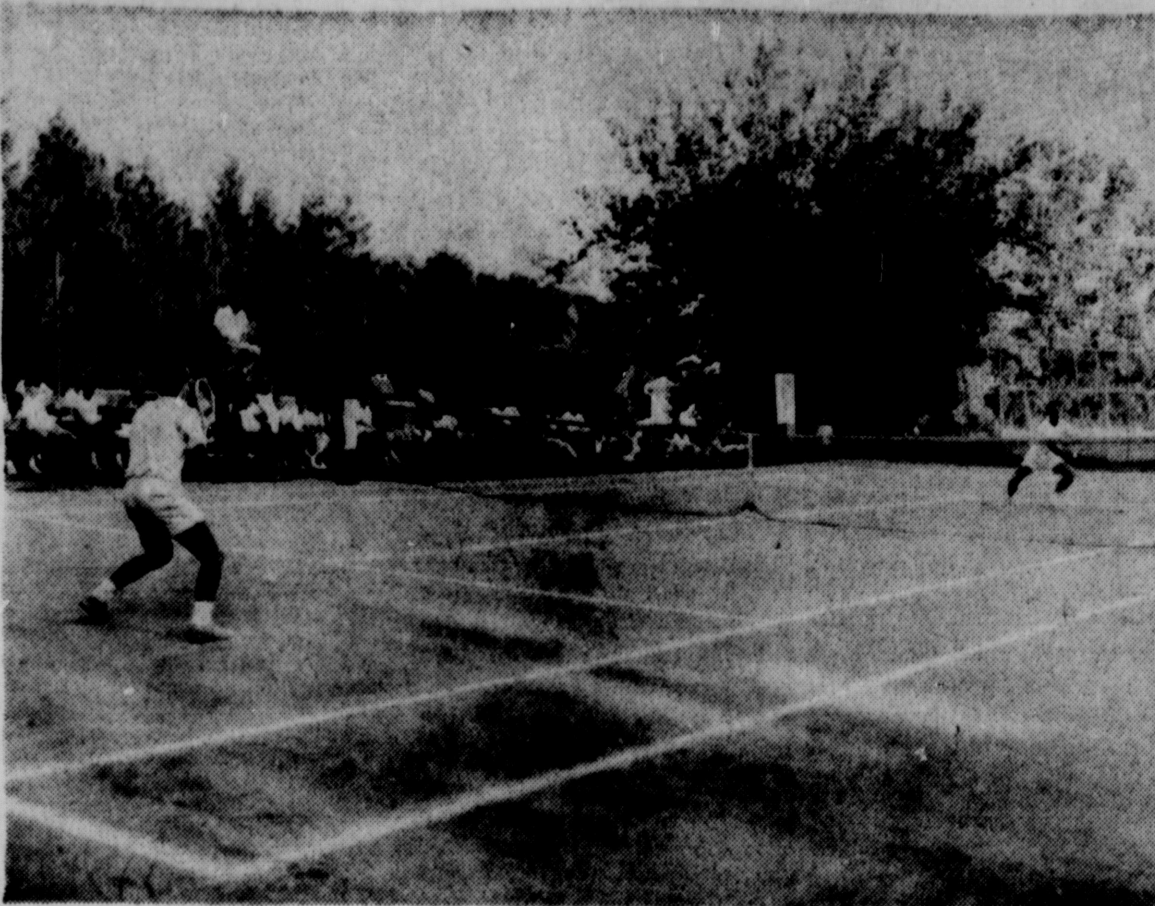

William Spangenberg, the tournament chairman, was enthusiastic about the brilliant singles finals and public reaction to the tournament as a whole.

"It was the biggest and best tournament we've staged," said Spangenberg, "and local fans certainly saw the best tennis in years."

Bills Put Warner On Waiver Lists

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Charley Warner, who returned kickoffs for the Buffalo Bills, was the lone veteran among four players placed on waivers by the American Football League team Tuesday.

Also cut were defensive lineman Bill Wilkinson, of West Texas State, the Bills' sixth draft choice; split end Tony King, a former Findlay College player who was on Buffalo's taxi squad last year, and safety man Howard Finley.

Woodstock Chess Player Captures National Trophy

Fifteen-year-old Eugene Meyer of Woodstock won the 16-and-under trophy at the United States Open Chess Championship at Atlanta, Georgia this month.

He also took two cash prizes — one in a tie for second place among Class A players and the other for winning the second section in the speed tournament.

The speed tournament, with 10 seconds for each move, is held as one-day separate event. In the main competition, 167 contestants played one round a day for 12 days. Grandmaster Pal Benko of New York was the victor, winning 10 of the 12 rounds and drawing two, for a score of 11.

Meyer's final score was 7½ out of 12 and in the speed tournament 7½ out of 9 possible points. He is a member of the King's Knight Chess Club of Woodstock. The club meets every Friday night at Deanie's upstairs.

Schrade Walden Softball Kings At Ellenville

Schrade Walden captured the 1967 Ellenville Softball League championship with a perfect 15-0 record. The team's two pitchers were Matt Chrystal (8-0) and Bob Lasher (7-0).

Chrystal and Lasher allowed only 18 runs between them and combined for five straight shutouts in mid-season (42 1/3 consecutive innings).

Richie Hoffman of the second place Woody's Bar and Grill compiled an 8-7 record and was outstanding in the strikeout department. He set a new record of 167 Ks for a season in 106 innings in 16 games. The previous record of 115 was set by Lasher in 1963.

Percy Greene, a 41-year-old veteran, won the batting crown with a .410 average. Schrade's play Woody's in the best-of-three championship series.

Newcombe-Roche Doubles Champs

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — John Newcombe and Tony Roche, Australia's newly crowned U.S. National Doubles champions, are thinking about a pro tennis future, but they're in no rush to join the play-for-pay ranks.

Newcombe, 23, and Roche, 22, who began playing together as a team three years ago, captured the lone major title which had eluded them by defeating courtmen Bill Bowrey and Owen Davidson 6-8, 9-7, 6-3, 6-3 Tuesday in the windup of the 87th U.S. Doubles at Longwood.

Billie Jean King, a 23-year-old Long Beach, Calif., housewife and Miss Casals, a bouncy 18-year-old, won the U.S. Women's Doubles by defeating Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis and Donna Floyd Fales of New York 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Matt Snell has gained 1,003 yards catching passes and 2,353 yards on rushes during his three seasons with the New York Jets.

Wiltwyck Team Places Second In HRG Juniors

The sons of the Army officers compiled a 236 (best three scores from each club) to Kingston's 239. Dutchess placed fourth with 245 and Powelton was fifth with 247.

Joe Bostic of Wiltwyck was medalist for the day with 75. Ed Byman furnished 77 and Werner Kolin had 87. Jonkowiak led West Point with 76. Reilly posted 77 and Janarone 83.

Buffalo Golfers Win Inter-City Tourney

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Defending champion Buffalo has retained the Williamson Cup as they compiled 30 points Tuesday to beat New York City, Washington and Philadelphia in a one-day inter-city golf tournament for boys under 17 years old.

Second was New York City, Buffalo's runner up a year ago, with 28 points under Nassau point scoring. Washington finished third with 16½ while Philadelphia placed fourth with 15½.

Dennis Conrad, 15, led a field of 20 teen-agers by posting a par 72 at the Country Club of Buffalo.

Next year's competition will be held at Garden City.

She's A Good Shot

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — As far as available records show, Mary White of Denver is the first woman student at predominantly male Colorado School of Mines to win a varsity letter. She got it for marksmanship with the rifle team.

54 Hole Total — 201

Nicklaus 15-Under After 3rd Round 65

RYE, N. Y. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the big Golden Bear with the thirst for golfing gold, crunched out a seven under par 65 Tuesday and grabbed a three-stroke lead in the third round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

Hitting his drives like thunderbolts and sinking 12-foot birdie puts as if they were tap-ins, the blond belter from Columbus, Ohio, went 15 under par for 54 holes with a score of 201.

Three shots back of him at 204 came Gary Player of South Africa, winner of every major pro crown; 44-year-old Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, the reigning British Open king, and Dan Sikes, the golfing lawyer from Florida who was given a new life twice by rain-outs.

Palmer at 205

Strong in contention, four strokes out of the lead at 205.

Between Bennington, Vermont and Williamstown, Massachusetts were Arnold Palmer, the all-time money winning champion who fired a 67 in a threesome with Nicklaus and Dandy Doug Sanders; Bob Charles, the left handed former British Open champion, with 71, and Frank Beard, the Kentuckian who twice this year sank putts on the final hole for victories over Palmer, shooting a third round 70. Sanders shot 69 for 206.

Mason Rudolph, the bespectacled Tennessean who has led or shared the lead for five days with three days rained out, skied to a 75 for 209.

Murders Course

The 210-pound Nicklaus murdered the 6,573-yard par 72 Westchester course which was still soft after heavy weekend rains.

Outthitting Palmer 20 and 30 yards, he didn't have a bogey.

Wins 6-4, 6-3 Kingston Ace

Peter Zeesh of Kingston met the challenge of a professional with the finest game of his career Tuesday, as he defeated Jim Fredericks in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, to capture the 1967 Ulster County singles championship.

One of the largest galleries ever to watch a tennis match at Forsyth Park applauded both players for what experts described as "some of the greatest tennis ever played in this tournament."

Zeesh dominated the play against the Lake Mohonk Tennis Club professional in both sets. Each time he jumped off to 2-0 leads.

Fredericks rallied to tie the first set at 4-4 but Zeesh came on strong to win. It was the same story in the second set with Zeesh again grabbing a 2-0 lead and winning going away.

Rated Top Performance

Observers who have watched Zeesh over the years said flatly it was the IBM employee's best performance ever on a local tennis court. He was champion in 1965 but missed last year's action because of an injury.

Zeesh put them all together against Fredericks. He harassed the rookie pro with a tremendous serve, solid overhead smashes and rapier like sideline shots. He literally chased his opponent all over the place.

With his game at an all-time peak Zeesh was never in trouble against Fredericks. Pre-match speculation indicated much closer action than developed last night.

Perfect Climax

The Zeesh victory climaxed perhaps the finest singles division ever to compete in the county championship. It also marked the first time area amateurs had played against pros in a local tournament.

The other pro in the field was Dick Streibel, the teaching pro at Galabar Club in Stone Ridge.

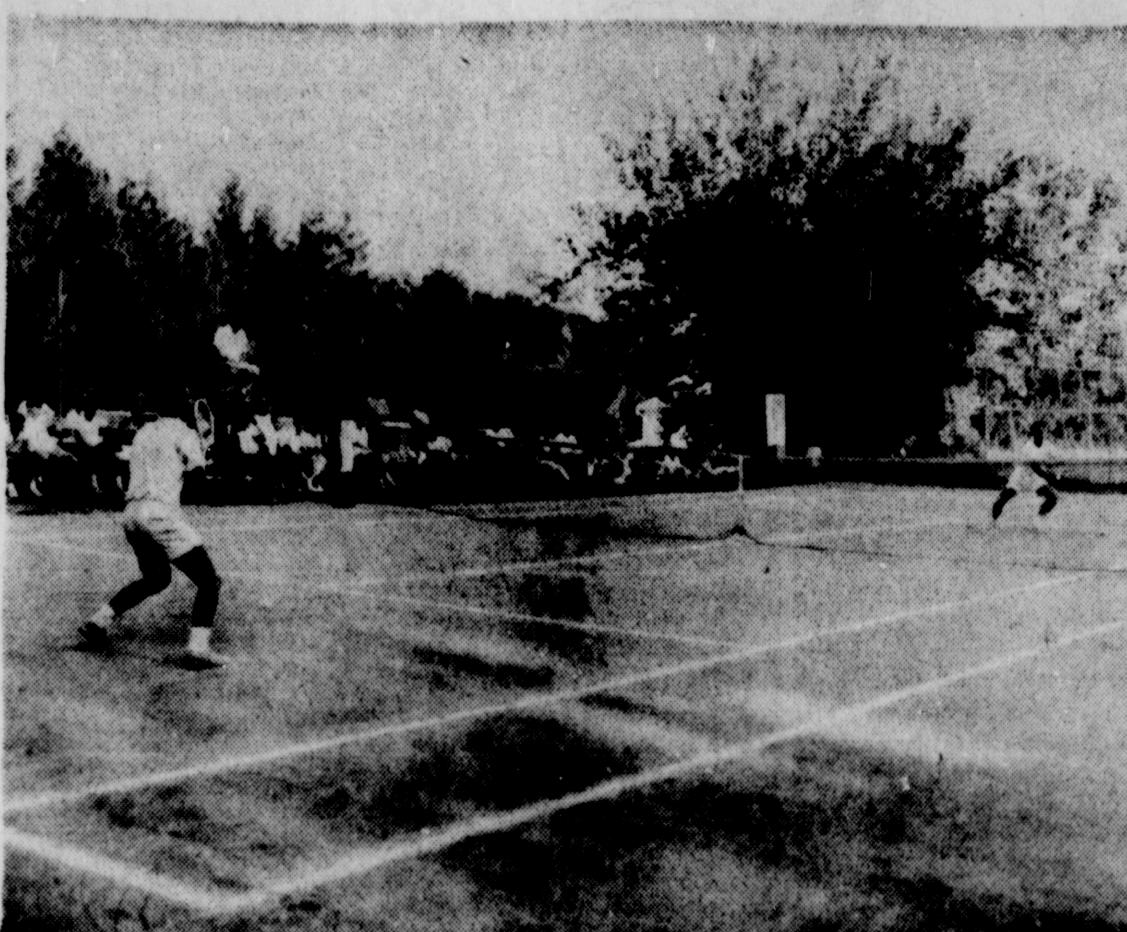

William Spangenberg, the tournament chairman, was enthusiastic about the brilliant singles finals and public reaction to the tournament as a whole.

"It was the biggest and best tournament we've staged," said Spangenberg, "and local fans certainly saw the best tennis in years."

Bills Put Warner On Waiver Lists

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Charley Warner, who returned kickoffs for the Buffalo Bills, was the lone veteran among four players placed on waivers by the American Football League team Tuesday.

Also cut were defensive lineman Bill Wilkinson, of West Texas State; the Bills' sixth draft choice; split end Tony King, a former Findley College player who was on Buffalo's taxi squad last year, and safety man Howard Finley.

Wiltwyck Team Places Second In HRG Juniors

The sons of the Army officers compiled a 236 (best scores from each club) to Kingston's 239. Dutchess placed fourth with 245 and Powelton was fifth with 247.

Joe Bostic of Wiltwyck was medalist for the day with 75. Ed Byman furnished 77 and Werner Kohn had 87. Jonkowiak led West Point with 76. Reilly posted 77 and Jananone 83.

Buffalo Golfers Win Inter-City Tourney

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Defending champion Buffalo has retained the Williamson Cup as they compiled 30 points Tuesday to beat New York City, Washington and Philadelphia in a one-day inter-city golf tournament for boys under 17 years old.

Second was New York City, Buffalo's runner up a year ago, with 28 points under Nassau point scoring. Washington finished third with 16½, while Philadelphia placed fourth with 15½.

Dennis Conrad, 15, led a field of 20 teen-agers by posting a par-72 at the Country Club of Buffalo.

Next year's competition will be held at Garden City.

Nicklaus 15-Under After 3rd Round 65

RYE, N. Y. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the big Golden Bear with the thirst for golfing gold, crunched out a seven under par 65 Tuesday and grabbed a three-stroke lead in the third round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

Hitting his drives like thunderbolts and sinking 12-foot birdie putts as if they were tap-ins, the blond belter from Columbus, Ohio, went 15 under par for 54 holes with a score of 201.

Three shots back of him at 204 came Gary Player of South Africa, winner of every major pro crown; 44-year-old Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, the reigning British Open king, and Dan Sikes, the golfing lawyer from Florida who was given a new life twice by rain-outs.

Player, a cold little precisionist making hardly an error and De Vicenzo, the popular 44-year-old Latin, both had 68s while Sikes, suffering from what he calls over-exhaustion, struggled home with a 70.

Palmer at 205

Strong in contention, four strokes out of the lead at 205.

Sanders shot 69 for 206.

Mason Rudolph, the bespectacled Tennesseean who has led or shared the lead for five days with three days rained out, skied to a 75 for 209.

Murders Course

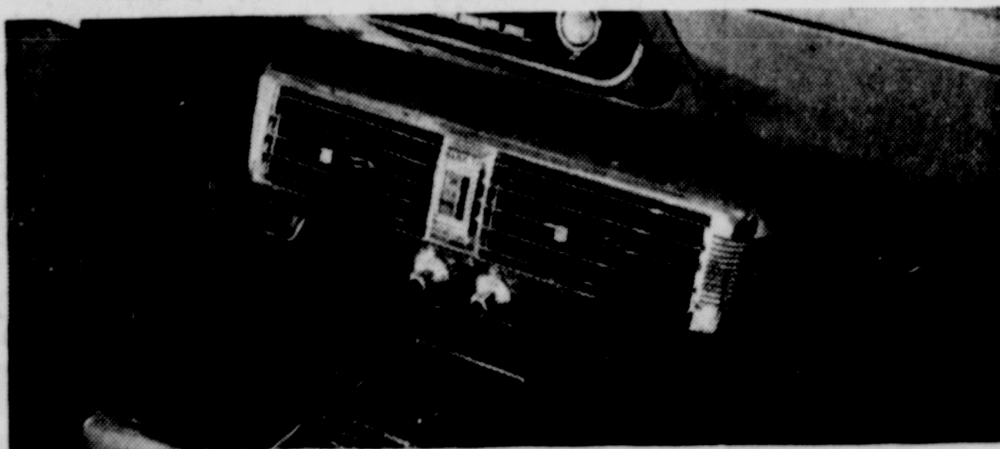

The 210-pound Nicklaus murdered the 6,573-yard par 72 Westchester course which was still soft after heavy weekend rains.

Outthumping Palmer 20 and 30 yards, he didn't have a bogey.

Working Press

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Bill Reddy, a veteran Syracuse sports editor, was rumormongering about Mike Ferraro's future in one of his recent columns.

Quoting another man, Reddy wrote: "It must be," a man remarked, "that Pacific Coast League pitching isn't as tough as that in the International. I see by the Sporting News that Ferraro, who hit .244 for Syracuse this season, started off at a .349 clip when he was sent to Spokane."

"Generalizations like that don't always hold up," said Reddy. "A change of scenery often helps a player for a time, sometimes until the new pitchers find out how to handle him."

"In Mike's case," Reddy adds, "he started to hit better than ever for Syracuse when he was sent west and the Chiefs haven't had a slick fielding third baseman to compare with Ferraro since Don Wert played here briefly en route to the Detroit Tigers."

"I'm inclined to believe that Mike's hitting was affected by something that never was revealed while Mike was here," Reddy goes on. "It was a line drive off Ferraro's bat, during batting practice in Buffalo, that hit Chi Chi Olivo in the eye and knocked the big relief man out of baseball for the year."

"For more than a month after that, Ferraro didn't seem to swing the bat as confidently as he had," says Reddy.

The tipoff on Ferraro's future with the New York Yankees should come shortly after Labor Day. If Mike is brought back to Yankee Stadium after the Pacific Coast League season, he still is in the Yankees future book. If he isn't called back, the future looks ominous.

The feeling here, however, is that Mike Ferraro is still pretty big in Yankee third base plans.

WHO'S GOING TO HOLD George Svirsky, the one-man cheering section for the New York football Giants now that an Associated Press sports editor survey revealed that pro football has passed major league baseball in reader interest. . . . George, of course, knew that all along. . . . Football experts are touting Coach Tom Cahill's Army squad as the strongest in the East. . . . Paul Gardiner, a Little League coach at Saugerties, writes to put in a plug for David Fuller, who batted .839 for the 1967 season, highest reported to date. . . . Says Mr. Fuller: "We of Saugerties LL are mighty proud of David. He was picked by the Moose Club of Hudson to play in the Small Fry series. Against Kingston Moose Club he went '3 for 3' last year and repeated with a home run, the only earned run of the game." Gardiner notes that "David's .839 was the highest batting average ever compiled in the Saugerties LL." Regrettably, we were unaware of David's brilliant accomplishments. The Saugerties LL never got around to reporting its scores to this newspaper.

WE HEREBY NOMINATE the sports staff of the New York Post for the Gold Award in Sports for their unflagging zeal in trying to get Wes Westrum canned. They already have Alvin Dark, late of the Kansas City Athletics, measured for a Met suit on the specious grounds that Mrs. Joan Payson, the Mets owner, has high personal regard for Dark.

There is no denying the fact that these are not happy days for Westrum. But, we ask, could anyone else have done better? But baseball history eschews such rationalizations. The manager is always more expendable than 25 ball players.

The seven-game set against the Cubs this weekend in the Windy City could be a disastrous experience for the Mets, unless Jack Fisher and Ron Seaver can deliver.

We think the Mets have decided to finish the season with Westrum. But these plans are always subject to change. Didn't Charles O. (for Owner) Finley fire Dark at 5:30 a. m.?

Boyer Hero With Fifth Grand Slam

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Clete Boyer wasn't having one of his better nights. But with the kind of season Atlanta's veteran third baseman is having, even his errors turn out well.

Boyer made one of his rare errors in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Pittsburgh took a 3-2 lead against the Braves. Then in the bottom half of the inning, with Atlanta going to their bench for pinch hitters, Boyer climaxed a rally with his fifth career grand slam home run.

That gave the Braves a 7-3 victory and made a hero out of the potential goat. "I was looking for redemption instead of glory," said Boyer. He got it with his 23rd homer.

Boyer's two-base throwing error set up Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring single in the top of the eighth, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati shut out Philadelphia 1-0, New York blanked St. Louis 2-0, San Francisco pounded Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston topped Chicago 5-3.

Boyer's grand slam was his second this season for the Braves. He has 81 runs batted in, only eight less than Aaron, and 15 more than Torre, the Braves' top slugger.

The Pirates argued long and loud on the call at home plate when Torre scored on Tito Francona's hit with the tying run. Al Luplow, Andre Rodgers and Manager Danny Murtaugh were all thrown out.

End Phil's Streak

Cincinnati used three pitchers—Gary Nolan, Billy McCool and Ted Abernathy—to shut out the Phillies on seven hits. The defeat ended an eight-game Philadelphia winning streak.

Vada Pinson doubled in the seventh inning for the second hit off Jim Bunning and then came around on an infield out and Lee May's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game.

Hal Lanier drove in five runs for the Giants with a triple, two singles and a grounder against breezed on a three-hitter.

Willie Mays, who had scored from second on a wild pitch Monday, raced home from first on a single and whacked his 17th homer as the Giants ended rookie Bill Singer's seven-game winning streak.

Jim Wynn capped a five-run eighth inning rally with his 31st home run—a three-run shot that gave Houston its victory over Chicago.

Joe Niekro had the Astros shut out on five hits going into the eighth but singles by Ron Brand, Julio Gotay, Joe Morgan and Doug Rader produced two runs before Wynn connected.

Yanks Top Red Sox in 20th, 4-3

Clarke's Single, Bouton Stint Thwart Leaders

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox were getting drowsy trying to hit Jim Bouton. Then Darrell Brandon hit Bouton without trying. . . . and Horace Clarke sent everybody home to bed.

As a result, Bouton's marathon mark is intact and the Red Sox are tossing in their sleep.

Clarke's run-scoring single in the 20th inning gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over Boston Tuesday night after the Red Sox had seized the American League lead by winning the doubleheader opener 2-1.

The split left the Sox a scant half game ahead of both the Minnesota Twins, who lost to Baltimore 4-3, and Detroit Tigers, who swept a twin bill at California 4-2 and 2-1.

Clarke's one-out hit in the 20th knocked in John Kennedy, who had singled and moved into scoring position when Boston reliever Brandon hit Yankee reliever Bouton with a pitch.

Bouton, recalled from the minors last week, pitched five innings of three-hit ball to earn his first victory of the season. Five years ago, Bouton was the winner in a seven-hour, 22-inning marathon at Detroit.

In Tuesday night's other AL action the Washington Senators beat Chicago 3-0, dropping the White Sox 2½ games off the pace, and Cleveland edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings.

The Robinson Throw

Steve Whitaker's home run in the 11th after the Red Sox had grabbed a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning, and a spectacular throw by center fielder Bill Robinson kept the Yankees alive in the extra-inning struggle.

Robinson grabbed Reggie Smith's one-out drive in the 17th and doubled Mike Andrews at the plate with an on-the-fly strike. Boston outfielders Carl Yastrzemski and Smith had choked off a New York threat two innings earlier with successive diving catches.

The Red Sox took the first game behind right-hander Jim Lonborg, who fired a three-hitter for his 18th victory and drove in the deciding run with a seventh-inning single off loser Mel Stottlemyre. Lonborg also fanned 11 Yankees to take the league lead with 195 strikeouts.

Brooks Robinson's three-run double with two out in the sixth—the first hit of Minnesota's Dave Boswell—triggered Baltimore past the Twins. Robinson cleared the bases after three walks got Boswell in trouble.

The Orioles added a run in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk by reliever Ron Kline, then weathered a two-run Minnesota rally in the ninth.

Denny McLain fired a three-hitter in the first game and rookies John Hiller and Fred Lasher checked the Angels on eight hits in the nightcap as the surging Tigers ran their current string to 10 victories in 13 starts.

Bill Reddy, a veteran Syracuse sports editor, was rumormongering about Mike Ferraro's future in one of his recent columns.

Quoting another man, Reddy wrote: "It must be," a man remarked, "that Pacific Coast League pitching isn't as tough as that in the International. I see by the Sporting News that Ferraro, who hit .344 for Syracuse this season, started off at a .349 clip when he was sent to Spokane."

"Generalizations like that don't always hold up," said Reddy. "A change of scenery often helps a player for a time, sometimes until the new pitchers find out how to handle him."

"In Mike's case," Reddy adds, "he started to hit better than ever for Syracuse when he was sent west and the Chiefs haven't had a slick fielding third baseman to compare with Ferraro since Don Wert played here briefly en route to the Detroit Tigers."

"I'm inclined to believe that Mike's hitting was affected by something that never was revealed while Mike was here," Reddy goes on. "It was a line drive off Ferraro's bat, during batting practice in Buffalo, that hit Chi Chi Olivo in the eye and knocked the big relief man out of baseball for the year."

"For more than a month after that, Ferraro didn't seem to swing the bat as confidently as he had," says Reddy.

The tipoff on Ferraro's future with the New York Yankees should come shortly after Labor Day. If Mike is brought back to Yankee Stadium after the Pacific Coast League season, he still is in the Yankees future book. If he isn't called back, the future looks ominous.

The feeling here, however, is that Mike Ferraro is still pretty big in Yankee third base plans.

WHO'S GOING TO HOLD George Svirsky, the one-man cheering section for the New York football Giants now that an Associated Press sports editor survey revealed that pro football has passed major league baseball in reader interest. . . . George, of course, knew that all along. . . . Football experts are touting Coach Tom Coughlin's Army squad as the strongest in the East. . . . Paul Gardner, a Little League coach at Saugerties, writes to put in a plug for David Fuller, who batted .839 for the 1967 season, highest reported to date. . . . Says Mr. Fuller: "We of Saugerties LL are mighty proud of David. He was picked by the Moose Club of Hudson to play in the Small Fry series. Against Kingston Moose Club he went '3 for 3' last year and repeated with a home run, the only earned run of the game." Gardner notes that "David's .839 was the highest batting average ever compiled in the Saugerties LL." Regrettably, we were unaware of David's brilliant accomplishments. The Saugerties LL never got around to reporting its scores to this newspaper.

WE HEREBY NOMINATE the sports staff of the New York Post for the Dolt Award in Sports for their unflagging zeal in trying to get Wes Westrum canned. They already have Alvin Dark, late of the Kansas City Athletics, measured for a Met suit on the specious grounds that Mrs. Joan Payson, the Mets owner, has high personal regard for Dark.

There is no denying the fact that these are not happy days for Westrum. But, we ask, could anyone else have done better? But baseball history eschews such rationalizations. The manager is always more expendable than 25 ball players.

The seven-game set against the Cubs this weekend in the Windy City could be a disastrous experience for the Mets, unless Jack Fisher and Ron Seaver can deliver. We think the Mets have decided to finish the season with Westrum. But these plans are always subject to change. Didn't Charles O. (for Owner) Finley fire Dark at 5:30 a. m.?

Boyer Hero With Fifth Grand Slam

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Clete Boyer wasn't having one of his better nights. But with the kind of season Atlanta's veteran third baseman is having, even his errors turn out well.

Boyer made one of his rare errors in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Pittsburgh took a 3-2 lead against the Braves. Then in the bottom half of the inning, with Atlanta going to their bench for pinch hitters, Boyer climaxed a rally with his fifth career grand slam home run.

That gave the Braves a 7-3 victory and made a hero out of the potential goat. "I was looking for redemption instead of glory," said Boyer. He got it with his 23rd homer.

Boyer's two-base throwing error set up Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring single in the top of the eighth, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati shut out Philadelphia 1-0. New York blanked St. Louis 2-0. San Francisco pounded Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston topped Chicago 5-3.

Boyer's grand slam was his second this season for the Braves. He has 81 runs batted in, only eight less than Aaron, and 15 more than Torre, the Braves' top sluggers.

The Pirates argued long and loud on the call at home plate when Torre scored on Tito Francona's hit with the tying run. Al Luplow, Andre Rodgers and Manager Danny Murtaugh were all thrown out.

End Phil's Streak

Cincinnati used three pitchers — Gary Nolan, Billy McCool and Ted Abernathy — to shut out the Phillies on seven hits. The defeat ended an eight-game Philadelphia winning streak.

Vada Pinson doubled in the seventh inning for the second hit off Jim Bunning and then came around on an infield out and Lee May's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game.

Cal Koonce pitched a sharp five-hitter and Ron Swoboda hammered his 10th home run of the year as the Mets blanked the Cardinals.

Hal Lanier drove in five runs for the Giants with a triple, two singles and a grounder against brezzed on a three-hitter.

Willie Mays, who had scored from second on a wild pitch Monday, raced home from first on a single and whacked his 17th homer as the Giants ended rookie Bill Singer's seven-game winning streak.

Jim Wynn capped a five-run eighth inning rally with his 31st home run—a three-run shot that gave Houston its victory over Chicago.

Joe Niekro had the Astros shut out on five hits going into the eighth but singles by Ron Brand, Julio Gotay, Joe Morgan and Doug Rader produced two runs before Wynn connected.

Offensive Line Bills' Problem

BLADELL, N.Y. (AP) — Coach Joe Collier of the Buffalo Bills deliberately created one hole in his defensive line, but he didn't count on the two holes that were created in his offensive line.

Collier opened up the defensive hole by trading end Tom Day to San Diego for running back Keith Lincoln. He did it because he wanted greater depth in the backfield and he felt Remi Prudhomme could step in for Day and do a good job.

He lost some offensive line depth, however, when guard Billy Shaw and split end Bobby Crockett, both starters in 1966, were injured. Shaw tore ligaments in his right leg in the team's first scrimmage and Crockett did the same thing in the team's first exhibition game.

Shaw is expected back for the second half of the season, but Crockett is lost for the year. Collier filled Crockett's spot with less trouble than he took care of Shaw's. The Bills had acquired receiver Art Powell in a four-player, three-draft-choice trade with Oakland, and he stepped right into the job.

Barber to Guard
To fill Shaw's spot, however, Collier had to switch tackle Stew Barber to guard and move rookie Gary Bugenhagen to left tackle.

"Barber's job isn't as difficult as Bugenhagen's," Collier explained. "Barber has seen the position for four, five years, and he knows how the man next to him has worked. Bugenhagen, on the other hand, has had to learn a lot."

These have been Collier's major problems as he prepares the Bills for a run at a fourth consecutive Eastern Division championship. No other American Football League team ever has achieved that feat, and Collier is well aware of it.

"It gets tougher every year," said the second-year coach. "It looks like Miami and Denver will be tougher this year, and they could play a bigger part in determining the champion. We have to stay up for the teams that were down last year and avoid losing to them."

Tennessee has back its star kicker, Gary Wright of Heflin, Ala. Wright made 28 of 29 extra points in 1966 and booted four field goals in seven attempts.

The 2-7 daily double returned $51.40 when Real Cormier won the opener with Lively Monzer, a three-year-old making his initial start, and George Gilmour took the second, a trot, with Uniform Joe ($18.40).

Steve Inokai won the third with Yankee Lowlands at 5-1, and favored Primate came second with the 1-5 perfecta registering at $32.40 payoff.

In Tuesday night's features at tracks in the state: —Mr. Big Time paced a 2:03 mile at Vernon Downs to win the $1,000 feature over S m a s h Rhythm and Runnymede Deacon. Mr. Big Time paid $13.

—Little Cream beat August Port in the $9,500 trotting feature at Saratoga Raceway, turning the mile in 2:03 3-5. Watcheye was third. Little Cream returned $5.20.

—Scotch Duke downed Scotch Bomber in the featured Pace at Roosevelt Raceway and returned $3.60. J. Cruise Greentree was third. Scotch Duke paced the mile in 2:04.

—New Kirk was timed in 2:05.45 in winning the $1,300 pace at Batavia, defeating favored Wither Way with Speedy Car Lith third. New Kirk rewarded backers with $9.20.

Norton Hurls Shutout

Royals Top Subway To Gain Final Round

Royal Grill shut out Subway Grill, 3-0, behind George Norton's pitching Tuesday to sweep their City Softball League semi-final playoff series in two straight games.

Norton scattered eight hits effectively while Royals collected three single tallies off Bill Stokes on the same number of hits.

Royals will meet the winner of the Perry's-Gordon's series for the playoff championship. A wild peg to third base by catcher George Fisher gave Royals a 1-0 lead in the second. Singles by Vince Smedes and Vince Reilly set the stage for Joe Klonowski's perfect bunt and 2-0 lead in the third.

With one out in the sixth, Terry Corkery doubled and rode home on Jerry Woodvine's single to left.

Amato Injured
Rich Amato, Royals catcher, suffered a broken nose and was taken to the hospital. The freak accident occurred with Ron Scheffel at bat. The pitch broke Scheffel's bat and went through Amato's catching mask.

Norton Hurls Shutout

Royals Top Subway To Gain Final Round

Royal Grill shut out Subway Grill, 3-0, behind George Norton's pitching Tuesday to sweep their City Softball League semi-final playoff series in two straight games.

Norton scattered eight hits effectively while Royals collected three single tallies off Bill Stokes on the same number of hits.

Royals will meet the winner of the Perry's-Gordon's series for the playoff championship.

A wild peg to third base by catcher George Fisher gave Royals a 1-0 lead in the second. Singles by Vince Smedes and Vince Reilly set the stage for Joe Klonowski's perfect bunt and 2-0 lead in the third.

With one out in the sixth, Terry Corkery doubled and rode home on Jerry Woodvine's single to left.

Amato Injured

Connecticut Sailor Leads at Rochester

Rules on Bowling Scores

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. William H. Foulk Jr., of Indian Harbor Yacht Club, Greenwich, Conn., goes into today's two-race finale of the Adams Cup Women's North American Sailing Championship with an eight point lead.

Mrs. Foulk, representing the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound, had a first, fourth and second in Tuesday's three races off Rochester Yacht Club, and holds the advantage over second place Leslie Messenger, of the Yacht Racing Union of Southern California.

Today's races climax the three day regatta, in which the best eight women sailors in North America are competing.

The following rules will be in effect for publication of bowling scores during the 1967-68 season:
1) Deadline for submitting scores is 9 a. m., the day following matches. Twenty-four hour deadline for out-of-town teams.

2) Scores must be dropped at central post office (Smith and Cornell) to insure reaching sports department by 9 a. m. No scores shall be left at the uptown office of The Freeman.

3) Carbon copies will not be accepted. Reports must be legible, with full names of bowlers and sponsors.

4) MINIMUM SCORES FOR PUBLICATION ARE 480 FOR WOMEN, 540 FOR MEN, EXCEPT FOR MAJOR LEAGUES WHICH WILL BE 570 AND 500, RESPECTIVELY.

5) Team results will not be published unless there are qualifying scores. A league must have a minimum of six (6) teams to qualify for publication.

6) Qualifying scores and games or points won should be circled by team captains on each sheet.

7) It is not necessary to report all three solos in league's highest series; 200 games, if any, and total will suffice.

Courts Supported by Davis Maintenance of Justice

Davis, today defended the Justice Court system in the county, and stated, "I feel that those who are seeking to abolish our present system of local justice courts are failing to grasp the impact such a move would have on both the social and financial climate of our community."

present Justice Courts with a more centralized District Court system would not, as its proponents claim, better serve the cause of justice in Ulster County, but instead it would tend to slow down the whole judicial process in the county."

Attorney Davis pointed out that he has had many occasions to view the workings on justice courts throughout the county, and he contended that if all of the various traffic and family matters which came before these courts, as well as the hosts of other offenses which are adjudicated by the local justices of the peace, were suddenly dumped into a large District Court, a vast backlog of unresolved cases would develop almost immediately.

Davis also pointed to the fact that the justice of the peace, in many cases, has much firsthand knowledge concerning those who appear before him in court, and because of this, the local magistrate can usually dispense justice more fairly and in a much quicker manner than any larger court could ever do. In developing this argument, Davis said, "Those who must be brought before the bar of justice in our state and county courts are, for the most part, total strangers to the presiding judge, and he must mete out justice solely on the evidence developed during a trial, but the Justice of the Peace may well have the power to impose a sentence based on both the facts of the trial and his knowledge of the defendant's personal background."

Concerning the financial aspects of the controversy, Davis said, "The amount of tax money which must be expended by the Town of Ulster or any other Town in the county for its present Justice Court, is certainly minimal, particularly when one considers the fact that the justice of the peace is not only the Town's judicial officer, but also serves as a member of the Town Board, whereas an infinitely larger and more complex 'District Court' would only assume one phase of the Justice's duties, and at a far greater cost."

Davis concluded by saying that the State has done much in recent years to improve the justice court system through better instruction of justices and other informational programs, and he sincerely feels that if any new efforts are to be made, they should be to further improve the present system, rather than to eliminate it.

County Court Opens Tuesday on 82 Cases

Faced with a criminal calendar of 82 cases, County Judge Raymond J. Mino will convene the September term of County Court at 2 p. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 5. There will be trial jury in attendance.

Although there are 82 cases on the trial calendar, the Court also has a number of cases in which defendants are awaiting sentence as well as Youthful Offender cases, which brings the total criminal matters to a total of 107.

The Grand Jury, which has been in almost weekly session during the summer season, will meet again on Thursday to hear several criminal matters. It is not expected the Grand Jury, which has made several partial reports, will again report to the court until after the opening of the September term.

Several "Huntley" hearings to determine the admissibility of certain evidence at a trial are also scheduled before the County Court will get down to the actual trial of criminal matters.

All cases on the criminal calendar must be answered in person by attorneys with their respective defendants on the opening day of the term. Failure to answer in person on the opening day of the term, without sufficient excuse, may result in a forfeiture of bail and commitment of the defendants.

It is anticipated an additional 25 cases may be added to the criminal calendar when the Grand Jury completes its work and reports its findings from summer sessions to the Court.

In addition to the County Court term, the Supreme Court will also be in session beginning Tuesday, with Justice Lawrence H. Cooke presiding at Part I and Justice R. Waldron Herzberg presiding at Part II.

Trial jurors will report to the County Court at 11 a. m. on Tuesday. At that time those desiring to be excused from service will report excuses to the Court.

Stone House Day In New Paltz Film Recorded

Stone House Day in New Paltz, which attracted several thousand persons, has been recorded on film for the first time this year for educational purposes.

The annual event is also being depicted in the International Arts Dictionary this fall.

Two hundred costumed persons took part in the pageantry held on the Street of the Huguenots where nine houses were open to visitors during early August through the operation of the Huguenot Historical Society and Reformed Church, New Paltz.

The houses, both exteriors and interiors were reported to be in the best condition that they have been during the past century. Work goes on continually by the members of the Huguenot Historical Society in order to preserve the buildings and grounds.

Booklet Reviews 50-Year History Of State Police

The story of the New York State Police from the days a half century ago when troopers patrolled on horseback to the organization as it is today is told in a short history that has just been published.

The 40-page booklet is illustrated with 70 photographs, some dating to 1917 when the original force of 232 troopers underwent a 10-weeks' training period at a camp on an Onondaga County farm.

The history was prepared by the State Police as part of the observance of its 50th anniversary. Copies will be available to visitors at the State Fair at Syracuse this week.

It was at the State Fair in 1917, the booklet recalls, that the original troopers had their first assignment, taking over the security and traffic supervision duties that in former years had been performed by New York City policemen.

The State Police was created with a view of providing the rural areas of the State with a law enforcement agency possessing professional capabilities. Until then, these areas had been dependent for protection upon sheriffs and constables ill-equipped to deal with criminal elements.

The booklet relates the circumstances leading to the founding of the organization, including a holdup and murder in Westchester. The refusal of the local authorities to arrest the culprits, who remained for hours in the vicinity of the crime, resulted in the formation of a committee that directed the campaign for a state constabulary.

The story goes on to trace the progress of the organization through the period of reorganization that began in 1961 with the appointment of Arthur Cornelius, Jr., as superintendent. Cornelius died Aug. 4.

The reorganization was marked by many improvements in administration, supervision, training and working conditions, by the replacement of many old stations with new structures and the realignment of troop areas, by substantial increases in personnel, and by the acquisition of equipment to improve the efficiency of operations, including a computerized communications network.

With these and other improvements, the booklet concludes that the organization reached its 50th birthday with a force better manned, better trained, better equipped and better housed than ever before.

Information Agency in Cairo, receives a degree in Arabic Studies from American University in Cairo. Mr. Bauer is slated to visit Woodstock within a few days. With Bauer (l-r) are David G. Courts Supported by Davis Maintenance of Justice

A local attorney who is seeking the Republican nomination for the office of Justice of the Peace in the Town of Ulster, Sherwood E. Davis, today defended the Justice Court system in the county, and stated, "I feel that those who are seeking to abolish our present system of local justice courts are failing to grasp the impact such a move would have on both the social and financial climate of our community."

The Republican candidate went on to say, "To replace the present Justice Courts with a more centralized District Court system would not, as its proponents claim, better serve the cause of justice in Ulster County, but instead it would tend to slow down the whole judicial process in the county."

Attorney Davis pointed out that he has had many occasions to view the workings of justice courts throughout the county, and he contended that if all of the various traffic and family matters which came before these courts, as well as the hosts of other offenses which are adjudicated by the local justices of the peace, were suddenly dumped into a large District Court, a vast backlog of unresolved cases would develop almost immediately.

Davis also pointed to the fact that the justice of the peace, in many cases, has much firsthand knowledge concerning those who appear before him in court, and because of this, the local magistrate can usually dispense justice more fairly and in a much quicker manner than any larger court could ever do. In developing this argument, Davis said,

"Those who must be brought before the bar of justice in our state, and county courts are, for the most part, total strangers to the presiding judge, and he must mete out justice solely on the evidence developed during a trial, but the Justice of the Peace may well have the power to impose a sentence based on both the facts of the trial and his knowledge of the defendant's personal background."

Concerning the financial aspects of the controversy, Davis said, "The amount of tax money which must be expended by the Town of Ulster or any other Town in the county for its present Justice Court, is certainly minimal, particularly when one considers the fact that the justice of the peace is not just the Town's judicial officer, but also serves as a member of the Town Board, whereas an infinitely larger and more complex 'District Court' would only assume one phase of the Justice's duties, and at a far greater cost."

Davis concluded by saying that the State has done much in recent years to improve the justice court system through better instruction of justices and other informational programs, and he sincerely feels that if any new efforts are to be made, they should be to further improve the present JP system, rather than to eliminate it.

Cyclist Injured In Hyde Park Traffic Mishap

A Hyde Park youth, 19-year-old John T. Nelson of 37 Lawrence Road, sustained lacerations of the left thigh, right arm and knee Tuesday afternoon, when the motorcycle he was riding ran off the road. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Nelson, who was driving east on East Market Street, Hyde Park, failed to negotiate a curve, according to Rhinebeck State Police. The vehicle ran off the northside of the street into a ditch and the operator was ejected over the top of the handle bars.

Trooper John McLean investigated.

Accord Youth Hurt

Gordon Gray, 16, of Accord, was injured at 11:15 a. m. Tuesday when he went out of control and into a ditch off Kyserike Road, Town of Rochester. He was treated at Benedictine Hospital for lacerations of the chin, according to State Trooper Wayne Lawrence of Ellenville. Gray was cited by Trooper C. R. Larsen for failure to keep to the right. The summons is returnable later before Justice of the Peace Abram Smith.

County Court Opens Tuesday on 82 Cases

Faced with a criminal calendar of 82 cases, County Judge Raymond J. Mino will convene the September term of County Court at 2 p. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 5. There will be trial jury in attendance.

Although there are 82 cases on the trial calendar, the Court also has a number of cases in which defendants are awaiting sentence as well as youthful offender cases, which brings the total criminal matters to a total of 107.

The Grand Jury, which has been in almost weekly session during the summer season, will meet again on Thursday to hear several criminal matters. It is not expected the Grand Jury, which has made several partial reports, will again report to the court until after the opening of the September term.

Several "Huntley" hearings to determine the admissibility of certain evidence at a trial are also scheduled before the County Court will get down to the actual trial of criminal matters.

All cases on the criminal calendar must be answered in person by attorneys with the respective defendants on the opening day of the term. Failure to answer in person on the opening day of the term, without sufficient excuse, may result in a forfeiture of bail and commitment of the defendants.

It is anticipated an additional 25 cases may be added to the criminal calendar when the Grand Jury completes its work and reports its findings from summer sessions to the Court. In addition to the County Court term, the Supreme Court will also be in session beginning Tuesday, with Justice Lawrence H. Cooke presiding at Part I and Justice R. Waldron Herzberg presiding at Part II.

Trial jurors will report to the County Court at 11 a. m. on Tuesday. At that time those desiring to be excused from service will report excuses to the Court.

Stone House Day In New Paltz Film Recorded

Stone House Day in New Paltz, which attracted several thousand persons, has been recorded on film for the first time this year for educational purposes.

The annual event is also being depicted in the International Arts Dictionary this fall.

Two hundred costumed persons took part in the pageantry held on the Street of the Huguenots where nine houses were open to visitors during early August through the cooperation of the Huguenot Historical Society and Reformed Church, New Paltz.

The houses, both exteriors and interiors were reported to be in the best condition that they have been during the past century. Work goes on continually by the members of the Huguenot Historical Society in order to preserve the buildings and grounds.

Booklet Reviews 50-Year History Of State Police

The story of the New York State Police from the days a half century ago when troopers patrolled on horseback to the organization as it is today is told in a short history that has just been published.

The 40-page booklet is illustrated with 70 photographs, some dating to 1917 when the original force of 232 troopers underwent a 10-weeks' training period at a camp on an Onondaga County farm.

The history was prepared by the State Police as part of the observance of its 50th anniversary. Copies will be available to visitors at the State Fair at Syracuse this week.

It was at the State Fair in 1917, the booklet records, that the original troopers began their first assignment, taking over the security and traffic supervision duties that in former years had been performed by New York City policemen.

The State Police was created with a view of providing the rural areas of the State with a law enforcement agency possessing professional capabilities. Until then, these areas had been dependent for protection upon sheriffs and constables ill-equipped to deal with criminal elements.

The booklet relates the circumstances leading to the founding of the organization, including a holdup and murder in Westchester. The refusal of the local authorities to arrest the culprits, who remained for hours in the vicinity of the crime, resulted in the formation of a committee that directed the campaign for a state constabulary.

The story goes on to trace the progress of the reorganization through the period of reorganization that began in 1961 with the appointment of Arthur Cornelius, Jr., as superintendent. Cornelius died Aug. 4.

The reorganization was marked by many improvements in administration, supervision, training and working conditions, by the replacement of many old stations with new structures and the realignment of troop areas, by substantial increases in personnel, and by the acquisition of equipment to improve the efficiency of operations, including a computerized communications network.

With these and other improvements, the booklet concludes that the organization reached its 50th birthday with a force better manned, better trained, better equipped and better housed than ever before.

Dear Abby

Widows Not So 'Merry'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Why will a man pick a divorcee over a widow? It's a fact. I am a widow and I've lost out to divorcees time after time, and I have widow friends who have had the same experience. I am not bad looking, and I'm certainly not dumb. I have a nice personality (so I'm told), but for some reason I am not as appealing to men as a divorcee. I should think a widow should have the edge because she is alone thru no fault of her own, but a divorcee is usually alone because she can't hold a man, or else she's fickle. If you can explain why men prefer divorcees over widows, Abby, you're a genius.

WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Sweeping generalizations are unfair and unjust. Many divorcees are alone "thru no fault of their own." Perhaps it is not as easy for a widow to be "merry" as it is for a divorcee to be "gay." Could that be a clue?

DEAR ABBY: There is a well-to-do, socially prominent woman in this community who has the reputation of being a kleptomaniac. She is charming, intelligent, and acceptable and is invited everywhere.

I had heard that she goes into bedrooms of homes where she is a guest and picks up small objects such as perfume bottles and compacts. She even opens the purses of other guests and helps herself to money, handkerchiefs, etc.

I was warned to keep my purse with me when this woman was in the company, but at a dinner party recently I left my purse in the bedroom.

Later I discovered my coin purse, containing $20 was missing. Do I dare accuse her? Should I tell my hostess? Who is responsible for the loss? If you were I, what would you do?

VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: I would neither tell my hostess, nor accuse the woman merely because I had heard she was a kleptomaniac. Forewarned should have been forearmed. Charge it off to experience and next time keep your purse with you. (Meanwhile, don't peddle gossip, either.)

DEAR ABBY: Just as I was about to go out with my date, a girl friend (I'll call her Nellie) dropped by to see me. Nellie didn't make any effort to leave, altho she knew we were going out, so my date asked her if she would like to go along since we were going to a house party and he was "sure" the hostess wouldn't mind one extra.

Nellie jumped at the chance. She stayed all evening, and after the party, my date took me home FIRST because Nellie lived closer to his house. (This was true, but I still didn't like it.)

My question: Don't you think Nellie should have refused to go along with us, since my boyfriend just asked her to be nice? Whose fault was all this?

DEAR BURNED: One should never extend an invitation "just to be nice" in the hope that it will be refused. (Some people never refuse anything.) Your date made a triple error. Inviting Nellie along in the first place. Bringing an extra to a party without first consulting his hostess. Taking you home first.

Avoidance Play Assures Game

The avoidance play does not mean that you avoid playing with someone you don't like. It means to avoid letting the dangerous opponent into the lead.

We don't approve of North's four-spade bid. We like to raise our partner's major suit on most occasions but this time North should have seen that a diamond opening might hurt four spades while the chances were that nothing could hurt him if he played at three no-trump.

Actually, it would take a club lead to beat South at three no-trump but East had bid a diamond and West opened his partner's suit against the spade contract.

Dummy's jack lost to East's queen and East made the good return of a trump. This put matters squarely up to South. He wanted to establish dummy's heart suit in order to discard a couple of his clubs but he also didn't want West in the lead again.

If he simply drew trumps and went after hearts West would be sure to gain the lead with the queen or jack and would undoubtedly lead a club. Of course, South could complain about bad luck with West holding both heart honors but South preferred to make his contract if possible. Therefore South let the trump ride around to dummy and led the king of diamonds. East covered with the ace and South discarded his four of hearts.

After this loser on loser avoidance play it was just a matter of mopping up. East led a second trump. South won in his own hand, played ace and king of hearts, ruffed a heart, course, South could complain about bad luck with West holding both heart honors but LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid trying to force views on others. If diplomatic, gain is indicated. Stress today on how you handle those who try to be unpleasant. Tact is key. Then you gain respect.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends may make unreasonable demands. Be practical, especially where money is concerned. Be discriminating. Means choose the best. Some may try to persuade you otherwise. Be firm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What appears to be opposition may be healthy challenge. Gain allies on home front. Means don't look too far afield. What you need is closer than you imagine. Family member co-operates.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Recent pressure due to lift. You can review methods, ambitions.

Key is to make intelligent compromise. Don't permit pride to throw you for loss. Potential is great. Live up to it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Interest in matters hidden highlighted. Means you could become involved in something of a mystery. Money enters picture. But this represents investment of another individual.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pressure indicated in area dealing with legal questions, marriage, partnership. Home problems come to fore. Adjustment obviously necessary. Handle apparent dilemma in mature manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Keep resolutions concerning work, health, recreation. Obtain balance. Break away from restrictions. Express yourself. Some relatives appear envious. Don't brood.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Be creative. Spend to build special project. Invest in your own ideas, abilities. Recent setbacks should not be cause for discouragement. Shake off tendency to be lethargic.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are embarking upon a cycle which could include marriage, an addition to the family, greater prosperity.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for CANCER, LEO, VIRGO. Special word to PISCES: follow through on hunch.

Eddie — He's crying 'Peanuts, ten cents a bag.'

'Fugitive' Kept Sets On

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "On Tuesday, August 29, 1967, the Fugitive stopped running," intoned the unseen narrator, and Dr. Richard Kimble, cleared of his wife's murder, smiled at the pretty girls at his side and walked into the sunset.

It was Tuesday night's widely heralded wind-up of ABC's "The Fugitive," and while the final pair of programs are unlikely to be candidates for writing awards, they did break television precedents.

Novel for Summer
The two-part episode tried to tie up all the loose ends of four seasons and to satisfy the curiosity of the viewers about how their hero emerged from his jam. It also produced the novel wrap-up in new program-broadcast during the summer rerun doldrums.

The conclusion was hard to pull together, so it's no wonder the final chapter wasn't up to the standards of the rest of the long-running series. No secret was made that the one-armed man was the murderer, so suspense had to come from another area.

Several Ideas
ABC executives tried to figure out a way to use the interest in the end-of-show programs.

"We thought of having the one-armed man arrested and jailed," said Harvey Bennett, West Coast program vice president, "and then, in the last scene, Judd, the lawyer in one of our new series, would come into the cell and prepare to defend him. But we couldn't find any way to work it out."

One stumbling block undoubtedly was Quinn Martin, creator and head of the production company that turned out the departing show, "Judd for the Defense, the new courtroom series, is made by another producer with ties to other film studios.

David Janssen, who played "The Fugitive" for four exhausting years—he appeared in almost every scene—breathed life and sympathy into a thoroughly implausible character.

Perhaps the greatest challenge, however, was handed Barry Morse, cast as the policeman who pursued him relentlessly, obviously a neurotic victim of some compulsion but, at least once was so kind and trusting that the recaptured man could talk him into temporary freedom.

Janssen Fatigued
One thing that made the wind-up shows possible was the fact that Janssen wanted to leave the series and he was impossible to replace. ABC would have liked to continue the show, but Janssen, fatigued, was eager to get into a less rigorous and equally rewarding motion picture career.

Meanwhile, "The Fugitive" is due to start running all over again, as the four years of programs are sold for local station reruns.

'Fugitive' Kept Sets On

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "On Tuesday, August 29, 1967, the Fugitive stopped running," intoned the unseen narrator, and Dr. Richard Kimble, cleared of his wife's murder, smiled at the pretty girls at his side and walked into the sunset.

It was Tuesday night's widely heralded wind-up of ABC's "The Fugitive," and while the final pair of programs are unlikely to be candidates for writing awards, they did break television precedents.

Novel for Summer

The two-part episode tried to tie up all the loose ends of four seasons and to satisfy the curiosity of the viewers about how their hero emerged from his jam. It also produced the novel wrap-up in new program rerun doldrums.

The conclusion was hard to pull together, so it's no wonder the final chapter wasn't up to the standards of the rest of the long-running series. No secret was made that the one-armed man was the murderer, so suspense had to come from another area.

Several Ideas

ABC executives tried to figure out a way to use the interest in the end-of-show programs.

"We thought of having the one-armed man arrested and jailed," said Harve Bennett, West Coast program vice president, "and then, in the last scene, Judd, the lawyer in one of our new series, would come into the cell and prepare to defend him. But we couldn't find any way to work it out."

One stumbling block undoubtedly was Quinn Martin, creator and head of the production company that turned out the departing show. "Judd for the De-finding an eye-witness to the killing was the central theme, but that hardly seemed dramatic enough so the climax was a chase through a deserted amusement park and a fight-to-the-finish atop a high ride—a familiar pair of end-of-show television cliches. What has attracted considerable attention in the industry was giving the viewers a wind-up show. The device attracted publicity and drew oversize audiences. The national Nielsen ratings, estimating the size of the audiences, will be closely studied when they come in, but preliminary checks indicate a lot of homes which usually turn off their sets for summer had them on for "The Fugitive."

Executives presumably are now wondering if the right kind of new programs might attract those millions who are, each summer presumed to be off fishing.

David Janssen, who played "The Fugitive" for four exhausting years—he appeared in almost every scene—breathed life and sympathy into a thoroughly implausible character.

Perhaps the greatest challenge, however was handed Barry Morse, cast as the policeman who pursued him relentlessly, obviously a neurotic victim of some compulsion but who, at least once was so kind and trusting that the recaptured man could talk him into temporary freedom.

Janssen Fatigued
One thing that made the wind-up shows possible was the fact that Janssen wanted to leave the series and he was impossible to replace. ABC would have liked to continue the show, but Janssen, fatigued, was eager to get into a less rigorous and equally rewarding motion picture career.

Meanwhile, "The Fugitive" is due to start running all over again, as the four years of programs are sold for local station reruns.

Child Abuse Cases Change, 11 Groups Must Report Now

Beginning Sept. 1, child abuse cases must be reported by 11 professional groups under a recent change in the State law, Commissioner George K. Wyman of the State Department of Social Services has announced.

An amendment to the law adopted at the last session of the Legislature adds chiropractors, optometrists, podiatrists, Christian Science practitioners, and registered nurses to the list of those required to report, beginning next month.

Persons already covered by the law include physicians, surgeons, dentists, osteopaths, residents, and interns. The amendment requires that cases of child abuse be reported orally as soon as practicable to local social services officials, and that written reports be submitted within 48 hours. The local officials transmit copies of the reports to the State department's central office, which maintains a statewide register to assist in protecting abused children by identifying "repeat" cases.

The law continues to provide immunity from civil or criminal liability that might otherwise result from the submission of reports.

Practitioners who observe cases of child abuse while serving as staff members of a hospital or similar institution must notify the head of the institution or the person designated by him to receive reports.

The law applies to every case where any of the persons specified has "reasonable cause to suspect that a child under the age of sixteen years, brought to him or coming before him for examination, care or treatment, has had serious physical injury inflicted upon him by other than accidental means, or whose condition gives indication of other serious abuse or maltreatment.

The law also provides that the social services official must investigate or cause to have investigated all cases reported to him and offer protective services to the child to safeguard his welfare and to preserve and stabilize family life wherever possible.

Commissioner Wyman said cases of suspected child abuse are being reported at the rate of more than 400 a year, though this figure probably represents only a small fraction of the actual number of cases. He added that he hoped the new legislation will make it possible to help additional children who are victims of parental maltreatment, regarded by many authorities as one of the leading causes of death among children.

Hopes to See Friend?

NEW YORK (AP) — Burton Silverman is en route to Moscow with hopes of renewing acquaintance with his old Brooklyn Heights neighbor, Emil Goldfus.

Goldfus is better known to the world as Col. Rudolf Abel, the Soviet master spy who was exchanged in 1962 for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

"He was a fascinating man... even before I learned he was a spy," recalled Silverman Monday. Before Goldfus' true identity became known the two Brooklyn neighbors became fast friends.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Thursday

Stage Hippie Fun-in at Church

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 400 tattooed artists, architects and religious leaders wearing rope nooses around their necks tried out the "hippie" life of psychedelic lights, discordant music and spontaneous happenings Tuesday night—at a Greenwich Village church.

The happening—officially billed as an "ordeal"—started with a kiss and ended with an order, "Get out!" and a push out the door.

For more than an hour, the participants took turns facing the hot lights of a police line-up, listening to bedtime stories while curled up with stuffed animals on long church pew cushions, and crawling through a blackened simulation of purgatory.

"It was a trip—like what those LSD trips must be like," said one smiling nun as she emerged from the Judson Memorial Church.

Others disagreed. "It's a bunch of people taking themselves seriously about I don't know what," said a rabbi. "If this is a commentary on American life, it's a pretty infantile commentary." Father Francis Houtart of the University of Louvain in Belgium concluded, "It makes you think: 'cause there is no specific meaning you have to find some meaning.'"

As he walked off, Harold Spitznagel, an architect, told his friends, "I think I was put on."

The ordeals were created by members of the church's art program for leaders attending the 1967 International Congress on Religion, Architecture and the Visual Arts.

"The idea was to strip away people's hangups and to expose various aspects of an all-urban culture," explained Hugh Pickett, a church participant.

Men entering the church were especially pleased by their greeting from Sandy Padilla.

"I'm a kisser," she laughingly explained as she put on a fresh coat of lipstick. "No—I'm really a student at New York University."

As each man and woman approached, she said, "I have something for you"—and planted a big kiss on their cheek.

Mrs. Tore Fryhle of Bergen-field, N.J., wife of a minister, was disappointed. "You don't have any men?" she asked Sandy, after watching the girl give her husband a kiss. Sandy replied—by kissing her cheek and sending her on.
